Skinner Puts Blame for Dillard Report on Road's Accountants.

PRAYER FROM THE HILLS ONCE MORE

Justifies Deception Because New Haven Needed Public Sentiment.

Washington, June 4. "Why did the directors make a report to the stockholders to the effect that the New Haven had marketable securities of the Billard company worth $10,400,000 when they were, in reality, of little value?" asked Chief Counsel Folk, for the interstate commerce commission, of William Skinner, a director of the New Haven railroad, whose examination was continued today.

"Have you no auditing committee on the board?"

"No, but we employ certified accountants."

"Don't you know that the accountants said they had not been able to determine the value of the securities?"

"No, I can't speak for the other directors, but as far as I am concerned I took the word of the accounting department."

"Then, so far as these securities were concerned you were merely a rubber stamp director?"

"I did not and could not investigate all of these details. I accepted the report of the accounting department of the value of the securities."

Creation of Sentiment.

"Yes."

"Do you think it was proper to try and influence public feeling in that way?"

"I believe a railroad or other public corporation has the right to create public sentiment in its favor."

"By deception? Do you think it was right to circulate literature purporting to come from the people, when as a matter of fact it was sent out by the railroad?"

"With all the hue and cry against the railroads they must create sentiment in their favor."

"Are they justified in using any method?"

"No, but they must create the sentiment."

Pennsylvania on Board.

CALLERS WAIT AS WILSON GREETS A CRIPPLED BOY.

Washington, June 4.—President Wilson today kept a long line of callers waiting while he left his private office to shake hands with John W. Kern, jr., a son of Senator Kern, who has infantile paralysis and went to the white house on crutches.

EVERY DETAIL OF SPANISH LAW

Will Be Observed in Civil Marriage of Kermit Roosevelt.

THE TWO CEREMONIES

Madrid, June 4.—Because Ambassador Willard desires to observe all the requirements of the Spanish laws in respect to foreign marriages the magistrate of the Buena Vista district will perform the civil marriage ceremony for Miss Belle Willard and Kermit Roosevelt on June 10. The American embassy is situated in the Buena Vista district the most aristocratic section of the city.

When the minister of state learned that the ambassador desired to observe the Spanish law in this respect he suggested the justice should go to the American embassy; but as the embassy is beyond the legal control of the magistrate being technically United States territory, a room has been fitted up in the magistrate's own residence where the ceremony will take place. The formal witnesses doubtless will include Eduardo Dato, the Spanish premier; the Marquis of Lem, the minister of state; Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador in Paris, and Col. Roosevelt.

The religious service will take place at noon the next day in the chapel of the British embassy. The chapel is in a pavilion in the embassy grounds. Rev. Dr. Samuel Watson, pastor of the American Protestant Episcopal church in Paris, will perform the service, assisted by the Rev. Herbert Brown, chaplain of the British embassy in Madrid. The wedding party will proceed from the ambassador's house to the church in auto-

UNABLE TO FIND THOSE MILLIONS

Man Who Made Big Bequests in Will Didn't Have the Wealth.

ESTATE IS IN DEBT

New York, June 4.—David R. Moffatt, railroad builder, at the time of his death March 18, 1911, rated as a multimillionaire, died comparatively poor, if property and securities left by him in New York are to be taken as a fair basis of estimate.

The report of the appraisal of Mr. Moffatt's estate filed in the transfer tax office showed that by his will he had made bequests of several millions of dollars whereas the estate is now indebted to the National bank of commerce for $100,000 due on a loan amounting to $200,000.

Mr. Moffatt's property in New York was appraised at $15,877.75. This represented all equity in 175 shares of stocks of the National Bank of Commerce which with other collateral put up to cover a $150,003 loan made by the First National bank of New York. Other collateral consisted of 1,000 shares of stocks of the First National bank of Denver and securities of a Chesapeake Beach resort. The appraisers declared these securities were nominal.

Dr. and Mrs. Winters and Cooper were arrested May 30 on the conspiracy charge.

PRISONER ENDS LIFE TO ESCAPE MURDER PENALTY.

Dayton, Ohio, June 4.—The dead body of Arthur Fowler, a British subject, found guilty yesterday of the murder of John Jeanes, was found in the county jail early today. Fowler had secured a strap and hanged himself to the bars in his cell. During his trial an effort was made to save Fowler on a plea of insanity. A recommendation of mercy had saved him from the electric chair and he was to have been given a sentence of life imprisonment by the court within the next few days.

NEW ANGLE IN PROBLEM NOW

Washington, June 4.—Prospects of an attempted blockade of Tampico by Huerta gunboats took the position of chief interest in Mexican affairs here today and administration officials informed of the latest development only in news dispatches declined to indicate their policy, although they informed Admirals Badger and Mayo of the situation.

It was considered significant, however, that the state department immediately after Tampico fell into the hands of the constitutionalists announced that all Mexican gulf ports were declared "open" and that was accepted as a clear interpretation that no blockade would be caused.

Flies Cuban Flag.

The steamer Antilla bearing arms for Carranza, and which has aroused the present situation, flies the Cuban flag. What the United States would do should Huerta gunboats attempt to interfere with her, officials declined to say or indicate.

Whether the United States ships would permit the Antilla to land her cargo, now that the embargo on arms is again in force, was another complicating feature, to which the officials here did not attempt to offer any explanation.

One of the foreign ministers in Mexico City advised the embassy of his country here today that Huerta regards the receipt of the recently landed cargo of arms as strengthening his position with the constitutionalists, but that it had not changed the directors' attitude toward mediation.

Held for Ransom.

The Spanish minister at Mexico City advised Mr. Riano, the Spanish ambassador here, that constitutionalists were continuing to exact enforced loans from Spaniards and in some cases were holding Spaniards for ransom and reporting the captives held by the brigands.

Rafael Zuburan, Gen. Carranza's representative here, said the constitutionalist chief had received the latest com-

PAYS BACK $1,000 FOR EACH DOLLAR BORROWED.

Newburgh, N. Y., June 4.—Through a promise he made forty years ago that he would return a thousand dollars for every one of fifty dollars advanced him for a prospecting trip to the west, John Patten has notified Mrs. Jos. Kampe, a widow living here, that he was preparing to send $50,000 to her. Mr. Patten was the son of John Patten, who conducted the Pacific hotel in Greenwich street, where he became acquainted with Mrs. Kampe and made the unusual promise. She had forgotten the matter until she received the message yesterday that told of the fortune that awaited her. Mrs. Kampe's husband was a tailor here.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF INDIANA FOLK

ONE HUNDRED THERE

New York, June 4.—Fears were expressed today by the Christian and Missionary Alliance, which has about a hundred missionaries in various parts of China, for the safety of several men and women known to be in the towns pillaged and burned by the Chinese brigand, White Wolf.

At the monastery of the Tibetan lamas, which White Wolf followers set fire to, was a missionary named Kauffman, who came from Missouri. Mrs. Heupberg, of Boone, Ia.; Miss Kennon, of Ohio, and J. P. Rommen, of Indiana, also were believed to have been at the monastery mission.

Other Americans known to have been in missions said to have been destroyed by White Wolf are Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Christie, Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Ruple, of Philadelphia; Rev. and Mrs. Diehl, of Bowling Green, Ohio, and Rev. and Mrs. Snyder, of Indiana.

TWELVE OF SHIP'S CREW ARE BURIED

CORTEGE IS NOTABLE

Quebec, June 4.—Twelve of the crew of the steamship Empress of Ireland, who perished in the St. Lawrence disaster, were buried here today with fitting ceremony. The funeral procession, moving to the music of military bands, passed between double rows of sorrowing spectators. Everywhere flags were at half mast.

Services were held in the two churches—a Roman Catholic, where five of the bodies lay, and the Anglican cathedral, where there were seven dead. The duke of Connaught was officially represented by Captain Bullon, his aide de camp. Sir Francis Langelier, lieutenant governor, and members of the cabinet attended in person. Mayor Drouin and the council followed the cortege in the ranks of which were several Canadian Pacific railway officials.

SCHLEY'S OLD FLAGSHIP.

Cruiser Brooklyn, Once Headed for Scrap Heap, Goes to China.

Philadelphia, June 4.—The cruiser Brooklyn, which has been stationed at the local navy yard for nearly ten years, and which at one time was ordered to the scrap heap, will sail soon for China to take her place as flag ship of the Asiatic squadron. The Brooklyn was Admiral Schley's flag ship during the Spanish-American war and led the fighting when he Spanish fleet was destroyed at Santiago. The ship was struck about twenty times by shells and her sides still show where the blows were received.

Several years after the war the vessel was sent to the Philadelphia navy yard where she was put out of commission. About a year ago work was begun on the vessel and she was completely overhauled. Today she is one of the best and fastest cruisers in the navy.

TARRYTOWN NOW POSTS SENTRIES

PREPARE FOR CLASH

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 4.—In anticipation of the arrival here some time before Saturday of an army of several hundred members of the Industrial Workers of the World to follow an announced plan to hold a public demonstration against the arrest of thirteen of their number last week, Sheriff Doyle today assigned special deputies to sentry duty on all principal roads leading into Tarrytown. At the first appearance of a large number of suspected demonstrators, the sentry is instructed to notify the Terrytown police that they may be prepared to maintain peace when the band reaches the village.

Alexander Berkman, a leader of the demonstration, while visiting the White Plains jail yesterday, where the thirteen prisoners are held, who were arrested last Saturday, declared that it is a fight to a finish in Terrytown for free speech. While Berkman and several followers were at White Plains four young women scattered hand bills in Tarrytown denouncing John D. Rockefeller, jr., for his attitude toward the Colorado mine strike and Village President Frank R. Pierson for attempting to curb free speech and prevent the holding of public meetings.

The announcement of the Rev. E. J. Cates of the Methodist church that he would meet Berkman in a debate on the church yard Saturday resulted in a storm of protests yesterday and Mr. Cates was urged by his nine fellow members of the village ministerial alliance to withdraw the invitation. This Mr. Cates did, although he declared he hoped to meet Berkman in debate in New York city at some later date.

The thirteen prisoners will be given a hearing before Judge Morehouse on Saturday and Berkman and others of their friends have announced that they will demand the right to attend the trial.

It required most of the forenoon to fill the jury box. The singer accuses her husband of being unfaithful to his marriage vows.

POWER TOO GREAT, URGES BROWNELL

Washington, June 4.—Hurrying consideration of the administration anti-trust program in the hope of completing it Saturday or by Monday at the latest, the house today continued general debate on the Rayburn railroad securities bill, final measures on the administration list. Representative Adamson, in charge of the bill, expected to conclude the general debate tonight.

Beginning detailed consideration of the Rayburn bill tomorrow the house may finish the reading of the measure for amendment by Saturday. If the Rayburn bill can be hurried through tomorrow the final vote on the three anti-trust measures will be taken on Saturday. But if the last measure runs into Saturday the recording vote will be put off till Monday.

The three measures as amended by the house in committee of the whole will be taken up in order for a final vote and it is expected an entire day will be spent in roll calls on the bills.

Power Too Great, Says Brownell.

"In this bill the interstate commerce commission practically is given the powers of general managers and of the boards of directors of all the railroads of the country," said George F. Brownell, vice president of the Erie, testifying today before the senate interstate commerce committee on proposed anti-trust legislation which affects railroads.

"Under this bill," continued Mr. Brownell, "the commission would have the powers without the responsibilities, leaving the owners with the responsibilities and without the powers. It would lead to an interlocking directorate more vast than has been suggested as existing today."

Mr. Brownell did not oppose the principle of government supervision of security issues, but argued that the bill would give the interstate commerce commission too great powers.

Started a Filibuster.

This photograph shows the big hole in Erie street, between Hanover and Howard streets, where there is believed to be a serious cave-in of the intercepting sewer that crosses Fort Wayne from the St. Mary's river at Berry street to the Maumee river at a point east of the city limits. The street and sewer department is now excavating down to the sewer a distance of about forty feet below the surface, to find and repair the supposed break. The intercepting sewer has been failing for some time to perform its purposed work. The sinking of Erie street at the place indicated in the picture first called attention to the trouble and the failure of attempts to fill the sink hole led to a belief that sewer had given away.

FOUR MONTHS IN JAIL FOR THIEF

NEWS OF THE POLICE

Four months would be a short time to spend in prison for theft, but it is a long time to spend in the Allen county jail for any crime in the calendar. That is why John Flynn way fairly be regarded as having been severely dealt with for stealing a $20 kodak camera from the Meyer Brothers drug store, corner Calhoun and Columbia street, Wednesday evening. The fellow pleaded guilty and Judge Kerr fined him $20 and costs and added ninety days in jail. W. D. Rea, a clerk in the store, saw Flynn steal the camera and walk out with it. He pursued the thief, caught him before he could get away and aided by "Eddie" Hedges held him until Detective Sergeant Joseph Brennan arrived. When searched at headquarters a dozen cheap pocket knives, evidently stolen from a 10-cent store, were found on Flynn. These he said he had purchased for 50 cents from a tramp he met on a freight train. Flynn was well dressed, claims he has a wife and says he hails from Rochester, N. Y., which last circumstance may account for his weakness for kodaks.

Woman Punished for Theft.

Florence Renhart, a rather pretty and rather silly young wife whose husband is a hard-working man, was fined $10 and costs and given a suspended jail sentence of forty days for stealing a ring from Mrs. Emma May, who conducts a boarding house on Barr street, where the Reinhart's formerly resided. The ring was an heirloom and much prized by Mrs. May. Mrs. Reinhart, who had been in jail for several days since her arrest, apepared in court resplendent in a lot of pink fixings suggestive of a coming-out party of quite different sort. She admitted taking the ring but denied that she stole it. Detective Sergeant Peter Junk, who worked on the case, testified that Mrs. Reinhart strenuously denied to him that she had the ring while at the same time she was wearing it, as the detective plainly could see.

Judge Kerr has taken under advisement until Saturday the case of Albert Heider, a young man charged with forgery. He cashed a worthless check for $5 on the Old National bank, Andy Kelly, proprietor of a saloon on Calhoun street, furnishing the money for the incident. Heider, who spent four years in the Jeffersonville reformatory for burglary, and was not long ago discharged, declares the check was given him without consideration by one "George A. Taylor," of Chicago, whose name is signed to the check. An effort will be made to locate the alleged Taylor in Chicago.

Other City Court Cases.

Ernest Dammeier, came here from the parched and parching desert of Decatur, where Landlord Smith has done all man can do to relieve the public thirst and without avail, and proceeded to wet his cracked whistle. It took many wettings to restore the whistle to its pristine tunefulness and by that time Mr. Dammeier had himself pickled to keep a lifetime. Officer Nick Petgen counseled the pilgrim from Decatur to have a greater solicitude for the care of his souse and was told to mind his business. The rest has been related. One dollar and costs was the assessment and the visiting neighbor went to jail.

Floyd Boschet, drew eleven days for getting drunk and for a similar offense Paul McBride fifteen days. Albert Miller another intoxicated parader was tagged eleven days and Joe Petrock paid $11 for a drunk that initially got him arrested and booked on a charge of petit larceny. A bunch of foreigners had a celebration at a saloon on Wallace street and a ten-dollar gold piece belonging to one of them disappeared. Petrock was accused and arrested.

"NO DRINK" ORDER TO OFFICERS.

Chief of Police Lenz has transmitted through Captain Richerd Kelly the night commandant of police, and Lieutenant Ed Bievelheimer, day commandant, an order to all policemen in the department that any officer convicted of drinking in a saloon while wearing his uniform will be summarily dismissed from the service. The chief has also issued orders that hereafter saloon-keepers must so dispose the screens in the places as to permit unobstructed view of the bar during all hours that it is unlawful to sell, this meaning Sundays, holidays and the time from midnight to 5 o'clock in the morning. Each patrolman will be held responsible for all such violations on his beat.

MRS. PEARL E. LEVI.

San Francisco, Cal., Pearl E. Levi, who was secretly married to Milton J. Levi at Independence, Cal., filed suit against Fannie and Herman Levi for $150,000 damages, alleging that they alienated the affections of her wealthy young husband.

Fannie Levi is the mother and Herman Levi the uncle of Milton Levi, who is the junior member of the private firm of H. Levi & Co. The plaintiff was formerly Pearl Eubanks, of this city.

The complaint filed by Mrs. Levi yesterday recites that Milton Levi deserted her just fifteen days after their marriage because of the persistent importuning of Fannie and Herman Levi, who, she says, did "willfully entice and abduct her husband from her."

Young Levi, the complaint recites, is the owner of considerable stock in the H. Levi Company, and the deserted bride declares that the defendants threatened to destroy the value of Milton's holdings in the banking concern if he did not leave her. It further alleges that Fannie and Herman Levi told the young husband that unless he had nothing more to do with his wife, he would be disinherited by the family.

At the time of filing this action, Pearl Levi filed another suit against her husband, Milton, for maintenance pending the outcome of the trial of the alienation suit. In the latter, she asks for $500 a month.

THE CONVENTION HALL

Announcement was made Thursday morning by Secretary Charles L. Biederwolf, of the Commercial club, that President William M. Griffin has conferred with the board of directors and intends to join with other commercial organizations in the state in an effort to induce the government to name one of its new battleships Indiana, and something definite toward this will be done jointly, it is said, by the commercial bodies of the state within the near future.

Chairman Frank E. Bohn, of the club's membership committee, with other members of the organization, started out at noon Wednesday in the second of a series of club membership campaigns, and it is hoped to exceed the total announced a week ago when twenty-two applications were filed by business and professional men desiring to become affiliated with the club. The desire of the committee is to increase the membership to 1,000 members before the middle of the summer.

The Convention Hall.

A special meeting of the citizens' convention hall committee was held Wednesday evening, and if the sentiment expressed by the delegates avails, Fort Wayne will have a modern and beautiful convention hall within the next year and a half. The committee meeting was the first held since the floods of March, 1913, at which time a plan had been launched to ask the city council to appropriate $75,000 bonds to finance the building of the assembly hall. The flood and the attending results caused a delay in the plans.

Maurice C. Niezer, chairman of the club's committee on assemblages, was elected president of the reorganized convention hall committee. Thomas W. Blair was elected vice chairman, with Charles L. Biederwolf as secretary.

SIX PATIENTS IN ONLY TWO WEEKS

ABOUT 'FT. RECOVERY'

"Six patients enrolled during the past two weeks, each in the very first stages of tuberculosis, could be saved without doubt, if Allen county, or Fort Wayne possessed a suitable hospital or open air sanitarium for their care," declared Miss Irene Byron, Thursday. Miss Byron is the office secretary and visiting nurse with the Fort Wayne Anti-Tuberculosis society, and it is safe to say that no person in Allen county is more familiar with the tubercular conditions here and the needs of the victims than is she.

"They all have excellent chances to recover, with careful treatment, and all are now living in the open air constantly and shaping their mode of living, according to the lines prescribed by the physician attached to the anti-tuberculosis staff, but it would be needless to entertain one tiny doubt concerning their ultimate recovery, if we could place each one of them in a hospital treating only such cases."

About Fort Recovery.

A nineteen-year-old Fort Wayne girl who is unfortunately a victim of the disease, but who has excellent prospects to recover, is living in a tent and she has dubbed her temporary place of residence "Fort Rocovery."

"Will you please send me out a flag," asked the semi-weakened voice over the telephone at the anti-tuberculosis headquarters.

"What do you want with a flag?" was the answer.

"I want to float it from 'Fort Recovery'" came the reply, and then Miss Byron got the story of "Fort Recovery."

He seeks this in order that the latter might not be in a position to exert an undue influence in the election of the next pope.

PROHI PLATFORM IS PROGRESSIVE

Party in Indiana Takes Advanced Stand on Many Issues.

THE TICKET IS NAMED

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4.—Sumner W. Haynes, of Portland, was chosen as the candidate for the United States senate and a complete state ticket was nominated by the prohibition state convention yesterday after it had adopted a platform, declaring that the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage is wrong," and that which is morally wrong can never be made legally right or politically wise." The ticket follows:

For United States senator, Sumner W. Haynes, of Portland.

For secretary of state, I. S. Wade, of Lafayette.

For treasurer of state, Oscar J. Current, of Redkey.

For attorney general, Mercer Brown, of Spiceland.

For state superintendent, C. A. Mummart, of Huntington.

For state geologist, B. W. Stoddard, of Indianapolis.

For judge supreme court, Fifth district, S. J. North, of Milford.

For appellate court, Second district, A. B. Kirkpatrick, of Kokomo; I. G. Pollard, of Hammond, and T. E. Ballard, of Crawfordsville.

In addition to the liquor plank, the platform declares in favor of legislation to abolish "white slave traffic;" prohibit child labor; arbitration of labor disputes; the initiative and referendum in legislation; a reduction of all excessive salaries of state and county officials; uniform marriage and divorce laws; adequate pensions for war veterans and government construction of trunk highways.

The platform also states "we are opposed to the withholding of the ballot from any part of our citizenship on account of sex."

A number of places on the ticket were contested and the voting, at times, was spirited.

CITY TO FOSTER PARK SPOONING

Lifts Embargo and Prepares to Encourage the Lovemaking.

BY ARRANGING SEATS

Birmingham, Ala., June 4.—Embargoes heretofore maintained against "spooning" in the public parks of this city have been lifted, whether it be done in the dark or under the electric lights.

Sweethearts who heretofore have been denied the use of the public parks for billing and cooing will not only be permitted the use of the parks, but actually encouraged and assisted by the city commission, which has given specific directions to this effect to the police department.

For several years young men and women have been complaining that their personal privileges of romance were unreasonably restricted in Birmingham, and many protests were lodged with the city commission against interference by the police

Judge A. O. Lane, commissioner of public justice, a broad-minded man with a large family, determined to change the regulations in force. He declares that the city will offer every protection and encouragement to "legitimate spooning" in the parks this summer.

Seek to Encourage Matches.

Judge Lane holds that every one loves a lover and feels that the city especially should encourage love-making and love matches. The police are instructed to watch the parks. Orders are given to stop all really questionable conduct, but the regulation romancing is not to be hindered.

Commissioner of Streets and Parks Weatherly is also a man of large family. He says plenty of benches will be provided in the parks for lovers, that the parks are in more attractive shape this year than ever to provide inviting settings for the encouragement of romance.

He declares the city has no right to regulate love affairs, which is too much like regulating the family; that it is no part of the city to mix up with the human element of "spooning" among young people, which has been going on from time immemorial, but that this should be promoted for the happiness that lies in romance. His department of streets and parks will pursue the policy of "hands off" from these delicate and sacred matters.

Why Should Bachelor Object?

President George B. Ward, of the city commission, is a bachelor. While he has made no official announcement relative to the new policy, he is a recognized beau and "catch," and it is believed he will not interfere with the new move on the part of the city to make Birmingham the haven of those whose lives are largely influenced by the romantic element.

Mrs. Wilson Searight, head of the welfare department that protects and assists young girls, declares she is wholly in love with real lovers, sweethearts and early marriages, but she does not fully comprehend what is meant by "spooning." However, she believes the new policy of protecting lovers is all right in principle as well as in judgment and she will do her part to help them.

Well Known Farmer Had Lived in County for Forty-Six Years.

THE OTHER DEATHS

Fred Thiele, sr., aged eighty-seven years, a prominent retired farmer, died at 4 o'clock Thursday morning at his home in Washington township, five miles northwest of the city. His death was due to senility and followed an illness of several months. Mr. Thiele had been a continuous resident of the county for forty-six years.

MUNCIE WILL SOON BE DRY.

Court Upholds Validiay of Recent Option Election.

Muncie, Ind., June 4.—Muncie, a city of close to 30,000 population, will be without saloons after next Saturday, according to the ruling yesterday of Judge Frank Ellis in the Delaware circuit court in which he upheld the validity of the option election here, March 9, last, when the city voted "dry" by a majority of 462.

The "wets" contested the election on the ground that it was illegal because voting machines were used and that the "drys" did not get a majority of the voters that appeared at the polls. They contended that 497 voters, gave their names to the poll claims and entered the voting booths, yet failed to register a vote and for that reason declared that the "drys" did not get a majority.

Under the ruling the 29 saloons of the city will close their doors Saturday night and they will remain closed for two years, unless the "wets" are successful in their appeal to the supreme court. It was said an appeal would be filed at once.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

Fort Wayne Contractor Protests Kendallville City Hall Award.

Kendallville, Ind., June 4.—J. W. Goodall & Sons, Peru, Ind., were awarded the contract for the construction of Kendallville's new municipal hall at a contract price of $27,850 at the regular meeting of the city council.

The successful bidder is the firm that has just completed the building of the DeKalb county court house at Auburn.

Henry Hilgeman, Fort Wayne, for $29,997; Beers-Offut Construction company, Fort Wayne, $29,550; E. J. Blotkamp, Kendallville, $32,990; Indiana Engineering and Construction company, Fort Wayne, $27,846.

These figures show the bid of the successful firm is $4 higher than that of the Engineering Construction company, which was represented here by H. P. Moran. When the award was announced Mr. Moran demanded to know why his bid, which was the lowest of the five, was not accepted. No reason was given, the committee claiming the right to reject any and all bids. Mr. Moran declared the treatment as not fair and threatened to serve an injunction on the city to hold up the work until a satisfactory reason was given why the lowest bid was not accepted. No such action has been taken as yet, however.

CAN READ WHAT "MOVIES" SAY.

Warsaw Lad Trained to Lip-Reading Can Interpret Photo Players.

Warsaw, Ind., June 4.—When Mr. and Mrs. J. Regenos, grandparents of seven-year-old Allen Dale Regenos, South Union street, suggested that the three of them "take in" a moving picture show at Indianapolis they did not know what a treat was in store for them.

Ordinarily they enjoy moving pictures, but to be told exactly what the actors of the silent play are saying to each other and to be told by their own little grandson, who is deaf, was a treat quite out of the ordinary.

Allen Regenos has been attending the Indiana State School for the Deaf at Indianapolis. He has made rapid strides in speech and especially lip reading. His talent in the latter is such that he can tell from the formation of the lips what one is saying most of the time and the photo plays are a source of great amusement to him. The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Regenos who reside near Claypool.

UNIQUE WEDDING GIFT.

Miss Good, of Huntington, Writes a Song for the Bride.

Huntington, Ind., June 4.—Blanche Good, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Good of Huntington, has received wide notice in New York newspapers and music journals for having composed "The Legend," which was dedicated to Miss Lydia Butler and was played at her wedding.

The composition was Miss Good's wedding gift to her friend, and although the wedding was one of the largest of recent New York weddings, the unique gift attracted as much attention as the costliest gown.

Miss Good yesterday completed her first year at Smith college, Northampton, Mass. She will spend the summer in New York where she has a reputation as a musician. On June 17 she will play before the New York Musical association.

YOUNG PRISONER WANTS TO DIE.

Hartford City, Ind., June 4.—Ralph Mullin, 19, son of James Mullin, laying out a fine for intoxication in the county jail, attempted to commit suicide when he drank a quantity of disinfectant fluid. I'll hang myself tonight."

JUDGE YAPLE AT LAGRANGE.

(Lagrange Democrat-Call.)

"The main address of the day, delivered by Hon. Carl Yaple, of Fort Wayne, jurge of the superior court of Allen county, was a masterful effort. Those who knew of Judge Yaple's record expected a great speech from him and none were disappointed. It was historical and patriotic, beautiful in diction, and held the closest attention of the large audience until the close. Probably no better address on a similar occasion was ever delivered in Lagrange, many pronouncing it the finest oration of the kind they had ever heard. No brief synopsis that we might give here could do the speaker justice, and the entire address would be too long for publication in these columns."

Yes—but far more important is the effect of food on body and brain.

Grape-Nuts

is not only a delightfully appetizing food, but is remarkably rich in nutritive values.

Made from whole wheat and barley, Grape-Nuts retains all the nutrition of these grains, including the mineral salts—phosphate of potash, etc.—so necessary for growth and repair of the delicate brain and nerve tissues, but which are so often lacking in ordinary food.

Ready to eat from the package, with cream or milk and a sprinkle of sugar—

PROPER THING NOW IS TO PEEL OFF SOILED SKIN

Those who abhor sticky, greasy, shiny, streaked complexions should religiously avoid creams, powders and rouges during the heated days. There's no need for them, anyway, since the virtues of mercolized wax have become known. No amount of perspiration will produce any evidence that you've been using the wax. As it is applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning, the complexion never looks like a make-up. Mercolized wax gradually takes off a bad complexion, instead of adding anything to make it worse. It has none of the disadvantages of cosmetics and accomplishes much more in keeping the complexion beautifully white, satiny and youthful. Just get an ounce of it at your druggist's and see what a few days' treatment will do. Use like cold cream.

Another effective summer treatment—heat tending to cause wrinkles and flabbiness—is a skin-tightener made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Its use (as a face bath) leaves no trace.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Acts 6:1-10.

1 And in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily ministrations.

2 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

3 Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business.

4 But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

5 And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas a proselyte of Antioch:

6 Whom they set before the apostles: and when they had prayed, they laid their hands on them.

7 And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith.

8 And Stephen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia and of Asia, disputing with Stephen.

10 And they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spake.

Going After Foreign Trade

It is interesting to note that the national foreign trade convention held in Washington a few days ago gave enthusiastic endorsement to the plan of the resourceful Secretary Redfield, to establish government commercial attaches at stragetic points in foreign countries as an aid in the extension of American export trade. The business men left congress in no doubt whatever as to their approval of the plan.

The commercial attache question was considered very carefully by the house committee on appropriations when it made up the legislative appropriation bill last January. The committee approved it and inserted it in the bill as reported to the house. The great majority of the house members were also in favor of it, but it was new legislation, and therefore out of order in an annual appropriation bill. Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, although asked not to do so by a number of his colleagues, made a point of order against it and it was therefore stricken out of the bill.

In the senate, however, the item has been reinserted, and while the $150,000 asked for by Secretary Redfield has been cut to $100,000, it is believed this will be sufficient to provide a test of the plan, for it will make available the services of eight or nine attaches of this sort. They will make a first-hand study of foreign markets, foreign demands and foreign conditions, and place the information thus gained at the service of American business men. American export trade is as yet only from 4 to 5 per cent. of the country's total trade, while it is 45 per cent. of the total trade of Germany and 50 per cent. of that of Great Britain. If Secretary Redfield's plan "works" effectively, a few years should show a marked increase in export business for America.

Fort Wayne has noted little recent manifestation of activity in the campaign against smoke, launched with much vigor and prosecuted with considerable diligence a year or more ago, but results at St. Louis should serve as a stimulus to the good work here. St. Louis is now proclaiming itself as the smokeless city, the inspector declaring that the smoke nuisance has been practically eliminated there. We may still have hope.

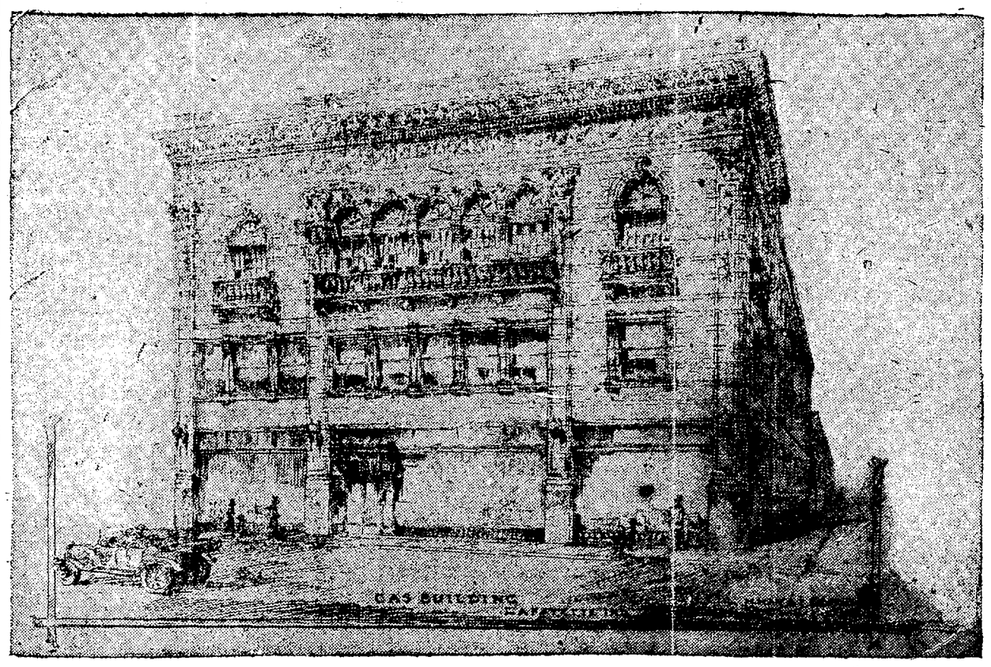
Encouraging results are already noted in several instances as a result of the milk depot for babes established but a few days ago at the First Presbyterian church. The work is a splendid one, and no Fort Wayne mother with a babe that is not perfectly healthy and well-nourished should neglect to avail herself of the skill and the expert advice that is thus placed freely at her command.

Two men under arrest at South Bend, charged with flirting with the new policewoman in that city, declare they will fight the case on the ground that she urged the flirtation. While neither bears the name of Adam, it is plainly evident that each of the accused is a lineal descendant of that historic gentleman of old.

Records made up from the news dispatches make it pretty clear that the motorcycle is rapidly crowding the automobile and all other classes of vehicles far to the rear as a producer of business for the surgeon, with the undertaker now and then sharing in the harvest of disaster.

The decree of Police Chief Lenz just issued to the effect that any police officer who drinks intoxicants while on duty will be summarily dismissed from the force very naturally raises the suspicion that some of them have been doing it—and who would have believed it possible?

Indiana Lighting Company to Have New Home In Handsome Building at Lafayette.



The Indiana Lighting company of Lafayette, operating one of its largest branch plants here under the management of S. E. Mulholland, has awarded contracts for the construction of a new and modern building at Lafayette, and when the structure is completed it will be occupied as the home office of the company.

PERPETUAL POLITICS.

We suppose that the people will have to be reconciled to the beginning this year of the presidential campaign of 1916. Not a move is now being made that is not prompted, at least in part, by motives connected with the great struggle to be staged two years hence. Ambitious statesmen are already laying their pipes or stringing their wires. Combinations and alliances are being suggested having for their object, not the welfare of the country, but the prosperity of this or that political party, and the fortunes of aspiring leaders. Is it not possible that business is suffering, not so much from proposed legislation, as from too much politics?

Certainly business activity is just now more to be desired than political activity. It is more important than men should be at work making a living than getting delegates or framing issues. We have had during the last few years a surfeit of politics. What is worse, many of us have come to believe that commercial and industrial salvation is to be worked out through legislation rather than through individual effort. There are those who would have the people devote practically their whole time to politics. It is from these that we have the demand for frequent—and direct—primaries, and initiative, referendum and recall elections whenever they shall be ordered by a few disgruntled folk. In his recent statement Mr. Roosevelt said that the country could enjoy the right sort of prosperity only under the "policies" of his party. The whole question, as he sees it, is political.

We think that the people may well ask themselves whether they are never to have a chance to tend to their own affairs with the minimum disturbance from statesmen and politicians. There is no reason whatever why we should this year be asked to fight the battle of 1916. We in this country must necessarily pay a good deal of attention to politics—it is one of the prices that we must pay for free government. But that is a very good reason why we should not permit issues or candidates to be forced on our consideration two years in advance of the time when we are to vote on them.

PRESS ON OPENING OF CANAL TO TRAFFIC.

"Barge Traffic."

Norfolk Virginia-Pilot: "The Panama canal has been opened to barge traffic and within the last two weeks thousands of tons of freight, delayed in transmission by interruptions of railway transportation in Mexico, have been forwarded to their destinations."

"Serving Mankind."

Hartford Courant: "The canal has already begun its work of serving mankind on commercial lines and a service of this kind is bound to go on as long as man is enterprising and industrious."

"The Cucaracha Slide."

Providence Journal: "If a tug and five loaded barges can make the trip from the Pacific to the Atlantic now it will not be long before the Cucaracha slide in the Culebra cut is sufficiently excavated to permit the passage of ships of any size."

"Next Year."

"More Dredging."

Pittsburg Dispatch: "Some months more dredging will be required, besides which the possibility of more slides must be recognized. But the canal is open to moderately sized and smaller vessels."

"The Culebra Cut."

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: "Delay in clearing the Culebra cut, which has been repeatedly filled by material from the sliding banks, has prevented the passage of the Panama railroad's steamer, but the depth of water is sufficient to allow shallow barges to pass."

"Canal is Open."

New York Times: "Nothing more significant can be said than the words which can truthfully be uttered now, that the Panama canal is open for traffic."

"A HUNDRED MILLIONS IN THE HOUSE TONIGHT"

By HENRY M. WILLIAMS.

The above, the remark of the president of one of our prominent national banks a few weeks ago at the end of a dinner party of twenty business men, as they were coming out of the dining room of the "Anthony hotel," and then added, "those two young men from New York you see going out are worth a hundred millions."

I had observed the large dinner party, a few tables beyond mine, among whom were J. Levering Jones, with many of his traction people, and my remark to the banker, as they filed out of the dinning room was "that means a sale of the "traction company by the Philadelphia owners to the New Yorkers." "No," was the banker's reply, "not necessarily; they met here by chance, not by appointment."

What a lucky thing that "chance" would turn out to be if those "rushing," "pushing," "pulling" New Yorkers should become the owners of our "traction interests," in the place of the mild, easy going, very gentlemenly Philadelphians.

I make the prediction, if the New Yorkers do buy the control, that they will put in five millions additional money, that they will buy the "Decatur interurban," twenty-two miles. and extend it to Portland, twenty-seven miles south, and that they will also buy the lines from Fort Wayne north to Kendallville and Garrett, extending one branch of that still farther north and the other branch east toward Toledo.

But, and "best of all," I predict that they will extend the present splendidly paying line from Lima, Ohio, to Fort Wayne, on farther to Columbia City and Chicago, which will excel even the "Lima" line itself in profitableness. Great things are in store for Fort Wayne, if the New Yorkers take hold, and it is my prediction that they will "buy in," and very soon too, and that Fort Wayne will then take on a new "boom," the like of which we have not experienced yet.

AN "EAST WIND" IN BUSINESS

By HENRY M. WILLIAMS.

Our prevailing southwest winds may appropriately be called "winds of prosperity." They blow, and they blow, from southwest to northeast, the revolution of the earth the cause of them, the cause of that usually prevailing wind direction. They blow, and blow, all the way across country, until they debouch from off the land and spread over the cold, cold waters of our extreme northeast coast, the cold waters of the Nova Scotia-Newfoundland coasts, which can receive, and can condense by chilling, an immense volume of our southwest warm winds.

But it is not unlimited, the amount of hot air those cold waters can receive by condensation, there is a limit to the condensing capacity of that deep, dark cold storage hole, its capacity is great indeed, but not unlimited. The life giving trade winds ("good business" winds) from the southwest blow, and blow, and blow, until at last that cold storage hole is filled up, and over filled up and then at last comes the inevitable "reaction," and the wind "giggs" back. Very greatly to our discomfort out here in the interior it returns as an "east wind."

An East Wind.

That "east wind," moisture laden, attacks us here, there and everywhere along the line, from the Atlantic coast west, and west, and still west, and but for the great obstructing barrier of the Rocky mountains might reach even to California, an illustration of the power of "a reaction."

And who can endure, who, the dreadful discomfort of an "east wind?" The warmest clothing of winter does not suffice to keep one comfortable in the face of that moisture laden, dreaded east wind.

In the Business World.

And so it is in the "Business World," too much business, too many starting new in business, overcrowded and overdone, (succeeding so much of the southwest winds of "prosperity") is inevitably followed by the "reaction," the reactionary, "backactionary" east wind in business, which in the present example of it in the U. S. A., has now about run its course, the "good business" winds are now coming, soon to blow upon us again.

DIES WITH PAROLE IN HAND.

Happiness at Release From Prison Fatal to Aged Veteran.

Leavenworth, Kas., June 4.—"Davy" Truax, 82 years old, died of joy at the state prison here yesterday. "Davy" had been a prisoner 25 years but he was not a convict when he died. He had his parole papers clutched tightly in his hand. The old man, a member of the Ninety-first New York infantry in the civil war, was an inmate of the soldiers' home at Dodge City, when he killed one man and wounded another in a quarrel over liquor. He was sent to prison for life.

He never lost hope. He believed he would be released some day and that he might not be buried in a pauper's grave, he saved $150 from his pension. Tuesday the old man's faith was confirmed when he was notified that he had been granted a parole. Yesterday he was ready to go home. He sat joyously in the prison executive offices waiting for the car which would take him to freedom.

When the car drew up, friends turned to help the aged veteran away. He was cold and inert. The doctors said "Davy's" heart had not been able to bear the strain of his happiness.

ENGLISH GIRL REFUGEE ESCAPES MEXICO UNDER STARS AND STRIPES.

CECILIA PHILBROOK, ENGLISH GIRL REFUGEE FROM MEXICO.

San Francisco, Cal., June 4.—Amongst 40 refugees who arrived here recently via steamer from Mazatan was an English girl, Cecelia Philbrook, who fled Guadalajara under the protection of the American flag.

This is unusual. Generally it is the Americans in Mexico who are constantly seeking the protection of the English flag, not the English who are now gathering under the stars and stripes. The American flag doesn't stand for much in Mexico, according to the refugees who flock out of there to the United States, and who claim that it is a common occurence to see Old Glory spat upon and trampled in the dirt.

The great risks that subjects of the British Isles run in the southern republic is being constantly mistaken for Americans," said Miss Philbrook. "You see our style of dress, mannerisms and general appearance is so similiar that it is almost impossible at times for an Englishman to make the Mexicans believe that he is not an American.

"It became absolutely necessary for me to leave Guadalajara on account of the great danger to all foreigners there and the quickest way out was under the protection of the stars and stripes so I took it."

Portugal's Ex-Queen May Be His Wife

Marquis de Soveral

Lisbon, Portugal, June 4.—If court gossip is true, Amelia, dethroned queen of Portugal, is now the wife of Marquis Soveral, the Portuguese ex-minister. If the former queen is married she has added one more to the long list of the morganatic husbands of Europe. The kaisers mother married Baron von Leckendoff; gossip united Queen Victoria and John Bright; the ex-queen of Naples married Prince Esterhazy, and Dowager Margherita of Italy is said to be married to the Italian engineer, Tererani.

Rheumatism, Uric Acid, Bright's Disease

There's Nothing so Good as USOLINE To Keep Bowels Regular.

The process of digestion and assimilation is continuous, we might almost say timed, and automatic.

If every organ is able to do its work properly, everything goes all right and we are strong and healthy.

But if the even procession is blocked anywhere, then trouble commences.

Now, we nearly all eat at every meal time, generally we eat too much.

But suppose our bowels are irregular, constipated, and that the wastes are not being carried out promptly. What happens? The wastes accumulate, are packed in, becoming a poisoned mass filling up more of the bowels. The whole system is contaminated and we have all sorts of troubles.

This is "Auto-Intoxication," and one most serious result is an accumulation of uric acid, rheumatism, and preparing the way for Bright's Disease.

You don't need physic, purgatives and violent cathartics. Leave drugs alone and simply take USOLINE. It passes right into the bowels and softens the accumulations, lubricates the passages, and causes the movements of the bowels to resume in a normal, healthy, painless, regular way. Constipation disappears and with it the uric acid.

USOLINE is a pure, colorless, tasteless and odorless, mineral oil. Pleasant to take for children as well as adults. Use it to keep the bowels right, and, barring accidents, you are entitled to a long, healthy, useful life.

Try USOLINE, imported only by OIL PRODUCTS COMPANY, New York, and sold by druggists generally. Three sizes, 25c, and 50c. a large bottle, and $1 a three pint tin. Also in capsules, 2 doz. in a box, 50c. Ask or write for printed matter.

Helps Mothers to Bring Up Children

Mrs. Edwin R. Weeks.

Parents and their problems interest and take much of the time of Mrs. E. R. Weeks, vice president of the National Congress of Mothers.

She devotes pretty nearly all her time to subjects which directly bear upon the welfare of those in the home.

She believes that the efficiency of the school and the government depends very largely on the wisdom displayed by the mother in home-making.

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Marquis de Soveral

Lisbon, Portugal, June 4.—If court gossip is true, Amelia, dethroned queen of Portugal, is now the wife of Marquis Soveral, the Portuguese ex-minister. If the former queen is married she has added one more to the long list of the morganatic husbands of Europe. The kaisers mother married Baron von Leckendoff; gossip united Queen Victoria and John Bright; the ex-queen of Naples married Prince Esterhazy, and Dowager Margherita of Italy is said to be married to the Italian engineer, Tererani.

Rheumatism, Uric Acid, Bright's Disease

There's Nothing so Good as USOLINE To Keep Bowels Regular.

The process of digestion and assimilation is continuous, we might almost say timed, and automatic.

If every organ is able to do its work properly, everything goes all right and we are strong and healthy.

But if the even procession is blocked anywhere, then trouble commences.

Now, we nearly all eat at every meal time, generally we eat too much.

But suppose our bowels are irregular, constipated, and that the wastes are not being carried out promptly. What happens? The wastes accumulate, are packed in, becoming a poisoned mass filling up more of the bowels. The whole system is contaminated and we have all sorts of troubles.

This is "Auto-Intoxication," and one most serious result is an accumulation of uric acid, rheumatism, and preparing the way for Bright's Disease.

You don't need physic purgatives and violent cathartics. Leave drugs alone and simply take USOLINE. It passes right into the bowels and softens the accumulations, lubricates the passages, and causes the movements of the bowels to resume in a normal, healthy, painless, regular way. Constipation disappears and with it the uric acid.

USOLINE is a pure, colorless, tasteless and odorless, mineral oil. Pleasant to take for children as well as adults. Use it to keep the bowels right, and, barring accidents, you are entitled to a long, healthy, useful life.

Try USOLINE, imported only by OIL PRODUCTS COMPANY, New York, and sold by druggists generally. Three sizes, 25c, and 50c. a large bottle, and $1 a three pint tin. Also in capsules, 2 doz. in a box, 50c. Ask or write for printed matter.

Helps Mothers to Bring Up Children

Mrs. Edwin R. Weeks.

Parents and their problems interest and take much of the time of Mrs. E. R. Weeks, vice president of the National Congress of Mothers.

She devotes pretty nearly all her time to subjects which directly bear upon the welfare of those in the home.

She believes that the efficiency of the school and the government depends very largely on the wisdom displayed by the mother in home-making.

RICH MEN'S BRIDES HAVE FULL PURSES BUT OFTEN PLAIN FACES.

New York, June 4.—The announcement that Junius Morgan, grandson of J. Pierpont Morgan is to marry Louise Converse, daughter of a Boston composer, offers a distinct novelty in millionaire matings and marks young Morgan as a man of originality.

For, whether it is a passionate wish to be loved "for himself alone" or from the less romantic reason, that money naturally attracts him, the typical young millionaire of today chooses for his wife a girl as nearly his equal in wealth as he can find her—and a girl remarkable for nothing else.

Young Vincent Astor married a girl whose mother is the heiress of a great fortune which she, of course will inherit. William K. Vanderbilt Jr., married Virginia Fair, California heiress who could pretty nearly match him in millions. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gave his heart and fortune to the daughter of Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, a wealthy banker whose financial rating is so good that even John D., Sr., would lend him money if he needed it.

A noteworthy fact about the wives of all these young men is that they are in no way unusual except for the amount of money they represent. You can go into any department store or any factory and see a half a dozen girls their superiors in beauty. Nor has any one of them given evidence of mental brilliancy. It's possible, indeed it's likely, that young millionaires don't want brilliant wives. And they don't seem to be beauty-seekers, either with exception o young Morgan, who is marrying a relatively poor girl.

Generally speaking, I don't believe in the sort of optimism which tries to make men and women contented when being discontented would do them a lot more good. And since I read that the National Manufacturers' association used to pay the salaries of orators over the Chautauqua circuits doling out "cheer-up stuff" I believe in the platform optimism less than ever.

Still the poor young man can find comfort in the thought that the Astors and Rockefellers and Vanderbilts with the millions have not been able to win prettier girls than he may have for the offer of his heart and his faith and a fighting chance of being able to pay the butcher and the baker.

It was poor boy—Paris, tending his flocks on the hills of Troy—who wished for the "most beautiful woman in the world." He got her, though at the cost of a 10 years' war. And today it's the poor young man who wins beauty—and sometimes a 10 years' war along with it. The rich man, to be sure, takes the same chances as to "war," only he has not the compensation of charm and beauty.

GAVE ECXELLENT PROGRAM.

Honor Pupils of European School Receive Medals at Recital.

A number of the advanced pupils of the European School of Music gave a recital before a large audience in Elks hall last evening and the honor pupils, Miss Helene Spindler and Earl Thompson, of this city, and Charles Thornburg, of Auburn, received the gold medals offered by Messrs. A. S. Bond, Charles McCulloch and E. F. Yarnelle for excellence in work. O. F. Dodge, at the head of the voice department of the school, presented the medals at the close of a program highly interesting and finely rendered. The program was unusually interesting and not too long. Emmet Spindler, a lad of a dozen years, played a set of variations by Bellini with accuracy in pitch and altogether so marked an improvement in his year's work that his friends were rightfully enthusiastic about him. Miss Helen Rosebraugh played a Schubert impromptu with real beauty of tone in such admirable tempo and rhythm and with such clearness of runs that she, too, came in for a share of honors. Miss Helen Thomas, of Huntington, has a very beautiful soprano voice which is well placed and true to pitch. She sang very well indeed and responded to an encore. Miss Dorothy Cox, a young violinist with considerable natural feeling for expression and intelligent comprehension of her work, played a Vieuxtemps fantasie in admirable manner, but with some passages not absolutely true in intonation. Miss Leah Gardner, pianist, of Wabash, played in excellent style and with a vigor and a technique that bespeaks the talented as well as the earnest student a Liszt polonaise. Miss Gardner's performance was received with a flattering amount of applause and she played again beautifully. Miss Ethel Doud sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," displaying her sweet and rich toned voice to good advantage and winning approbation for improvement in many ways. Charles Thornburg, another young student, played a de Beriot concerto with every evidence of progress in technical accomplishment and displaying again his innate feeling for musical expression and understanding so noticeable at his performance a year ago when he had had but a few months' study. He is a very promising student. Earl Thompson, the well known baritone, never sang better than at this recital. His voice displayed aside from its naturally melodious quality a highly appreciable development in evenness, breath control and modulation. After a beautiful rendition of "Evening Star" from "Thanhauser" Mr Thompson sang again. Miss Helene Spindler, who had played all accompaniments for the entire program, played a St. Saens etude that for difficulties in technical work is not often attempted by amateurs. However, Miss Spindler's work was anything but amateurish at this recital. Her playing of the etude was superior for its clarity, its rhythm and its style. It was a splendid performance. The program closed with Miss Spindler playing the first movement of the Beethoven concerto with her teacher, George Baillie, at the second piano. Miss Spindler displayed in the Beethoven number a feeling for appreciation of the work itself that was probably the most marked characteristic of her year's work. She had played the Beethoven before with the same high degree of technical finish but not with so beautiful an interpretation as at this time.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"A MILLION BID."

Big Vitagraph Masterpiece at the Majestic Tonight.

"A Million Bid," the five-reel Vitagraph masterpiece, stands absolutely alone in the annals of motion photography. The scene wherein a ship is wrecked is but one of its many thrills. Another is when the young wife is confronted by her first husband, whom she believes was drowned. He comes to her second husband, a world-famous brain specialist, to have his lost memory restored, having completely forgotten the existence of his wife. This wonderful picture had 250 consecutive performances at the Vitagraph theater in New York city. Anita Stuart plays the leading role, and is ably assisted by other famous Vitagraph players. This drama, absolutely unchanged, comes to the Majestic theater today for an engagement of three days. The Gaiety theater, under whose management the picture is presented, has installed a complete moving picture plant in the Majestic theater.

LES MISERABLES,

Famous Photo Play, at the Majestic Next Week.

Paris, if not all of France, was thoroughly ransacked to find actors and actresses who not only had great names in the dramatic world, but also possessed the required fitness, in size, face and form to portray the characters in the most famous photoplay of the age, taken from Victor Hugo's sublime "Epic" masterpiece, "Les Miserables," which is to be presented in this city at the Majestic theater all next week.

In the character of Jean Valjean, M. Henri Krauss, of the Theater Sarah Bernhardt, appears to great advantage. His physique, as well as his genius as an actor, enables him to enact a part beyond the capacity of the ordinary man. A turn of the head, a shrug, a movement of the lips serve in this Hugo piece, the same ends that exaggerated postures and mechanical devices attain in the ordinary picture play. It is noteworthy that not one of the many letters and documents introduced is thrown on the scene, or needs to be. There is, of course, an explanation of each scene, but a person familiar with the story could almost do without the explanation. The interplay of character, the spiritual progress or degeneration of each individual, thousands of delicate emotional reactions, are as clear as they are in the novel itself.

AT THE TEMPLE

The Temple Theater Stock company, playing at the Temple theater, opens this evening with an entirely new production, entitled, "The Man and the Girl," and it is pleasing to note that this bill is directly alternating from the early week play that served to introduce the Temple players to Fort Wayne audiences.

Two rehearsals each day is a portion of the program participated in by members of the Temple Stock company, and this week rehearsals are in progress for next week's plays, "The Wages of Sin," for the first of the week, and "Why Girls Leave Home," for Thursday, Friday, Saturday matinee and night.

The closing performance of "Tom, Dick and Harry," Wednesday evening, drew a well filled house and the advance sale for the new show indicates a good attendance for the opening performance.

AT THE EMPRESS

"Variety is the spice of life"—and that is what the Empress is trying to give the public in respect to the feature films now being run at the theater. Step by step the films are going from a tender love and thrilling story of the strife in a family—then from the western rough life of the plains to—what will it be—or what is it?—"The Ghost."

But what is "The Ghost." Those in the audience at the matinee yesterday had several guesses coming before the film was finished. It was a game of guess as you go.

Everyone will have the opportunity of studying these questions for himself at the Empress tonight and tomorrow, while this interesting film is being shown.

During the intervals of changing films the Empress trio is singing in "its own sweet way" all the popular songs of the day—and is among the many to enjoy the "coolest spot in town."

PIONEER WOMAN ARCHITECT TELLS HOW SHE WON SUCCESS.

FAY KELLOGG, ARCHITECT AND FEMINIST.

(By Nixola Greeley-Smith.)

New York, June 4.—When I called on Fay Kellogg, architect, the other day, she—yes, she, and that's the point of the story—wanted to talk to me about eleven cute little pigs that had just made their bow to society on her farm at Green Lawn, Long Island. And when the pioneer architect of America got through telling me about the little pigs she added:

"And since I saw you last, my Guernsey cow has presented me with a heifer calf. You know for years she has insisted on having only masculine calves."

"I'm glad the Guernsey has become a feminist," I replied. "But I came here because I want you—a feminist who has made good—to tell other women who may be interested just how you blazed your feminine way into the closed profession of architecture. How did you become the pioneer woman architect in the United States?"

"I believe I am that," Miss Kellogg answered, and I couldn't help smiling at the picture of this blue-eyed, alert young woman in the thirties as a pioneer. "After I studied architecture at Pratt institute in Brookyln, where I was born, I tramped the streets for a year looking vainly for someone who would give me employment. Nobody would take a woman. Why, the idea of a woman architect was revolutionary. Finally a Frenchman showed himself daring enough to give me a chance after I had been refused everywhere else. I worked for him a year for $5 a week. Then through a friend I got a chance to work in the office of a big New York firm. I later studied in Paris."

Incidentally one of the fine things about Fay Kellogg, architect—she is also Fay Kellogg, contractor, carpenter and steamfitter—is her sturdy championship of her own sex.

"Have you ever had any trouble with workmen who didn't care to take orders from a woman?" I asked.

"I'd just like to see a man refused to obey an order I gave him." For a moment the woman architect's sweet face had set in a look of contemptuous mastery; and stripped of the secondary characteristics of sex I saw the soul of steel that had overridden laws and the prejudices which are stronger than laws.

Gen. Funston's Great Story, "Memories of Two Wars"

Named to Command Gomezs' Artillery

(In this chapter Gen. Funston continues the story of the terific Siege of Guaimaro. The Cuban rebels had gained one blockhouse inside the town and the Spanish were sweeping the position with a storm of bullets.—Editor.)

CHAPTER VII.

By GEN. FREDERICK FUNSTON.
(Brigadier General of the United States Army.

After Janey's rescue of Devine the garrison tired of sweeping the hill with their fire, and gave us a respite, simply sending in an occesional volley.

In the meantime General Garcia, accompanied by several officers of his staff had reached the hill for the purpose of examining the captured position, one of his orderlies being killed at his side shortly after his arrival on the summit. Owing to the inevitable loss of life involved in the undertaking, the general determined to wait until nightfall before attempting to install a gun in the blockhouse.

We artillerymen recognized the wisdom of this decision, though, maddened by the action of the Spaniards in trying to kill Janney while he was rescuing a wounded man, we could scarcely possess our souls in patience until we could have a chance to blow them out of their blockhouses.

After supper we brought up the old twelve-pounder. A port hole was made on the side bearing on the town and before daylight we were ready for business.

Just as the sun came over the horizon Osgood landed a sheli squarely on the Isabella fortin, and for a couple of hours deliberately shelled that work and others in the vicinity. As always when these fragile blockhouses were under artillery fire, the enemy left the structures and fought in the trenches around them, where only by chance were they liable to suffer casualties from our shells. Here, however, our slight elevation above town gave us some advantage in this respect.

Our infantry supports were well covered in standing trenches on the flanks of the blockhouse, these having been constructed during the night, so that there were no groups to draw the Spanish fire. The result was that the enemy paid little attention to us.

It was finally noticed, however, that once a minute a bullet would come through our port hole, or strike very near it. Some exceptionally fine sharpshooter was giving us his attention.

On one of my runs to the blockhouse to announce the result of a shot, one of these bullets came in the port hole just as I entered, missing me only an inch or two. Several of those serving at the gun had had narrow escapes, and everybody was keeping as much as possible out of the danger zone.

After several unfortunate shots had been made, Osgood stooped over the gun to make on the sight a correction for wind. He had adjusted it satisfactorily, and made the remark, "I think that will do," when all of those near by heard a bullet strike him with the sound like a baseball being thrown against a building. He sank across the trail of the gun, unconscious, and was lifted from it by his horror stricken comrades and hurried down the hill to one of the dressing stations. He did not recover consciousness, and in four hours was dead. The bullet had gone through his brain.

The little group of aliens, fighting in a strange land for a cause not their own, were sore stricken. For a while we did nothing but sit in the blockhouse, well back from the fatal port-hole, and gaze in awe at the spatter of blood on the gun trail and note the devilish regularity with which the missles from the sharp-shooter's rifle whistled past us.

A staff-officer who was in the blockhouse with us had hastened to headquarters with the news of Osgood's certainly fatal wound. It was General Garcia's desire that Cox having served directly under him should succeed Osgood, but Gomez overruled him, and I was from that time in command of the artillery of the Departmento del Oriente.

It was rightly guessed that the sharpshooter was stationed in the church tower, a distant of eleven hundred yards, and I determined to make it my special duty to kill him if I could.

It was subsequently learned that he was an officer using a rifle with a telescope sight. As the gun had not been touched since Osgood sighted it, I ordered the lanyard pulled, and a shell smashed its way through one of the blockhouses. The poor fellow's last work had been well done.

But hit the church tower I could not, owing to the defective ammunition and strong gusts of wind, though I struck the roof of the building within a few feet of it several times.

During the night of this day we brought up one of the two-pounders, cut a port-hole for it to the left of the larger gun, and placed it in position. The projectiles fired by this piece were too small to do much damage, but its accuracy was wonderful, and it had ammunition that had not been damaged. The next morning our friend in the church tower resumed operations, and we promptly went for him. Every shot fired at the tower from the little gun struck it, one shell, as we subsequently ascertained, striking within a foot of the small window from which the officer was firing. They had the desired moral effect, and we had no more trouble with the tower sharp-shooter.

All this while the Cuban infantry had the town closely invested, and from time to time there would be lively fire fights between them and the defenders of the trenches.

Time hung heavily on our hands, but we had some diversions. One night Huntington made a one-hand raid on the town. He crawled through the Spanish lines, roamed unchallenged through the streets, and came back with a fine turkey.

Inspired by this feat, Charles Carlos, Garcia's negro servant, who had known the town well in times of peace, begged his chief for permission to enter and endeavor to obtain a supply of Spanish delicacies from some of the abandoned stores. He wormed his way through the grass, crawled under the barb-wire entanglements, reached the centre of the town, and returning after five hours the exultant negro deposited his cargo at the feet of his waiting and appreciative master, whose friends promptly gathered about to see the result of the raid. By the light of the camp-fire the sack was emptied of its contents, eighteen cans of house paint! (Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons.)

JUDGE MAKES POINT

Judges influenced more by technicalities than horse sense in the interpretation of contracts are inclined to the belief that the ten-day release and the reserve clauses in baseball contracts are not good because they lack mutuality and it remained for Judge Foell in his decision against George "Chief" Johnson, who jumped the Cincinnati club to go to the Kansas City Federals to recognize that the provisions have been incorporated in these playing agreements year after year and have worked no appreciable damage to the players.

The reserve clause is an absolute necessity to baseball and it is contained in the Federal league agreements just as it is in those the magnates of older organizations seek to enforce. It is simply attacked by men who desire to get into baseball to make money as a means to and end to lend the color of justification for repudiating agreements that are at least backed up by moral law and ought to be binding.

Judge Foell's decision was an awful blow to the Federal league as it will make thinking players who are under contract to other leagues hesitate a long time before they hurdle their obligations for a little money consideration that is not worth breaking faith for—even admitting that any amount of money justifies the breach of a solemn agreement.

Imagine the chaotic conditions that would follow the elimination of the reserve clause. Suppose that every player under contract should become a free agent at the expiration of each season. Why, it would wreck the game in a year and the players who are now getting fat salaries would be without employment other than that which afforded most of them less than a tenth of what they are getting under present conditions.

Cobb, Speaker, Milan, McInnis, Collins, Baker, Barry, Mathewson, Marquard and five more of the best pitchers in the game would be on the team of the owners who could put up the most money and the race would be settled in each league before it had started. Gate receipts would not pay salaries and baseball would die.

Ordinarily the people who oppose the reserve clause and other conditions in baseball do not understand them. For instance a youngster breaks into the game in class D. He will likely get $90 to $100 a month for five months in addition to his schooling. Suppose he shows good form and is bought or drafted by one of the major leagues and found in need of experience. He will be sent to class B, where he will get all the way from $150 a month to $200 and if he develops he can go higher where salaries range no lower than $2,500 a year.

In his progress upward he is bound by the reserve clause and if he were not he couldn't possibly advance because no club would take a chance on him unless it was reasonably certain that he would be available when wanted. Once in the majors he can get a salary commensurate with his ability provided that the club to which he is attached can keep him, teach him the art of playing ball and finish him to an extent that he will yield a return on the investment.

Summed up a baseball contract may be technically illegal and hard to enforce under the statutes but the game occupies a peculiar position in its business relations. The game has maintained a plane higher than that of any professional sport ever known to the world. It affords millions of people amusement every year, it affords thousands employment and the man or men behind the clubs are the ones taking the chances.

Players take none. Organized ball forces the payment of obligations of all kinds reaching down to the players in their private debts and when Judge Foell said that the men had been signing year after year with their eyes wide open and that none had suffered injury he recognized the foundation stone of the game and the necessity for its existence.

All owners do not profit in baseball. More than half of them lose and that quota would gladly step out from under if it were not in so deep that it is forced to take a chance on having a couple of good years to break even.

PFEFFER CALLED FIND OF SEASON

HE STARTED HERE

Leslie's Illustrated Weekly in a recent issue paid a handsome compliment to Edward "Big Jeff" Pfeffer and cited instances where his cool nerve and masterly hurling carried him through some very trying situations.

Some well-meant advice that went wrong prevented Fort Wayne from buying this big hurler back from the Denver club where he had been sent by St. Louis.

Pfeffer was recommended to Jack Hendricks by George Huff, then physical director at the University of Illinois, and reported to Fort Wayne in the spring of 1909 and was farmed after a once-over to LaCrosse, Wis., and recalled the next year when he worked in Fort Wayne and his showing was not impressive because he apparently lacked interest.

The next season he was third in the list of winning pitchers in the league and was drafted by the St. Louis Browns and sold to Jack Hendricks at Denver. When he was placed on the market by the Grizzlies Claude H. Varnell was advised by Hendricks not to buy him on account of his physical condition and Grand Rapids took him over. His record there his first season seemed to justify the advice given by Hendricks as he barely won half of his games. This advice was given with the best intentions and was an honest opinion.

Last season with a championship team behind him he came into his own and with his health improved he was the big factor in winning the flag for the Blacksox. Before the close of the season he was sold to the Brooklyn team where he is making great headway. Pfeffer was a popular player here and his rise in the profession will no doubt be well received. The Leslie story is as follows:

"Each season some young pitcher, hitherto unknown to the fans and whose ability was not much more than suspected even by his team mates, has come to the front with a rush and proved the sensation of the season. Smoky Joe Wood was a splendid example of this kind of twirler, and dozens of others whose names are familiar to every rooter could be mentioned in the same category.

"Today the eyes of all the regulars in the baseball world are turned toward Jeff Pfeffer, the sensational young twirler of the Brooklyn Nationals, and prophecies are heard on all sides that he will turn out to be the pitching find of 1914. One of the first stunts he was called upon to perform this year was to tame the Giants, several times champions of the parent league, and he accomplished his task with complete satisfaction to every one except the players who tried to pound his slants and the Manhattan fans.

"When he faced the McGrawites he did not have to face any particularly critical situations, as his superb pitching kept his opponents from being very dangerous. But a few days later, when the Superbas were playing the Quakers, he was rushed in to pull a contest out of the fire, and he encountered and overcame such odds that the fans were satisfied that he was amply supplied with the right kind of nerve and coolness to qualify him for a place among the twirling elite.

"When Jeff was called on to relieve Aitchison in the eighth inning the Phillies were in a position to win a game which had seemed safe for the Brooklyns. There were two men on bases, only one out, two runs needed to tie the score and the heavy end of the Quakers' batting order due at the plate. A scratch hit by Byrne, the first man to face Pfeffer, increased the flinger's difficulties.

"Lobert, Magee and Cravath were due to bat in the order named, but Jeff never turned a hair, and if Kid Elberfeld, who had relieved Egan at short, had not dropped an easy chance for a double play Pfeffer would have pulled through without a run being scored. As it was, Mayer tallied on Elberfeld's bobble. The bases were still crowded, with only one needed and Magee at bat.

"Jeff promptly fanned the slugging outfielder and made Cravath pop up an easy one for the third out. In the ninth, after a single had been made, he retired three pinch hitters. Watch young Jeff. It will probably be worth while."

GILMORE'S PROMISED SENSATION MAY MEAN AN AMALGAMATION WITH THE NATIONAL.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Can the Federal league last?

The question has been asked so frequently since the slump in attendance that as thorough an investigation as is possible has been made.

The Federal league can last—practically is forced to last—if the club backers are game enough to stand their losses.

The Federal league will lose close to $200,000 on the season at the present rate of attendance.

The National league will lose almost double that amount. The American league will do well to break even, with perhaps five clubs on the circuit losing money in spite of the interesting race.

There is no sign of the Federal league weakening. It is losing money steadily now in six of the eight cities. Pittsburgh at home is not drawing enough to pay hotel and traveling expenses. Brooklyn is doing wretchedly. Buffalo, after a brief spasm of enthusiasm, has dropped back to even attendance with the Internationals. Kansas City is not drawing well enough to pay expenses. Baltimore is doing very well, and perhaps might break even, not counting the initial investment. St. Louis has been a disappointment after the first spasm. Chicago may break even.

The American league is holding its own during the off year in spite of the Federals. But the National league has been hit terribly hard. In Cincinnati the only bright spot exists. The Reds are drawing better than they have in years, and is within 30 per cent in attendance of last season.

The National league owners are undoubtedly beginning to seek a way out.

Beyond doubt the Federal league owners would welcome an escape from the position into which they have forced themselves and organized baseball.

The American league appears to be striving to force a settlement of the war—a settlement involving only the other clubs.

President Gilmore, of the Feds, announces that, within sixty days, baseball will have the greatest sensation it has ever known. Gilmore has sent out word to the club owners of the Feds to keep their hands off players of the American association, Western league, Pacific Coast league, Northwestern league and International league.

Frankie Mason Back With Only Slight Mark to Show for Match.

Frankie Mason came back at noon from Jackson, Mich., with a scratch on his forehead as the only mark to show for his encounter with Nadel last night. This he got when he butted into his opponent's tooth in a clinch. He felt his man out for four rounds and took things quietly then put him out in the fifth with a right swing to the jaw. The affair was the best on the bill of the evening.

LOUDERMILK HAD ONE BAD GROUCH

Had Expected to Be Called on to Humble His Former Pards.

HE GOT IN AND LOST

"Wha' d'ye know about that, Harry? I ain't going to pitch. Everytime I get a chance to win somebody else is worked in my place. I'll be a son of a gun if that ain't tough luck."

"Lefty Louie" Loudermilk ridded his system of this little growl just before the final encounter with Grand Rapids at the Varnell campus yesterday because he had been informed that Stevenson, a new man obtained from Omaha, had been slated for mound duty. Harry Lake was his audience.

Truth of the matter is that Loudermilk wanted to humble his former pards and realized that his best chance to do it was with the club crippled badly but when he took up the running in the second with the score knotted he finally was beaten by a great rally in the eighth and wound up the matinee performance by trying to toss a perfectly good dollar-and-a-half ball over the grandstand.

He was really and truly peeved. A young woman in the grandstand who insisted that she was Loudermilk's "lady friend" and that she had gone to the game just to see him perform, was also peeved as she seemed positive that he would hold his cherished old chums in check until the dilapidated champs could trample them.

Reliable Bill Cramer, who is growing fat on two raw eggs before each game and who is holding his own by a course of expert massaging of his arm in which both he and his wife take part in their home on Edgewater avenue, was called into the going and with that old early hoodoo working hard against him he pitched a style of ball that baffled the Blacksox and held them helpless until that little rally in the eighth was staged at the psychological moment and gave the abreviated game to the home talent.

Grover Cleveland Young was the hurling selection for the afternoon and he lasted one round and part of another because he had nothing in his repertoire to deceive anybody.

Neither did Stevenson for that matter and he was also hooked after the opening chapter. Martin opened the session with a double against the right field bank, taking third on a wild pitch after McLafferty had been caught out by the catcher on an attempt to bunt.

Holderman kicked in with a single that sent the pilot home and Bratchi came back with a rap to center after which Freddie Brant routed one down the left foul line for a pair of bases and cleaned up the bags. With Beyers out Smykal was passed and Diem hit, netting the fourth run of the inning.

With this margin to work on Young was driven out in the second. Tydeman annexed a single for a starter and Hughes hit a double to right on which Tydeman was held at third but he scored later on Castle's rap and after Steil had hit the grapplers were applied to Young.

Cramer celebrated his entry into the game by slamming the ball to the overflow bleachers in an attempt to get a runner at third on Killilea's bunt and a couple of runs went over and before he quit the inning the score was tied.

With a pair scrapped in the third Smykal, who had forced Beyers for the second out, was given a life on Eddie Justice's muff of a thrown ball that was intended to prevent a theft of second and scored on Diem's two-base hit.

Tydeman demonstrated his value to his club when he was passed in the sixth, stole second and third and counted the tieing run on Hughes' out at first. With a time limit set on the game which made it necessary to close at 5 o'clock, Fort Wayne went into the eighth and Harry Martin put on a piece of good base running that gave his club the one run needed to win the game.

He rolled an easy grounder to Eddie Justice who fielded it badly and lost it and with two gone the manager beat it for home on Bratchi's double. Bratchi stole third and Brant sent him home with a single and the game was called.

REAPERS ARE TO STAY THIS YEAR

Will Not Be Moved Out of Springfield and Will Be Stronger.

AFTER NEW PLAYERS

Springfield, O., June 4.—The Reapers will represent Springfield in the Central league during the remainder of the present season. That was the announcement made by Roy Clark, business manager, upon the return of the club.

Mr. Clark immediately began notifying the advertisers who have fence spaces and score card spaces that the team is to remain in Springfield. He gave them assurances that the contracts with them would be carried out to the letter.

It is also stated that several new players will join the club before the stay at home is completed. Manager Stanley is endeavoring to strengthen the club. One or two more infielders, and possibly an outfielder and a catcher, will appear.

If the men Stanley has in view can be secured The Reapers are sure to climb, provided the pitchers continue the article of ball which they have been doing. Every member of the staff has been giving a good account of himself and they are not to blame for the loss of the games on the last trip.

The team has just been throwing games away. The exhibitions witnessed here by local fans are simply an example of what happens on the road trip. After winning eight out of the last nine games at home the club lost eight out of nine games in a swing around the circuit.

TRACK ELEVATION EAST IS PURPOSE

THE MUNICIPAL NEWS

Track elevation east of Calhoun street is scheduled as the paramount subject for discussion at a meeting of the council committee on track elevation called for this evening by Chairman Peter A. Ofenloch, member from the Seventh ward. Mayor Bosey and Messrs. Singrey, Kelly and Hilgeman, of the board of works, will meet with the committee. The purpose of the meeting is to get to some sort of understanding as to what shall be the municipal government's track elevation program for this year if anything at all is to be done in that direction. People of the Seventh, Eighth and Tenth wards are anxious for some indications of grade separation east of Calhoun street and the joint meeting will try to map out a program and arrive at some conclusion as to possibilities. The completion of the Wabash railroad's unfinished grade separation at Harrison and Taylor streets and Thompson avenue are not likely to enter into the discussion. That is nothing is to be done respecting those improvements but wait until the vicissitudes of the Wabash permit a completion of its track elevation work west of Calhoun street.

NOLL JUDGMENT IS PAID.

Park Board Settles Award Growing Out of Thieme Drive.

The park board, at its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon, handed to William H. Noll a warrant on the city treasurer for $3,383.50 in settlement of the judgment awarded by the circuit court as damages to the Noll property by reason of the Thieme drive improvement. This is the conclusion of a vexing and prolonged incident of the establishment and improvement of the beautiful drive along the St. Mary's river opposite Swinney park. The board sought to have Mr. Noll make arrangements at once for construction by private contract of a sidewalk and combined curb and gutter in front of his property on Thieme drive in order to close up an ugly gap in the footway. When the board constructed the sidewalk, curb and gutter on the drive it did not touch the Noll frontage because the litigation that grew out of Mr. Noll's appeal from the damage assessment fixed by the board was yet pending. Mr. and Mrs. Noll left Thursday for Europe for an absence of several weeks and the board very greatly wished to have the sidewalk constructed at once. Mr. Noll thought the matter could wait a few additional weeks.

The park board will order the improvements decried in Foster park by the Southwest Civic Improvement association and they will be paid for by assessment of the property owners in that district. Messrs. Young, Fredericks, Bicknell and Fisher, the committee appointed by the association at a recent meeting, met with the board Wednesday, urged a shelter house, a comfort station, cement approaches, adequate water service and improved tennis courts for Foster park. The committee told the board the people of that part of the city would pay for the improvements if the board would order the betterments made.

SMALL GRIST FOR BOARD.

At a late hour little had been developed for the board of works to dispose of at its regular meeting tonight. The board will confirm assessment rolls for sidewalks in Anderson avenue, from Spy Run avenue east, and for sidewalks on south side of Leith street from Calhoun street to Lafayette street.

Street and Sewer Superintendent Strodel and his men continued the excavations in the cave-in in Erie street between Hanover and Howard streets today to determine if the walls of the intercepting sewer have fallen. The men are down about ten feet and have almost thirty feet yet to go. There is little doubt that the sewer will be found badly breached at this point.

Says Women Desert Church and Men Must Fill the Empty Pews

Owen Johnson.

New York, June 4.—"The advanced woman has advanced beyond the influence of the church," says Owen Johnson, author of many breezy college tales. "The American woman of today is not in awe of anything; she has turned her back on the church and men will have to step in and fill the pews. The next generation will see men closer to the church than they are now, and women just that much farther away. The women will try to make their revolt complete; it will be social, industrial and moral."

JUDGE FLEES A LOADED PISTOL

THOUGHT IT EMPTY

Detroit, Mich., June 4.—Seated in his court room yesterday afternoon, Municipal Judge Christopher Stein, jr., looked into the barrel of a loaded revolver, while an excited woman pressed her finger against the trigger. She thought the weapon was not loaded. The presence of mind of the justice and prompt action of court attaches probably saved Mr. Stein's life.

Fay Wells was on trial, charged with disturbing the peace. A policeman alleges she had pursued her husband around their house, waving a loaded revolver and threatening to shoot. The husband took the stand and produced the pistol.

"She pointed it right at my head, judge," said Wells, "and she was going to shoot."

Mrs. Wells, who was seated near her husband, grabbed the weapon and jumped to her feet, brandishing it.

"Look, judge," she said, with a smile, "the old thing is rusty and it won't work."

Spectators in the court room gasped. The revolver was pointed straight at the judge and the hammer seemed to move. Like a flash Mr. Stein sought shelter behind the bar of justice.

"Grab that gun," was the judicial order, sounded from the recess of the judge's bench.

"It isn't loaded, anyway," said Mrs. Wells, as the weapon was wrested from her hand.

MAN OVERBOARD PUTS RACER OUT

Vanitie Quits Day's Contest and Resolute Scores Second Victory.

IN DRENCHING RAIN

Associated Press Boat off Glen Cove, L. I., June 4.—Vanitie, Alexander Cochran's cup defense candidate retired from today's race with Resolute less than thirty minutes after the boats had crossed the starting line because of a man overboard and difficulty in recovering him.

With her rival out of it, Resolute rounded the first windward mark and then swept back to leeward a distance of nine miles in all, winning the race and placing two victories out of three starts to her credit.

Driving rain and flying spray drenched the crews this afternoon as the cup defender candidates started their third trial race in Long Island Sound. With their lee rails awash the yachts got away at 1 o'clock in a thirty mile breeze. The sound was covered with foam and the race promised to be a test of heavy weather qualities.

As in yesterday's race the course today was to windward and leeward, 4 1-2 miles across the sound and back with a repeat, eighteen miles in all. The Vanitie crossed the starting line more than a minute ahead of her rival but the Resolute pointed higher in the thrash to windward and began to cut down the lead.

WANTED TO KILL ALL HIS FAMILY

Insane Roumanian Placed Under Arrest; Had $100 on Person.

VICTIM OF INSOMNIA

Suffering from insomnia for several days, Walter Romafski, a Roumanian, became demented Thursday morning, and after first threatening to kill all members of his family living at 1729 Hanna street, conceived a very bold plan for murdering all the people living in four brick houses along South Hanna street.

He started out with a well loaded 32 calibre revolver to carry out his threats, when a short time later Dr. George W. McCaskey called the police station and reported that an insane man had visited his office. Later another report came from the Dreier drug store, corner of Calhoun and Brackenridge streets, that a man with a revolver was in there, and a clerk, luckily detained him until Plainclothesman Spillner arrived and placed him under arrest.

He is now quieting down behind the bars at the city bastile. When searched a roll of $100 was found in his clothing. The man had been wandering about the city in a semi-demented condition for several days.

DeKalb Court Wants to Know Why W. F. Peters Was Not at Trial.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

A writ issued by Judge Powers, of the DeKalb circuit court, cites William F. Peters, of Fort Wayne, to appear and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt for failure to be present this week in that tribunal at the hearing of the suit of Mary L. Banet against him for $25,000 damages for breach of promise to marry. The trial of the cause was set down for this week in the DeKalb circuit court, to which tribunal it was sent on change of venue from Allen county. The defendant failed to appear and the plaintiff's attorneys, Hans C. Meland and Emrick & Emrick, procured from Judge Powers an order citing the defendant for contempt. The suit, which was filed a year ago last winter, charges that the defendant promised to wed the plaintiff, who formerly was employed by him.

NEW GEYSER IS FORMING.

Disturbance on Mount Lassen is Not of Volcanic Nature.

Red Bluff, Cal., June 4.—Forest Supervisor W. J. Rushing, after an inspection made on Mount Lassen, which last week was in eruption said today that he had found a cavity 100 feet in diameter covered with ashes about a foot thick. He says the hole is 100 feet from a frozen lake in which the ice is melting and the water running into one of the heated fissures forcing up ashes and mud. It is thought another geyser is being formed similar to that Bumpass Hill, nearly four miles distant where steam and water are being thrown out nearly all the time. The phenomenon is a geyser action and not volcanic.

TOOK THEIR WORD FOR IT

"Do you think that interlocking directorate works in the public interest?"

"I think so, yes. We get a tremendous traffic from the Pennsylvania. I believe the public gets a better service by our working together."

"In other words, by cerating a transportation monopoly," suggested Mr. Folk.

"By no means. Such an arrangement creates no monopoly. It works for the betterment of both the roads and the public."

Mr. Skinner was questioned by William Nelson Cromwell, appearing for several of the directors.

"About twenty, I think."

"Were not these various financial transactions brought before the board in a general way after details had been worked out by officials of the various departments?"

"These matters were presented in summary form by Mr. Mellen. He would make suggestions and give his views."

"Were these matters presented in writing and passed around at the meetings?"

"Some of them were."

"Were the decisions of the board in these matters generally unanimous?"

"Usually they were. If any serious objections were raised to any transaction, action was postponed."

What Caused Trouble.

"What brought about the troubled conditions of the New Haven? Was it not the necessity of disintegrating some of the properties acquired, which under various laws the New Haven had to dispose of after it had bought them?"

"That had a good deal to do with it."

"You were not able to finance the New Haven as other large railroad systems are usually financed?"

"No, we were not. We were obliged to finance the system from year to year. Difficulties grew out of state laws and inquiries and public criticism."

"The purchases of trolleys and other properties, as I understand it," said Mr. Cromwell, "were made with some other view than the material value at the time the properties were acquired. Wasn't the object to make permanent the New Haven system."

"That is correct."

"Did Mr. Morgan at the directors' meetings show any desire to dominate or dictate?" Mr. Skinner was asked.

"Not that I recall. He was away in Europe much of the time and couldn't attend meetings regularly.

Following Mr. Skinner's testimony, Mr. Ledyard was called, but was not sworn. He said he desired to contradict certain statements made by Mr. Mellen in his testimony. On the Boston and Maine board, he said, he represented the largest holders of stock in the American Express company.

the confederate monument in Arlington National cemetery today resulted in a semi-filibuster which delayed consideration of the railroad securities bill, the last measure on the administration anti-trust program.

Efforts to settle the difficulty without parliamentary obstructive tactics failed and a roll call was ordered. Representatives favoring adjournment declared their intention to force the house to quit.

According to a statement made by Mayor J. Leb Watkins the stains and blotches on the red undershirt which was found in the basement of the cellar of Dr. W. A. Winters last Friday night are human blood stains. Watkins said he was given this information by Prosecutor Walter R. Myers, but Myers refuses to confirm the statement. He insisted that the state chemist has not even had the undergarment. The shirt was found in a cement block in the basement of the Winters home and was the direct cause of affidavits against the three for alleged conspiracy.

Statement Contradictory.

Members of the Winters family have explained that a bed was made for a cat and her kittens in the basement, and it is asserted that the garments were found in a basket and not in the cement wall, as contended by Detective Robert H. Abel. The detective, two policemen and a newspaper man found the articles, and all assert they were not found in a basket. Abel is said to have told members of the Winters family that they were found in a basket, but it is said this was done for a reason.

Former Chief of Police Alec Gorman of Richmond, visited Newcastle yesterday and spent a few hours investigating the case. Gorman held a long conference with Mayor Watkins, who said he was as much at sea as any one. Detective Abel, it is said, has resumed his investigation, which led him to another state. He is expected to return before the charges of conspiracy against Winters, his wife and Cooper are tried.

Mayor Watkins who went to Albany, Delaware county, yesterday to see a man who said he could find the body of Catherine Winters, refused to make public any of his conversation with the man.

munication of the Niagara mediators and a report of a conference last night between John Lind, Juan Urquidi and other constitutionalist counsellors here but that no reply was expected for a day or two.

All Eyes on Carranza.

Carranza loomed today as the crux in the mediation situation. Upon his message to the South American envoys hung the immediate scope of diplomatic endeavor to bring order out of war's chaos in the southern republic. The note was expected definitely to determine whether mediation was to be confined to the dispute between Huerta and the United States or to include the entire problem of Mexico pacification, with the constitutionalists represented at the Niagara conference.

Carranza at Durango was in telegraphic communication with his agents here until late in the night. They transmitted to him the note of the mediators which had been written in reply to his message expressing "astonishment" that the Niagara proceedings had been started without constitutionalist participation. It was believed Carranza's answer would not be delayed. It is expected to reach here today but there were indications that it would not be made public until after it had reached the mediators through Rafael Zubaran, constitutionalist minister of the interior in charge of the Washington agency.

The outcome of the negotiations anxiously was awaited by administration chiefs. They were hopeful that the way might be declared for the constitutionalist leader to enter the conference so that all of the elements now figuring in the southern republic's plight might be brought together to discuss terms of restoring peace.

MUCH DEPENDS ON IT.

Carranza Reply Likely to Shape Entire Course of Mediation.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 4.—While waiting to hear from Gen. Carranza whether he would send delegates to the conference here the mediators planned today to continue such work as would not be affected by the constitutionalist answer. The feeling is general that the attitude taken by Gen. Carranza in his reply probably will shape the entire course of the mediation hereafter and perhaps have a direct effect on the Washington government's reply toward the two factions in Mexico.

Those who have seen the mediators' note to the constitutionalists say that it is so phrased that they can find therein a dignified way of enering the negotiations, notwithstanding their previous objections.

WANTS ACTS LEGALIZED.

This the Price Huerta Demands for Retirement, is Report.

Vera Cruz, June 4.—The price Provisional President Huerta demands for his retirement is the legalization of his official acts since his appointment to the provisional presidency, according to advices from the capital today.

This is said to be the proposal Gen. Huerta authorized his delegates to offer at the mediation conference at Niagara Falls. Gen. Huerta is said to realize that he has only a slim chance of winning out, but he is understood to be determined not to abandon power without adequate provision being made for the protection of his own future and for that of the men with whom he has surrounded himself.

Opera Singer Will Marry "The Tinman."

New York, June 3.—Anna Fitzhugh, grand opera star, was a chorus girl in "The Wizard of Oz" when David Montgomery made his starring debut as the droll "tin man" in the same play. Miss Fitzhugh is now a grand opera singer with a European reputation and she'll return from Paris soon to become the "tin man's" bride. This is her second matrimonial venture, but Montgomery has been looked upon by the theatrical profession as a confirmed bachelor.

BRAKEMAN ADMITS CAUSING WRECK

Got Dizzy and Allowed Wabash Freight Train to Crash Into Work Train.

S. E. Cotter, general superintendent of the Wabash, is out on an inspection trip over the system and spent two or three hours in Fort Wayne this morning, looking over the freight yards and shops. He left at noon for Toledo. "Business is light," Mr. Cotter said, "with but little prospect of immediate improvement." He is being accompanied over the division by Supt. J. C. Sullivan, Division Engineer W. S. Danes and Master Mechanic G. W. Smith.

FLAGMAN TELLS THE STORY.

Was Overcome by Dizziness and Caused Wabash Wreck.

Ray Hammond, the Wabash flagman, who disappeared after the fatal wreck at the Deer Creek bridge near Delphi Thursday, returned to Delphi yesterday and in his testimony before Coroner Buck told his version of the affair. He had been sent to flag trains approaching the bridge and had placed torpedoes on the track for two trains. Before No. 82 arrived, however, he had a dizzy spell and sat down beside the roadbed. He did not place the torpedoes on the track for the eastbound freight No. 82, as he thought he would have no trouble stopping the train. His illness continued, however, and the freight reached the crossing where he was sitting before he knew it. He jumped to his feet and waved his flag to the engineer and fireman as the engine passed. It was too late to stop, however. After the crash he went to the wreck and then was advised by another railway employe to run away. He went to Lafayette and took a train to his home in Decatur that night. He then returned for the coroner's inquest.

MR. PHILLEY ACCEPTS.

Assumes Charge of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. Today.

As foretold by The Sentinel yesterday H. A. Philley has accepted the office of general secretary of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. He assumed the duties of the office this morning. Speaking of the situation, Mr. Philley said: "All is new to me and I am looking into matters today with a view of learning something about the management of the building. I expect to put in a great deal of time in increasing the membership, as I find that an important part of the work at present." Joseph C. Brake, assistant chief clerk at the road foreman of engines' office, has taken up the duties formerly performed by Mr. Philley and there will be no immediate other changes out there. Mr. Brake has been employed in a clerical capacity in the road foreman's office for a number of years and is familiar with every detail.

"A DEVICE OF SATAN."

Was Opinion of School Board in 1828 Concerning Railroads.

A Wellsville, Ohio, man has a letter issued by the school board of Lancaster, Ohio, in 1828 in reply to a request from some young men for the use of the school house to hold a debate on the "Advantages of Steam Railroads," which were then in the incipient stage and practically unknown to the people of Lancaster. The letter reads as follows:

"You are welcome to the use of the schoolhouse to debate all proper questions in, but such things as railroads and telegraphs are impossibilities and rank infidelity. There is no word of God aobut them. If God had designed that His intelligent creatures should travel at the frightful speed of fifteen miles an hour, by steam, He would clearly have foretold it through His holy prophets. It is a device of Satan to lead immortal souls down to hell."

PAID NEARLY $40,000,000.

Immense Distribution in Sick and Death Claims.

During the month of April, 1914, the relief departments of the Pennsylvania railroad system paid out to employes and their families a total of $277,631.64 on account of disability and death of employes.

Total payments for disabilities amounted to $187,543.40, of which $52,431.50, or over 27 per cent., was paid out on account of accidents, the balance going to employes incapacitated through sickness. Death benefits absorbed a total of $90,088.24, of which $17,907, or about 20 per cent., was paid on account of deaths due to accident, and the remainder for deaths due to natural causes.

Since the relief department of the lines east of Pittsburg was established in 1886, and that of the lines west in 1889, a total of $38,733,928.39 has been paid out for disability and death benefits.

AFTER CULVER STUDENT BUSINESS.

Culver Military academy closes the 1913-1914 term of school today and the several hundred students will leave for their respective homes tonight and tomorrow. This makes business for the Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate. The Pennsylvania will furnish a special train of seven coaches which will leave Plymouth at 11:45 o'clock tomorrow morning for Chicago. District Passenger Agent F. P. Parnin and Local Agent C. A. Pritchard are at Culver today looking after the interests of the Nickel Plate, which gets a big share of the eastbound travel from the academy. That road does not run a special train, however, the time of the regular trains being just right to handle the business.

ADDED TO HONOR ROLL.

Sixty-four names were added to the pension list of the Pennsylvania east and west of Pittsburg. Fifty-three were on the lines east of Pittsburg and eleven on the lines west. Among the latter were Theodore Bley, the yard conductor, and Emil F. Haberkorn, the machinist, of Fort Wayne. On the first of May there were 4,123 pensioners on the Pennsylvania list east of Pittsburg and 1,023 on the lines west of Pittsburg. During the fourteen years the system has been in operation, $7,487,930.77 were paid east of Pittsburg and $2,424,737.18 on lines west of Pittsburg, making a grand total of $9,912,667.95.

Here's a freak feat of engineering on the new $10,000,000 German canal, between the Rivers Havel and Odel. Reversing the usual position, passengers on boats sail calmly across a bridge over the railway tracks, instead of being forced to travel under a railway bridge and perhaps wait ignominiously for the draw to open.

A Suggestion for Better Service

Our equipment in turbines, generators, feed and distribution lines is absolutely up-to-date. We keep our facilities for serving you as a customer in perfect working order. We are sure that our service, up to the sockets in your building is beyond criticism.

But we cannot go beyond your sockets or outlets unless you will help us. Your responsibility for the kind of service you get begins there. Of course, you use Mazda lamps, because they are three times as efficient as Carbon lamps. But do you use the light they make in the most efficient way? You cannot do this without proper reflectors, because you must re-direct and concentrate the rays of light.

Holoplane reflectors are designed to give you the maximum amout of light where you can use it best, and will increase your useful light 100% at no additional expense. Do not continue using bare lamps or an incorrect type of shade because by so doing you are losing a large part of what you are paying for.

Our representative will be glad to give you full information and advice in your particular case; whether it be in office, storeroom, factory, home or outdoor lighting.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

HIM? WHY, HE'S GENERAL MANAGER

WHEN WALLACE COMES

The brisk and hustling person who predominates in the stir and activity, hurry and excitement, at the main entrance of the circus is the general manager.

He answers questions innumerable and all embracing, settles all disputes as to admission, conveys advice, makes suggestions, gives orders, sends lieutenants all over the show grounds with instructions, sees to it that the crowd gets in safely, and is in general in active charge of the "front door."

His is a very important department of circus life, requiring peculiar natural talents, wide experience, correct knowledge of civic affairs and laws in general. The grave responsibilities of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus rest upon the shoulders of Col. B. E. Wallace, the owner and manager.

Col. Wallace is the first man off the cars in the morning and his day's work generally ends when all of his comrades are sleeping with the peace and vigor perfect health and a clear conscience affords. No task is too small or menial for Col. Wallace to perform. For half a century he has been a showman and through his long years of perseverance and honesty he has amassed a fortune of ten million dollars. Yet on a bad, rainy night it is not an uncommon sight to see him working and wrestling in the mud up to his knees, lighting and struggling with the "razorbacks" who draw a dollar each day. This wizard circusman knows most of the employes by the first name and there are none of them who would hesitate to do him some favor.

Col. Wallace generally eats in the tent which houses the executive staff, but it is no uncommon sight to see him eating next to a humble workingman when in a hurry. In all the world of tented life the world has yet to see the equal of "Uncle Ben Wallace, the Hoosier Circusman," says the New York World, and the statement is correct. The big show will come to Fort Wayne Tuesday, June 16, for performances at 2 and 8 p. m. and a parade at 10 o'clock.

WORLD-FAMOUS ARTIST ESCAPES MEXICO.

SENORA E. de MORELOS, WORLD-FAMOUS ARTIST.

San Francisco, Cal., June 4.—Senora E. de Morelos, who arrived here recently with her husband from Vera Cruz where they underwent the three days' fighting when Admiral Fletcher took possession of the Mexican seaport, places the entire responsibility for the battle upon the shoulders of Gen. Gustave Maas, commandant of the port.

"Despie the fact," said the senora, "that President Huerta had ordered Maas not to resist the landing of the Americans, the general declared he would fight. Then, coward that he was, when the first squad of American bluejackets came ashore, he fled o the hills after releasing 700 imprisoned rurales. It was these rurales who did the 'sniping' from housetops."

In doing the stipulated work, the contractor shall adopt his own methods, ways and work and select the tools, machinery and labor therefor, and shall not be subject to the city's control or orders, except as to the results to be obtained and as herinafter provided for.

2. All the work shall be prosecuted with diligence and shall be done in good, substantial and workmanlike manner. All the materials shall be new and the best of their respective kinds, except as otherwise expressly allowed by the specifications.

3. The contractor shall employ only competent men and, at the request of the engineer or board of works shall discharge any man on the work who, in the opinion of the engineer or said board, is incompetent, unfaithful or disorderly, and such man shall not be again employed.

4. All work shall be done to the satisfaction of the engineer and said board. The amount, quality, acceptibility and fitness of the several kinds of work and materials furnished shall be determined by the engineer, and said board, who shall have full power to reject or condemn materials furnished and work performed which, in their opinion, does not fully conform to the spirit and terms of this agreement.

5. Work or materials rejected by the engineer and said board shall be immediately removed by the contractor and replaced by other work and materials acceptable to the engineer and board.

6. Except by written consent of the said board, the contractor shall not have, create, establish or allow any mortgage, mechanic's or other lien on any of the tools, appliances, machinery, live stock or materials used or which may be used upon the work, or which are at any time upon the site thereof.

7. Tools, Etc., Supplied by the City.—The contractor shall become immediately responsible for tools, machinery, equipment, appliances and materials and all other property furnished by the city which are on the ground at the time of the execution of this contract, and he shall become responsible for all other tools or materials so furnished by the city immediately upon their arrival at the point to which they are to be delivered by the city hereunder, and the contractor shall thereafter be solely responsible for all loss and damage, and demurrage or similar charges.

Contractor's Care of Work.—The contractor shall maintain, protect and care for all the work until its final acceptance by the city, and shall at his own expense provide and do whatever may be necessary for such maintenance, protection and care, and shall repair or replace damaged parts of the work and damaged or lost materials to the satisfaction of the engineer and said board; and no approval of the work or payment or other act by the city or its representatives shall release the contractor from his obligation to make final delivery of the completed work in first-class, sound and perfect condition and free from all debts, liens, obligations and charges of every kind and nature.

10. Contractor Not to Assign or Sub-Let.—Except the written consent of the said board be first obtained, the contractor shall not assign this contract by power of attorney or otherwise, nor sublet the work, nor any part thereof, nor assign any of the moneys payable under this contract; nor shall any assignment or subletting relieve the contractor of any of his obligations hereunder.

11. Payments by Contractor.—The contractor shall pay punctually for all labor and materials and all liabilities incurred by him, and if and when required shall furnish the city with satisfactory evidence of such payment.

12. Contractor to Comply With Laws, Ordinances, Etc.—The contractor shall comply with all building and sanitary laws and all state, county and municipal laws, rules, ordinances and regulations.

14. Inspection. Representatives of the city may visit and inspect the work at all times during its progress, and the contractor shall provide sufficient and safe facilities for such inspection.

15. Refuse.—The contractor shall not permit the accumulation of refuse on the site of the work, or at any point contiguous thereto, and shall remove the same whenever required by the engineer or said board, and on the completion of the work shall leave the premises clean to the satisfaction of the engineer and said board.

16. Sanitary Regulations.—The contractor shall not do or permit any act or thing which may pollute the waters of any stream in the neighborhood of the work; he shall keep all buildings and premises in and about the work in a clean and sanitary condition at all times, and shall prevent any waste or unwholesome matter from draining or percolating into any such stream or gulch leading thereto. In case any of the employes of the contractor have or are exposed to any contagious disease, prompt and proper medical aid shall be employed, and the patient shall be isolated and all possible danger of communicating the disease or contaminating the waters of any stream or tributary shall be prevented, and all premises occupied or infected shall be thoroughly and repeatedly disinfected.

19. Insurance.—The contractor shall procure and deliver to the city and maintain during the continuance of the work, fire and liability insurance policies in an amount providing an indemnity and issued by an insurance company or companies approved in writing by the city, and insuring both the contractor and the city.

Should any suits for infringement of patents be brought against the city before the payments herein provided for, or any of them, are made, the contractor shall give a bond in amount and with sureities satisfactory to the city, to indemnify the city against judgments, costs and attorney's fees before demanding any balance hereunder. Should any injunction be threatened or issued which would or might stop, hinder or delay the work, the contractor shall promptly secure dissolution thereof by giving bond or otherwise, or at the option of the city, shall promptly cease the use of the patented article or arrangement complained of.

21. Time for Work.—The contractor shall begin the work on or before the 18th day of May, 1914; the rate of progress shall be such as, in the opinion of the engineer and said city board, is necessary for completing it on or before the 1st day of August, 1914, and the contractor shall finish and complete all the work to be done hereunder on or before the last-named date.

22. The time is of the essence of this contract.

23. For each and every day, Sundays and holidays excluded, that the work shall remain unfinished after said date, the sum of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per day shall be paid by the contractor to the city and may be deducted by the city from any moneys due the contractor, which sum is hereby agreed upon as liquidated damages for loss to the city on account of expense to the city due to the employment of engineers, inspectors and other employes after the expiration of the time for the completion and on account of the value of the operation of the work to be completed hereunder, and other work dependent thereon.

24. Delays; Extension of Time.—Should the whole or any part of the work be hindered, delayed or suspended by the company or by acts of God or casualties, or by the abandonment of the work by the employes through no fault of the contractor, or other thing, which the engineer and said board shall deem sufficient cause, the contractor shall have a corresponding extension of time, to be determined by the engineer and said board; provided, the contractor shall give the city notice in writing of claim for such extension of time within seven days after any such reason therefor shall arise.

25. Payments.—For the work, labor, materials and other things done and furnished by the contractor in place hereunder the city shall pay to the contractor:

$14,400.00 for the building, complete, excluding the crane.

For extra excavation, per cubic yard, 75 cents.

26. Payments thereof shall be made as follows: On or before the fifth day of each month the engineer shall make an estimate of the amount and cost at the price herein specified of the work done during the month preceding, a copy of which, bearing the approval of the engineer and said board, shall be forwarded to the contractor; and on or before the tenth day of each month the city shall make a payment to the contractor of 85 per cent. of such estimate.

27. The final estimate shall be made by the engineer within fifteen days after the completion of all work, labor, materials and other things to be done or furnished by the contractor hereunder, and shall not be due and payable to the contractor until he has complied with all the provisions hereof and discharged all debts, liens, obligations, claims and charges against said work or him arising out of said work, and made proof thereof satisfactory to the engineer and board, if required, that there are no debts, liens, obligations, claims or charges unpaid arising out of said work or for which the city may become liable.

28. The acceptance by the contractor of final payment on final estimate shall be conclusive evidence of his acceptance and approval of estimates, accounting, deductions and full payment by the city for all work, labor, materials and services done or furnished hereunder, and of full satisfaction, discharge, release and waiver of all claims and demands of or on behalf of the contractor against the city arising out of this contract and the execution thereof.

29. Extra work, when ordered by the engineer or board in writing to be done as extra work, shall be done by the contractor and paid for at such rates as shall be agreed upon by the city and the contractor, and failing such agreement, at the actual cost of labor and materials, plus 10 per cent., which shall cover supervision, use of tools, appliances and machinery overhead, office and general expenses and profit; and no claims for extra work shall be allowed unless so ordered prior to its commencement, and presented in writing on or before the tenth day of the month following that in which such work was done. Payments therefore shall be made by the city on the regular pay day following receipt by the city's or engineer's certificate therefor.

30. Contractor's Books.—The engineer shall have access to the contractor's books and accounts, if he shall deem it necessary to determine the city's rights or the contractor's obligations hereunder, or to ascertain any facts relative to any claim against the contractor which may become a charge against the city or the work.

31. At Contractor's Risk.—The city does not guarantee the accuracy of plats or borings, nor the position of pipes or other underground objects. The contractor shall take all risks and responsibilities of the fitness or sufficiency of any methods, ways, works, appliances which the city may have adopted prior to the execution hereof preliminary to or in aid of the work covered by this contract, and shall inform himself by examination of the conditions at the site of the work.

32. The contractor shall take all risks and responsibilities on account of quicksands, springs, character and position of bedrock and the like, and floods, frosts, freezing, fires, all action of the elements, casualties and other difficulties encountered.

33. Time of Delivery by City.—The city does not guarantee the time of delivery of tools, machinery, materials or other things, nor the continuity of electric service, but will use its best efforts to meet the needs of the contractor in deliveries undertaken by it.

34. Changes in Plans, Etc., by City.—The city may make alterations in the line, grade and minor details of plan, form, dimensions or materials for the work, either before or after the beginning of construction, providing such alterations shall not change the general character of the work as a whole. If such alterations increase the amount of work or materials, such increase shall be paid for according to the quantity of work or materials actually done or furnished, and at the prices and rates fixed herein for such work or materials, if so fixed; otherwise as extra work.

35. Termination of work by City.—The city shall have the right at any time to terminate or suspend all or any part of the work under this contract or to decrease the amount thereof, and in such case the contractor shall be paid for the work done and materials furnished at the rates of payment fixed hereunder, to be determined by the engineer and said board, or, in case of dispute, by arbitrators as hereinafter provided.

36. City May Take Over Work.—If the work to be done shall be abandoned by the contractor, or if this contract be assigned or sublet by him, or if he loses control of the work from any cause, excepting the acts of God and the public enemy, or if at any time the engineer shall certify in writing to the city that the contractor refuses or neglects to provide sufficient and properly skilled or other labor, sufficient materials of proper quality, or fails in any respect to prosecut the work with diligence, or that the rate of progress from whatever cause is not such as to insure its completion within the time specified, or that the work or any part thereof is unnecessarily delayed, or that the contractor is violating any of the conditions or covenants of this contract, or is not executing this contract in good faith, the city, on not less than three days' written notice to the contractor, and the surety on his bond, may require the contractor to discontinue all work, or any part thereof, as may be assigned by the city, and thereupon the city may take and the contractor shall deliver possession of the work and all tools, machinery, teams, implements and machinery on the site thereof, or the part thereof as the city may require, and the city may thereupon complete said work, or any part thereof, by contract, or may take over the work or any part thereof and employ such labor and obtain such machinery, implements, teams and tools, and purchase such materials as the engineer may deem necessary to complete the work, or any part therof, and in so doing the city may use such tools, machinery, implements, teams and materials as may be found on the site of the work. The cost of doing such work shall be charged to the contractor, any any moneys that may then be due, or may at any time thereafter become due, to said contractor hereunder, or any part thereof, shall be applied by the city to the payment of such cost, so far as same shall be paid by said contractor to the city on demand.

37. The city shall not be held to obtain the lowest prices for the work of completing the contract, or any part thereof, nor for insuring its proper completion, but all sums actually paid therefor shall be chargeable to the contractor.

38. Damages to Contractor.—No damages, direct or consequential, nor anticipated profits on the work not actually completed, shall be claimed by or allowed to the contractor on account of any changes, alterations or delays in, or suspension, discontinuance or termination of or taking over and performing any of the work hereunder by the city.

39. Performance by City of Contractor's Obligations.—On failure or refusal by the contractor to pay any claim against him or the work, or arising therefrom, and which may become a charge against the city or its property, whether it shall arise or be presented or discovered before or after final payments to the contractor hereunder, the city, on notice or knowledge thereof, shall withhold the amount thereof from any payments due or to become due to the contractor hereunder, and on not less than three days' notice in writing to the contractor may pay or settle or compromise any such claim or do and perform such obligations, and the contractor shall pay to the city the actual cost thereof on demand, or the same may be deducted from any sums at any time due or to become due by the city to the contractor.

40. Other Contractors.—In case other contractors or the city are engaged upon or in connection with said work or any part thereof, the contractor shall allow them full access to their work and all proper means for performing the same in connection with his, and shall comply with all the directions of the engineer with reference to their proper accommodations.

41. Acceptance on release.—Any imperfect or unfaithful work which may be discovered before final acceptance of the work shall be corrected immediately by the contractor, and any unsatisfactory materials shall be rejected, on the requirement of the engineer or said board, notwithstanding that they may have been overlooked by the proper inspector. The inspection of the work shall not relieve the contractor of any of his obligations to perform sound work as herein prescribed.

42. Failure or negleot on the part of the engineer or any of his authorized agents to condemn or reject bad or inferior work or materials shall not be construed to imply an acceptance of such work or materials if it becomes evident at any time prior to final acceptance of the work; neither shall it be construed as barring the city at any subsequent time from the recovery of damages or of such a sum of money as may be needed to build anew all portions of the work in which fraud was practiced or improper materials used whenever found.

43. No Waiver of Rights.—Neither the inspection of the city, its engineer or any of its employes, nor any order, measurement or certificate by the engineer, nor any order by the city for the payment of money, nor any payment for, nor acceptance of the whole or any part of the work by the engineer or the city, nor any extension of time, nor any position taken by the city or its employes, shall operate as a waiver of any provision of this contract, or any power herein reserved to the city, or any right to damages herein provided; nor shall any waiver of any breach of this contract be held to be a waiver of any other or subsequent breach. All remedies provided in this contract shall be taken and construed as cumulative; that is, in addition to each and every other remedy herein provided; and the city shall have any and all equitable and legal remedies which it would in any case have.

44. Interpretation; Decision by Engineer.—The plans and specifications are intended to be explanatory of each other. Should any discrepancy, errors or omissions in either appear, or further plans or specifications be required, or any misunderstanding arise or explanation of plans or specifications or of any portion of the contract be required, the same shall be corrected, furnished or explained by the engineer, and the effect thereof shall date from the written notice by the engineer to the contractor.

45. The engineer and said board shall decide every question which may arise between the parties or with other contractors concerning the work, or in and about the execution of this contract or any of its terms, and their decision shall be final and binding upon both parties except as to such matters as it is agreed herein shall be submitted to arbitration.

46. Definition; Engineer.—The word "engineer" used herein shall mean the consulting engineer of the city. He may be represented on the work by assistants or inspectors appointed by him who, during any absence of his, shall have and exercise only such powers and authority as he shall delegate in writing. GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, June 4.—Favorable weather over the entire domestic winter and spring crop regions put the wheat market today under considerable selling pressure. Besides, Oklahoma dispatches said that although rust spores were manifest no damage had yet become apparent. After opening ¼@⅜c to ½@⅝c lower, the market suffered a material additional setback.

The close although steady was at a net decline of ¾@⅞c to 1@1⅛c.

Corn eased off with wheat and as a result of cheaper offering from Argentina. Prices which started ⅛c ⅛@⅜c down, continued to decline.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, June 4.—Execution of the small amount of orders on hand at the opening of the stock market today had little effect on the level of prices. In most cases quotations were raised by small fractions but there were a few weak spots. Lehigh Valley fell back 1½ to 134, a new low figure for the movement. New Haven lost a point. The decline in these shares affected the rest of the list. Can made the best showing, gaining a point.

After a series of unceitain fluctuations the market moved upward generally shortly before noon. Indications of an over-extended short interest were seen in the ready absorption of highly speculative stocks but general buying was of small proportions, with the demand coming almost entirely from the floor traders. Bonds were steady.

The market closed firm. Increasing strength characterized the dealing today, after the hesitation caused by concerted attacks on special issues had worn off. Steel made a more definite response to the improved character of trade news, rising to 61¾. General buying slackened toward the end.

DAILY MARKET LETTER.

Chicago, June 4.—Wheat is now under the shadow of the next Monday report. Rather think foreigners will go slow until they see the figures. It will evidently be a week or two before the northwest runs into damage as their rain supply is fairly good. Under these circumstances wheat bulges will hardly hold against the report. Corn has run into a period of fluctuation and stocks may increase a little. Other than the position of the old corn crop months is sound. We believe September oats will rally quickly from the dips. The forecast for rains over a wide section. Our oats reports of today indicate a June condition of about 85. The Argentine has recommenced liberal sales of cash to the east. The wheat bulge of yesterday was entirely a cash wheat affair. The government weekly weather report arrived today and others examined carefully indicated from 16 to 20 states dry. Softness in the grains today was mainly the result of recent advances. Wheat news from Kansas and Nebraska continues to be the best.

Atchison 98¼; Smelter, 62¾; Copper, 71⅞; Baltimore & Ohio, 91; Chesapeake & Ohio, 52¾; Canadian Pacific, 194⅝; Erie, 28⅞; Great Northern, 124⅝; Missouri Pacific, 18⅞; New York Central, 91¼; Pennsylvania, 111⅝; Reading, 164¾; St. Paul, 99¾; Southern Pacific, 93¼; New Haven, 65½; Union Pacific, 155¾; United States Steel, 61½.

Faker Queen Has Spent Her Life in Falling from Trains

(By John Perry)

Maud Myrtle Johnson, famed throughout the world of crooks as "The Faker Queen," is back again in Walla Walla, Wash., penitentiary!

Once she escaped conviction to it by playing upon the jury with her wonderful dramatic power. Once she was paroled from it, simulating serious physical breakdown.

But each time her spirit lured her to "play the game once more." And the game that had won $20,000, and had defrauded scores of corporations, finally "got" Maud Myrtle Johnson herself.

The game consisted in receiving serious "injuries" in a railway accident—and then suing for damages. "The Queen of Accident Fakers" was fit for the game. She could dislocate ankles, knees, and even a rib, at will! Her chest was malformed. By biting her gums gently she could produce a copious flow of blood.

For the past two years she has spent most of her time stumbling over suitcases, falling from street cars, being thrown out of Pullman berths, or collecting damages from municipalities for injuries received on defective sidewalks.

The faker queen has borne more than twelve different names in those two years. She has victimized 30 public service corporations.

Finally one day she appeared in Seattle. She collected $600 from the Seattle Electric company in March, 1909. Her chest had been injured by falling on a suit case. She spat blood; her eyes became dilated. Her voice became husky. There was a quick settlement and a quick get-away.

I was the attorney for the state in that trial in Seattle, and I learned there to share somewhat in the feeling of the spell which this woman was able to cast over all those with whom she came in contact.

We had tried to proved that she was a crook. But we were unable to prove that she had not been injured. She had witnesses who swore she had been.

So she won. She had her $600—and the vindication of the court in which she had been tried. She was free to go and she went. But the lure of the game went along with her.

The very train that was carrying her away gave a sudden lurch. The familiar suitcase was in the aisle. Perhaps by error, perhaps by force of habit, she tripped over it when the train stopped at the little town of Yacolt, Wash.

The claim agent was properly impressed. He was more than glad to settle. He paid $1,250 in cash! And was a much hurt young man when he reported to the main office in Portland and was told that he had been swindled!

This time we captured her. For the first time she found a case too strong for her. She was sentenced to the penitentiary.

She had not been in the prison at Walla Walla twenty-four hours before she was busy at the game again!

There were no hard tasks in the laundry for her. She still had handkerchiefs in her pocket, blood in her gums and a misshapen chest.

She was not allowed to take her baby with her to the penitentiary but she could write about it and talk about it and "long" for it, and this she did with all the ardor of her artistic soul. There was a campaign of sympathy which has seldom been equalled, aroused in press and women's clubs.

The result was that Mrs. Johnson was paroled in the custody of Mrs. R. C. McCredie, president of the Washington Federation of Women's Clubs She was taken to Mrs. McCredie's handsome home at Sunnyside, Wash., to rest from her prison experience and recuperate her shattered health.

It wasn't a bad place to stay. It was costing her nothing. But the monotony, the respectability of the life jarred upon her nerves. And one day she disappeared.

MAUD MYRTLE JOHNSON, Queen of the accident fakers, and sketches of some of her accident performances.

About two weeks later, a woman was picked up beside a station platform in Blaine, Wash., near the Canadian border. She said she had been injured on a train. She complained of pains in her chest. She spat blood. Her voice was husky. A few hours later, her right eye was dilated. She gave another name but she was speedily identified.

Today she peels "spuds" again in Walla Walla; and counts the days until her five years shall have expired.

ALL WAS QUIET ON THE POTOMAC

THEY HAD A SCRAP

Washington, June 4.—All is a flurry of preparation among the fishermen along the lower Patomac these days, for the spring shad and herring season has begun. If any one thing has made the Potomac river famous it is the delicate flavor of Potomac shad.

This year marks the real opening of a war between the fishermen at the mouth of the Potomac and those who seine the stream miles further up, toward Washington. The army engineers, having authority over the navigable waters of the United States, have been drawn into the fight, and, recognizing the fairness of the claims made by up-river fishermen, the army engineers have been enforcing their orders against stake nets places across the river channel at the mouth of the Potomac.

Early in the springtime the herring and the shad leave the bay and ocean and start up the Potomac for the spring spawning season.

Norfolk is the market for the lower-river men and in the general greed to make most of the short season these men placed stake nets far into the river channel, practically monopolizing the spring catch, as the shad and herring are unable to make their way upstream.

Upstream Fishermen Protest.

The first intimation of the war came last spring. The Norfolk fishermen, unmolested by the army engineers, spread their stake nets almost all the way across the lower river. After the close of the spring the Washington fishermen took the matter to the war department, asking for help.

A short time ago the engineer service vessel Castle left Washington for the lower river. The army engineers promised to give the up-river men all the help possible. The Castle steamed into the lower river fishing grounds and found that the stake nets had been arranged to prevent all but a small portion of the spring "run" of shad and herring from making their way upstream.

Not only are the army engineers determined to break up the practices of the lower river fishermen, but stake nets have been torn up all along Chesapeake bay and some points along the Atlantic coast.

How Shad Are Netted.

Camps are located at intervals along the river, the fishing privileges at the best-known places bringing fancy prices from fishermen. A "full" river and a good, high tide are requisites of shad and herring fishing along the Potomac.

At the first streak of dawn the seine, often from a half mile to a mile long, is loaded into a boat. Two or three hundred yards from the shore the seine is first put into the water. Weights drag the lower edge into the water, and corks keep the upper edge at the surface.

The fishermen row a course parallel to the shore. The seine is slowly fed overboard, and to the watchers on shore it seems like the placing of little corks at intervals along the surface.

The slow current displaces the corks but a trifle and long ropes are attached to each end of the seine and brought ashore, where they are made fast to a windlass. A horse is hitched to the windlass and the ends of the net begin to draw shoreward. The seine slowly takes the form of a great crescent, sweeping inshore in a mile-long semi-circle.

Slowly it comes without a pause, and the netted terror silently and relentlessly draws in upon the spawning schools of shad and herring that are lying not far off shore. As the net draws upon them they swim shoreward.

Fairly Alive With Fish.

Closer and closer creeps the seine and more and more agitated becomes the surface of the water. The fishermen begin to peer anxiously into the water. As one looks, the fact dawns upon one that the water is fairly alive with fish.

The windlass never pauses and the strings of corks are creeping closer—fifteen yards, now ten, now five yards,and —then! There is a final heave and the great belly of the seine flops its weight of fishes on the sand.

Before the day is over a little fishing schooner will sweep close inshore and tie up at a little temporary dock. There will be ten, maybe fifteen, perhaps twenty barrels of fish to load for the Norfolk and Washington markets.

OVERTURNS COURT MARTIAL.

Finding in Case of Indiana Guardsmen is Disapproved.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4.—By direction of Governor Ralston, Adjutant General F. L. Bridges, of the Indiana National Guard, has disapproved of the special court martial, which in February found four Indianapolis members of the guard guilty of disobeying orders, when the state militia was called out during the street car strike in this city.

The order was issued after the governor and his law advisers had investigated the legal questions and decided that the special court martial was illegal. Gideon W. Blain, judge advocate of the Indiana National guard, held that the men should have been tried before a general instead of a special court martial. It is probable that in order to maintain discipline the men will be tried before a general court martial.

By the order John K. McGreary is saved from serving six months in jail and paying a fine of $100 and James Lawson and Ernest Roberts are saved from paying small fines. Fred B. Wease, the fourth guardsman convicted by the special court martial, accepted the decision and served ten days in jail.

WILL BUILD AN EXTENSION.

Turners Plan to Enlarge Their Building on West Superior Street.

At a special session of the members of the Turnverein Vorwaerts held Wednesday evening it was definitely decided that a nextension be built to the present building and that work be started immediately. Plans and specifications were presented at the meeting and it was found that a rough estimate of the cost of the enlargement would be $7,000.

A building committee was appointed by the president, Otomar Stiegler, to submit a report on the proposed improvement at the next meeting in July. The committee is composed of Max Irmscher, G. Roggen, Prof. H. Meyer, A. Hickman, H. Korte, V. Kalteyer and E. Junghans.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah DeFrain were held this afternoon from Trinity Episcopal church. In the list of surviving children previously printed the name of a son, Edward DeFrain, was inadvertently omitted.

Skinner Puts Blame for Dillard Report on Road's Accountants.

PRAYER FROM THE HILLS ONCE MORE

Washington, June 4.—"Why did the directors make a report to the stockholders to the effect that the New Haven had marketable securities of the Dillard company worth $10,400,000 when they were, in reality, of little value?" asked Chief Counsel Folk, for the interstate commerce commission, of William Skinner, a director of the New Haven railroad, whose examination was continued today.

"Have you no auditing committee on the board?"

"No, but we employ certified accountants."

"Don't you know that the accountants said they had not been able to determine the value of the securities?"

"No, I can't speak for the other directors, but as far as I am concerned I took the word of the accounting department."

"Then, so far as these securities were concerned you were merely a rubber stamp director?"

"I did not and could not investigate all of the details. I accepted the report of the accounting department of the value of the securities."

Creation of Sentiment.

"Yes."

"Do you think it was proper to try and influence public feeling in that way?"

"I believe a railroad or other public corporation has the right to create public sentiment in its favor."

"By deception? Do you think it was right to circulate literature purporting to come from the people, when as a matter of fact it was sent out by the railroad?"

"With all the hue and cry against the railroads they must create sentiment in their favor."

"Are they justified in using any method?"

"No, but they must create the sentiment."

Pennsylvania on Board.

CALLERS WAIT AS WILSON GREETS A CRIPPLED BOY.

Washington, June 4.—President Wilson today kept a long line of callers waiting while he left his private office to shake hands with John W. Kern, jr., a son of Senator Kern, who has infantile paralysis and went to the white house on crutches.

EVERY DETAIL OF SPANISH LAW

Will Be Observed in Civil Marriage of Kermit Roosevelt.

Madrid, June 4.—Because Ambassador Willard desires to observe all the requirements of the Spanish laws in respect to foreign marriages the magistrate of the Buena Vista district will perform the civil marriage ceremony for Miss Belle Willard and Kermit Roosevelt on June 10. The American embassy is situated in the Buena Vista district the most aristocratic section of the city.

When the minister of state learned that the ambassador desired to observe the Spanish law in this respect he suggested the justice should go to the American embassy; but as the embassy is beyond the legal control of the magistrate being technically United States territory, a room has been fitted up in the magistrate's own residence where the ceremony will take place. The formal witnesses doubtless will include Eduardo Dato, the Spanish premier; the Marquis of Lem, the minister of state; Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador in Paris, and Col. Roosevelt.

The religious service will take place at noon the next day in the chapel of the British embassy. The chapel is in a pavilion in the embassy grounds. Rev. Dr. Samuel Watson, pastor of the American Protestant Episcopal church in Paris, will perform the service, assisted by the Rev. Herbert Brown, chaplain of the British embassy in Madrid. The wedding party will proceed from the ambassador's house to the church in auto-

UNABLE TO FIND THOSE MILLIONS

Man Who Made Big Bequests in Will Didn't Have the Wealth.

ESTATE IS IN DEBT

New York, June 4.—David R. Moffatt, railroad builder, at the time of his death March 18, 1911, rated as a multimillionaire, died comparatively poor, if property and securities left by him in New York are to be taken as a fair basis of estimate.

The report of the appraisal of Mr. Moffatt's estate filed in the transfer tax office showed that by his will he had made bequests of several millions of dollars whereas the estate is now indebted to the National bank of commerce for $100,000 due on a loan amounting to $200,000.

Mr. Moffatt's property in New York was appraised at $15,877.75. This represented all equity in 175 shares of stocks of the National Bank of Commerce which with other collateral put up to cover a $150,000 loan made by the First National bank of New York. Other collateral consisted of 1,000 shares of stocks of the First National bank of Denver and securities of a Chesapeake Beach resort. The appraisers declared these securities were nominal.

PRISONER ENDS LIFE TO ESCAPE MURDER PENALTY.

Dayton, Ohio, June 4.—The dead body of Arthur Fowler, a British subject, found guilty yesterday of the murder of John Jeanes, was found in the county jail early today. Fowler had secured a strap and hanged himself to the bars in his cell. During his trial an effort was made to save Fowler on a plea of insanity. A recommendation of mercy had saved him from the electric chair and he was to have been given a sentence of life imprisonment by the court within the next few days.

No Effort Made to Quash the Affidavits at Newcastle.

JULY 10 DATE FIXED

Prosecutor Myer was in court and no effort was made to quash the affidavit against the three who are accused of connection with the disappearance of Catherine Winters, nine years old, about a year ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Winters and Cooper were arrested May 30 on the conspiracy charge.

NEW ANGLE IN PROBLEM NOW

Washington, June 4.—Prospects of an attempted blockade of Tampico by Huerta gunboats took the position of chief interest in Mexican affairs here today and administration officials informed of the latest development only in news dispatches declined to indicate their policy, although they informed Admirals Badger and Mayo of the situation.

It was considered significant, however, that the state department immediately after Tampico fell into the hands of the constitutionalists announced that all Mexican gulf ports were declared "open" and that was accepted as a clear interpretation that no blockade would be caused.

Flies Cuban Flag.

The steamer Antilla bearing arms for Carranza, and which has aroused the present situation, flies the Cuban flag. What the United States would do should Huerta gunboats attempt to interfere with her, officials deemed to say or indicate.

Whether the United States ships would permit the Antilla to land her cargo, now that the embargo on arms is again in force, was another complicating feature, to which the officials here did not attempt to offer any explanation.

One of the foreign ministers in Mexico City advised the embassy of his country here today that Huerta regards the receipt of the recently landed cargo of arms as strengthening his position with the constitutionalists, but that it had not changed the directors' attitude toward mediation.

Held for Ransom.

The Spanish minister at Mexico City advised Mr. Riano, the Spanish ambassador here, that constitutionalists were continuing to exact enforced loans from Spaniards and in some cases were holding Spaniards for ransom and reporting the captives held by the brigands.

Rafael Zubiran, Gen. Carranza's representative here, said the constitutionalist chief had received the latest com-

PAYS BACK $1,000 FOR EACH DOLLAR BORROWED.

Newburgh, N. Y., June 4.—Through a promise he made forty years ago that he would return a thousand dollars for every one of fifty dollars advanced him for a prospecting trip to the west, John Patten has notified Mrs. Jos. Kampe, a widow living here, that he was preparing to send $50,000 to her. Mr. Patten was the son of John Patten, who conducted the Pacific hotel in Greenwich street, where he became acquainted with Mrs. Kampe and made the unusual promise. She had forgotten the matter until she received the message yesterday that told of the fortune that awaited her. Mrs. Kampe's husband was a tailor here.

ONE HUNDRED THERE

New York, June 4.—Fears were expressed today by the Christian and Missionary Alliance, which has about a hundred missionaries in various parts of China, for the safety of several men and women known to be in the towns pillaged and burned by the Chinese brigand, White Wolf.

At the monastery of the Tibetan lamas, which White Wolf followers set fire to, was a missionary named Kauffman, who came from Missouri. Mrs. Heupberg, of Boone, Ia.; Miss Kennon, of Ohio, and J. P. Rommon, of Indiana, also were believed to have been at the monastery mission.

Other Americans known to have been in missions said to have been destroyed by White Wolf are Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Christie, Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Ruple, of Philadelphia; Rev. and Mrs. Diehl, of Bowling Green, Ohio, and Rev. and Mrs. Snyder, of Indiana.

Public Ceremony at Quebec for Dead from Empress of Ireland.

CORTEGE IS NOTABLE

Quebec, June 4.—Twelve of the crew of the steamship Empress of Ireland, who perished in the St. Lawrence disaster, were buried here today with fitting ceremony. The funeral procession, moving to the music of military bands, passed between double rows of sorrowing spectators. Everywhere flags were at half mast.

Services were held in the two churches a Roman Catholic, where five of the bodies lay, and the Anglican cathedral, where there were seven dead. The duke of Connaught was officially represented by Captain Bullon, his aide de camp. Sir Francis Langelier, lieutenant governor, and members of the cabinet attended in person. Mayor Drouin and the council followed the cortege in the ranks of which were several Canadian Pacific railway officials.

SCHLEY'S OLD FLAGSHIP.

Cruiser Brooklyn, Once Headed for Scrap Heap, Goes to China.

Philadelphia, June 4.—The cruiser Brooklyn, which has been stationed at the local navy yard for nearly ten years, and which at one time was ordered to the scrap heap, will sail soon for China to take her place as flag ship of the Asiatic squadron. The Brooklyn was Admiral Schley's flag ship during the Spanish-American war and led the fighting when he Spanish fleet was destroyed at Santiago. The ship was struck about twenty times by shells and her sides still show where the blows were received.

Several years after the war the vessel was sent to the Philadelphia navy yard where she was put out of commission. About a year ago work was begun on the vessel and she was completely overhauled. Today she is one of the best and fastest cruisers in the navy.

TARRYTOWN NOW POSTS SENTRIES

PREPARE FOR CLASH

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 4.—In anticipation of the arrival here some time before Saturday of an army of several hundred members of the Industrial Workers of the World to follow an announced plan to hold a public demonstration against the [illegible] of thirteen of their number last week, Chief Doyle today assigned special deputies to sentry duty on all principal roads leading to Tarrytown. At the first appearance of a large number of suspected demonstrators, the sentry is instructed to notify the Terrytown police that they may be prepared to maintain peace when the band reaches the village.

Alexander Berkman, a leader of the demonstration, while visiting the White Plains jail yesterday, where the thirteen prisoners are held, who were arrested last Saturday, declared that it is a fight to a finish in Terrytown for free speech. While Berkman and several followers were at White Plains four young women scattered hand bills in Tarrytown denouncing John D. Rockefeller, jr., for his attitude toward the Colorado mine strike and Village President Frank R. Pierson for attempting to curb free speech and prevent the holding of public meetings.

The announcement of the Rev. E. J. Cates of the Methodist church that he would meet Berkman in a debate on the church yard Saturday resulted in a storm of protests yesterday and Mr. Cates was urged by his nine fellow members of the village ministerial alliance to withdraw the invitation. This Mr. Cates did, although he declared he hoped to meet Berkman in debate in New York city at some later date.

The thirteen prisoners will be given a hearing before Judge Morehouse on Saturday and Berkman and others of their friends have announced that they will demand the right to attend the trial.

It required most of the forenoon to fill the jury box. The singer accuses her husband of being unfaithful to his marriage vows.

POWER TOO GREAT, URGES BROWNELL

Washington, June 4.—Hurrying consideration of the administration anti-trust program in the hope of completing it Saturday or by Monday at the latest, the house today continued general debate on the Rayburn railroad securities bill, final measures on the administration list. Representative Adamson, in charge of the bill, expected to conclude the general debate tonight.

Beginning detailed consideration of the Rayburn bill tomorrow the house may finish the reading of the measure for amendment by Saturday. If the Rayburn bill can be hurried through tomorrow the final vote on the three anti-trust measures will be taken on Saturday. But if the last measure runs into Saturday the recording vote will be put off till Monday.

The three measures as amended by the house in committee of the whole will be taken up in order for a final vote and it is expected an entire day will be spent in roll calls on the bills.

Power Too Great, Says Brownell.

"In this bill the interstate commerce commission practically is given the powers of general managers and of the boards of directors of all the railroads of the country," said George F. Brownell, vice president of the Erie, testifying today before the senate interstate commerce committee on proposed anti-trust legislation which affects railroads.

"Under this bill," continued Mr. Brownell, "the commission would have the powers without the responsibilities, leaving the owners with the responsibilities and without the powers. It would lead to an interlocking directorate more vast than has been suggested as existing today."

Mr. Brownell did not oppose the principle of government supervision of security issues, but argued that the bill would give the interstate commerce commission too great powers.

This photograph shows the big hole in Erie street, between Hanover and Howard streets, where there is believed to be a serious cave-in of the intercepting sewer that crosses Fort Wayne from the St. Mary's river at Berry street to the Maumee river at a point east of the city limits. The street and sewer department is now excavating down to the sewer, a distance of about forty feet below the surface, to find and repair the supposed break. The intercepting sewer has been failing for some time to perform its purposed work. The sinking of Erie street at the place indicated in the picture first called attention to the trouble and the failure of attempts to fill the sink hole led to a belief that sewer had given away.

NEWS OF THE POLICE

Four months would be a short time to spend in prison for theft, but it is a long time to spend in the Allen county jail for any crime in the calendar. That is why John Flynn way fairly be regarded as having been severely dealt with for stealing a $20 kodak camera from the Meyer Brothers drug store, corner Calhoun and Columbia street, Wednesday evening. The fellow pleaded guilty and Judge Kerr fined him $20 and costs and added ninety days in jail. W. D. Rea, a clerk in the store, saw Flynn steal the camera and walk out with it. He pursued the thief, caught him before he could get away and aided by "Eddie" Hedges held him until Detective Sergeant Joseph Brennan arrived. When searched at headquarters a dozen cheap pocket knives, evidently stolen from a 10-cent store, were found on Flynn. These he said he had purchased for 50 cents from a tramp he met on a freight train. Flynn was well dressed, claims he has a wife and says he hails from Rochester, N. Y., which last circumstance may account for his weakness for kodaks.

Woman Punished for Theft.

Florence Reinhart, a rather pretty and rather silly young wife whose husband is a hard-working man, was fined $10 and costs and given a suspended jail sentence of forty days for stealing a ring from Mrs. Emma May, who conducts a boarding house on Barr street, where the Reinhart's formerly resided. The ring was an heirloom and much prized by Mrs. May. Mrs. Reinhart, who had been in jail for several days since her arrest, apepared in court resplendent in a lot of pink fixings suggestive of a coming-out party of quite different sort. She admitted taking the ring, but denied that she stole it. Detective Sergeant Peter Junk, who worked on the case, testified that Mrs. Reinhart strenuously denied to him that she had the ring while at the same time she was wearing it, as the detective plainly could see.

Judge Kerr has taken under advisement until Saturday the case of Albert Heider, a young man charged with forgery. He cashed a worthless check for $5 on the Old National bank. Andy Kelly, proprietor of a saloon on Calhoun street, furnishing the money for the incident. Heider, who spent four years in the Jeffersonville reformatory for burglary and was not long ago discharged, declares the check was given him without consideration by one "George A. Taylor," of Chicago, whose name is signed to the check. An effort will be made to locate the alleged Taylor in Chicago.

Other City Court Cases.

Ernest Dammeier, came here from the parched and parching desert of Decatur, where Landlord Smith has done all man can do to relieve the public thirst and without avail, and proceeded to wet his cracked whistle. It took many wettings to restore the whistle to its pristine tunefulness and by that time Mr. Dammeier had himself pickled to keep a lifetime. Officer Nick Petgen counseled the pilgrim from Decatur to have a greater solicitude for the care of his souse and was told to mind his business. The rest has been related. One dollar and costs was the assessment and the visiting neighbor went to jail.

Floyd Boschet, drew eleven days for getting drunk and for a similar offense Paul McBride fifteen days. Albert Miller another intoxicated parader was tagged eleven days and Joe Petrock paid $11 for a drunk that initially got him arrested and booked on a charge of petit larceny. A bunch of foreigners had a celebration at a saloon on Wallace street and a ten-dollar gold piece belonging to one of them disappeared. Petrock was accused and arrested.

"NO DRINK" ORDER TO OFFICERS.

Chief of Police Lenz has transmitted through Captain Richerd Kelly the night commandant of police, and Lieutenant Ed Bievelheimer, day commandant, an order to all policemen in the department that any officer convicted of drinking in a saloon while wearing his uniform will be summarily dismissed from the service. The chief has also issued orders that hereafter saloon-keepers must so dispose the screens in the places as to permit unobstructed view of the bar during all hours that it is unlawful to sell, this meaning Sundays, holidays and the time from midnight to 5 o'clock in the morning. Each patrolman will be held responsible for all such violations on his beat.

SCION OF WEALTH'S SECRET MARRIAGE ENDS IN ALIENATION SUIT.

MRS. PEARL E. LEVI.

San Francisco, Cal., Pearl E. Levi, who was secretly married to Milton J. Levi at Independence, Cal., filed suit against Fannie and Herman Levi for $150,000 damages, alleging that they alienated the affections of her wealthy young husband.

Fannie Levi is the mother and Herman Levi the uncle of Milton Levi, who is the junior member of the private firm of H. Levi & Co. The plaintiff was formerly Pearl Eubanks, of this city.

The complaint filed by Mrs. Levi yesterday recites that Milton Levi deserted her just fifteen days after their marriage because of the persistent importuning of Fannie and Herman Levi, who, she says, did "willfully entice and abduct her husband from her."

Young Levi, the complaint recites, is the owner of considerable stock in the H. Levi Company, and the deserted bride declares that the defendants threatened to destroy the value of Milton's holdings in the banking concern if he did not leave her. It further alleges that Fannie and Herman Levi told the young husband that unless he had nothing more to do with his wife, he would be disinherited by the family.

At the time of filing this action, Pearl Levi filed another suit against her husband, Milton, for maintenance pending the outcome of the trial of the alienation suit. In the latter, she asks for $600 a month.

THE CONVENTION HALL

Announcement was made Thursday morning by Secretary Charles L. Biederwolf, of the Commercial club, that President William M. Griffin has conferred with the board of directors and intends to join with other commercial organizations in the state in an effort to induce the government to name one of its new battleships Indiana, and something definite toward this will be done jointly, it is said, by the commercial bodies of the state within the near future.

Chairman Frank E. Bohn, of the club's membership committee, with other members of the organization, started out at noon Wednesday in the second of a series of club membership campaigns, and it is hoped to exceed the total announced a week ago when twenty-two applications were filed by business and professional men desiring to become affiliated with the club. The desire of the committee is to increase the membership to 1,000 members before the middle of the summer.

The Convention Hall.

A special meeting of the citizens' convention hall committee was held Wednesday evening, and if the sentiment expressed by the delegates avails, Fort Wayne will have a modern and beautiful convention hall within the next year and a half. The committee meeting was the first held since the floods of March, 1913, at which time a plan had been launched to ask the city council to appropriate $75,000 bonds to finance the building of the assembly hall. The flood and the attending results caused a delay in the plans.

Maurice C. Niezer, chairman of the club's committee on assemblages, was elected president of the reorganized convention hall committee. Thomas W. Blair was elected vice chairman, with Charles L. Biederwolf as secretary.

All the students were examined by the college physician, Eric Crull, and all with the exception of three will be allowed to participate in the events. It was found that these three were physically unable to enter in the contests.

SIX PATIENTS IN ONLY TWO WEEKS

ABOUT 'FT. RECOVERY'

"Six patients enrolled during the past two weeks, each in the very first stages of tuberculosis, could be saved without doubt, if Allen county, or Fort Wayne possessed a suitable hospital or open air sanitarium for their care," declared Miss Irene Byron, Thursday. Miss Byron is the office secretary and visiting nurse with the Fort Wayne Anti-Tuberculosis society, and it is safe to say that no person in Allen county is more familiar with the tubercular conditions here and the needs of the victims than is she.

"They all have excellent chances to recover, with careful treatment, and all are now living in the open air constantly and shaping their mode of living, according to the lines prescribed by the physician attached to the anti-tuberculosis staff, but it would be needless to entertain one tiny doubt concerning their ultimate recovery, if we could place each one of them in a hospital treating only such cases."

About Fort Recovery.

A nineteen-year-old Fort Wayne girl who is unfortunately a victim of the disease, but who has excellent prospects to recover, is living in a tent and she has dubbed her temporary place of residence "Fort Recovery."

"Will you please send me out a flag," asked the semi-weakened voice over the telephone at the anti-tuberculosis headquarters.

"What do you want with a flag?" was the answer.

"I want to float it from 'Fort Recovery'" came the reply, and then Miss Byron got the story of "Fort Recovery."

He seeks this in order that the latter might not be in a position to exert an undue influence in the election of the next pope.

PROHI PLATFORM IS PROGRESSIVE

Party in Indiana Takes Advanced Stand on Many Issues.

THE TICKET IS NAMED

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4.—Sumner W. Haynes, of Portland, was chosen as the candidate for the United States senate and a complete state ticket was nominated by the prohibition state convention yesterday after it had adopted a platform, declaring that the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage is wrong," and that which is morally wrong can never be made legally right or politically wise." The ticket follows:

For United States senator, Sumner W. Haynes, of Portland.

For treasurer of state, Oscar J. Current, of Redkey.

For state superintendent, C. A. Munmart, of Huntington.

For state geologist, B. W. Stoldard, of Indianapolis.

For appellate court, Second district, A. B. Kirkpatrick, of Kokomo; I. G. Pollard, of Hammond, and T. E. Ballard, of Crawfordsville.

In addition to the liquor plank, the platform declares in favor of legislation to abolish "white slave traffic;" prohibit child labor; arbitration of labor disputes; the initiative and referendum in legislation; a reduction of all excessive salaries of state and county officials; uniform marriage and divorce laws; adequate pensions for war veterans and government construction of trunk highways.

The platform also states "we are opposed to the withholding of the ballot from any part of our citizenship on account of sex."

A number of places on the ticket were contested and the voting, at times, was spirited.

CITY TO FOSTER PARK SPOONING

BY ARRANGING SEATS

Birmingham, Ala., June 4.—Embargoes heretofore maintained against "spooning" in the public parks of this city have been lifted, whether it be done in the dark or under the electric lights.

Sweethearts who heretofore have been denied the use of the public parks for billing and cooing will not only be permitted the use of the parks, but actually encouraged and assisted by the city commission, which has given specific directions to this effect to the police department.

For several years young men and women have been complaining that their personal privileges of romance were unreasonably restricted in Birmingham, and many protests were lodged with the city commission against interference by the police.

Judge A. O. Lane, commissioner of public justice, a broad-minded man with a large family, determined to change the regulations in force. He declares that the city will offer every protection and encouragement to "legitimate spooning" in the parks this summer.

Seek to Encourage Matches.

Judge Lane holds that every one loves a lover and feels that the city especially should encourage love-making and love matches. The police are instructed to watch the parks. Orders are given to stop all really questionable conduct, but the regulation romancing is not to be hindered.

Commissioner of Streets and Parks Weatherly is also a man of large family. He says plenty of benches will be provided in the parks for lovers, that the parks are in more attractive shape this year than ever to provide inviting settings for the encouragement of romance.

He declares the city has no right to regulate love affairs, which is too much like regulating the family; that it is no part of the city to mix up with the human element of "spooning" among young people, which has been going on from time immemorial, but that this should be promoted for the happiness that lies in romance. His department of streets and parks will pursue the policy of "hands off" from these delicate and sacred matters.

Why Should Bachelor Object?

President George B. Ward, of the city commission, is a bachelor. While he has made no official announcement relative to the new policy, he is a recognized beau and "catch," and it is believed he will not interfere with the new move on the part of the city to make Birmingham the haven of those whose lives are largely influenced by the romantic element.

Mrs. Wilson Searight, head of the welfare department that protects and assists young girls, declares she is wholly in love with real lovers, sweethearts and early marriages, but she does not fully comprehend what is meant by "spooning." However, she believes the new policy of protecting lovers is all right in principle as well as in judgment and she will do her part to help them.

MUNCIE WILL SOON BE DRY.

Court Upholds Validiay of Recent Option Election.

Muncie, Ind., June 4.—Muncie, a city of close to 30,000 population, will be without saloons after next Saturday, according to the ruling yesterday of Judge Frank Ellis in the Delaware circuit court in which he upheld the validity of the option election here, March 9, last, when the city voted "dry" by a majority of 462.

The "wets" contested the election on the ground that it was illegal because voting machines were used and that the "drys" did not get a majority of the voters that appeared at the polls. They contended that 497 voters, gave their names to the poll claims and entered the voting booths, yet failed to register a vote and for that reason declared that the "drys" did not get a majority.

Under the ruling the 20 saloons of the city will close their doors Saturday night and they will remain closed for two years, unless the "wets" are successful in their appeal to the supreme court. It was said an appeal would be filed at once.

Fort Wayne Contractor Protests Kendallville City Hall Award.

Kendallville, Ind., June 4.—J. W. Goodall & Sons, Peru, Ind., were awarded the contract for the construction of Kendallville's new municipal hall at a contract price of $27,850 at the regular meeting of the city council.

The successful bidder is the firm that has just completed the building of the DeKalb county court house at Auburn.

Henry Hilgeman, Fort Wayne, for $29,997; Beers-Offut Construction company, Fort Wayne, $29,550; E. J. Blotkamp, Kendallville, $32,990; Indiana Engineering and Construction company, Fort Wayne, $27,846.

These figures show the bid of the successful firm is $4 higher than that of the Engineering Construction company, which was represented here by H. P. Moran. When the award was announced Mr. Moran demanded to know why his bid, which was the lowest of the five, was not accepted. No reason was given, the committee claiming the right to reject any and all bids. Mr. Moran declared the treatment as not fair and threatened to serve an injunction on the city to hold up the work until a satisfactory reason was given why the lowest bid was not accepted. No such action has been taken as yet, however.

CAN READ WHAT "MOVIES" SAY.

Warsaw Lad Trained to Lip-Reading Can Interpret Photo Players.

Warsaw, Ind., June 4.—When Mr. and Mrs. J. Regenos, grandparents of seven-year-old Allen Dale Regenos, South Union street, suggested that the three of them "take in" a moving picture show at Indianapolis they did not know what a treat was in store for them.

Ordinarily they enjoy moving pictures, but to be told exactly what the actors of the silent play are saying to each other and to be told by their own little grandson, who is deaf, was a treat quite out of the ordinary.

Allen Regenos has been attending the Indiana State School for the Deaf at Indianapolis. He has made rapid strides in speech and especially lip reading. His talent in the latter is such that he can tell from the formation of the lips what one is saying most of the time and the photo plays are a source of great amusement to him. The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Regenos who reside near Claypool.

UNIQUE WEDDING GIFT.

Miss Good, of Huntington, Writes a Song for the Bride.

Huntington, Ind., June 4.—Blanche Good, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Good of Huntington, has received wide notice in New York newspapers and music journals for having composed "The Legend," which was dedicated to Miss Lydia Butler and was played at her wedding.

The composition was Miss Good's wedding gift to her friend, and although the wedding was one of the largest of recent New York weddings, the unique gift attracted as much attention as the costliest gown.

Miss Good yesterday completed her first year at Smith college, Northampton, Mass. She will spend the summer in New York where she has a reputation as a musician. On June 17 she will play before the New York Musical association.

Morris, of Petroleum, was called and dressed the injuries and set the broken bones and he is hopeful for the recovery of the aged woman, although her advanced age makes her injuries of a very dangerous character.

YOUNG PRISONER WANTS TO DIE.

Hartford City, Ind., June 4.—Ralph Mullin, 19, son of James Mullin, laying out a fine for intoxication in the county jail, attempted to commit suicide when he drank a quantity of disinfectant fluid. I'll hang myself tonight."

The quality is excellent and the crop bounteous. The prevailing price is $1.75 per crate, but a drop is expected at any time. Sweet cherries will be plentiful, but other varieties may fall short. Berries of all kinds, plums, melons and grapes, as well as fruit generally, will in all probability be excellent in quality and not scarce. Apples, it is predicted, will be few.

JUDGE YAPLE AT LAGRANGE.

(Lagrange Democrat-Call.)

"The main address of the day, delivered by Hon. Carl Yaple, of Fort Wayne, jurge of the superior court of Allen county, was a masterful effort. Those who knew of Judge Yaple's record expected a great speech from him and none were disappointed. It was historical and patriotic, beautiful in diction, and held the closest attention of the large audience until the close. Probably no better address on a similar occasion was ever delivered in Lagrange, many pronouncing it the finest oration of the kind they had ever heard. No brief synopsis that we might give here could do the speaker justice, and the entire address would be too long for publication in these columns."

The Pleasure of Eating—

Yes—but far more important is the effect of food on body and brain.

is not only a delightfully appetizing food, but is remarkably rich in nutritive values.

Made from whole wheat and barley, Grape-Nuts retains all the nutrition of these grains, including the mineral salts—phosphate of potash, etc.—so necessary for growth and repair of the delicate brain and nerve tissues, but which are so often lacking in ordinary food.

Ready to eat from the package, with cream or milk and a sprinkle of sugar—

Those who abhor sticky, greasy, shiny, streaked complexions should religiously avoid creams, powders and rouges during the heated days. There's no need for them, anyway, since the virtues of mercolized wax have become known. No amount of perspiration will produce any evidence that you've been using the wax. As it is applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning, the complexion never looks like a make-up. Mercolized wax gradually takes off a bad complexion, instead of adding anything to make it worse. It has none of the disadvantages of cosmetics and accomplishes much more in keeping the complexion beautifully white, satiny and youthful. Just get an ounce of it at your druggist's and see what a few days' treatment will do. Use like cold cream.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Acts 6:1-10.

1 And in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily ministrations.

2 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

3 Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business.

4 But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

5 And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas a proselyte of Antioch:

6 Whom they set before the apostles: and when they had prayed, they laid their hands on them.

7 And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith.

8 And Stephen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia and of Asia, disputing with Stephen.

10 And they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spake.

Going After Foreign Trade

It is interesting to note that the national foreign trade convention held in Washington a few days ago gave enthusiastic endorsement to the plan of the resourceful Secretary Redfield, to establish government commercial attaches at stragetic points in foreign countries as an aid in the extension of American export trade. The business men left congress in no doubt whatever as to their approval of the plan.

The commercial attache question was considered very carefully by the house committee on appropriations when it made up the legislative appropriation bill last January. The committee approved it and inserted it in the bill as reported to the house. The great majority of the house members were also in favor of it, but it was new legislation, and therefore out of order in an annual appropriation bill. Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, although asked not to do so by a number of his colleagues, made a point of order against it and it was therefore stricken out of the bill.

In the senate, however, the item has been reinserted, and while the $150,000 asked for by Secretary Redfield has been cut to $100,000, it is believed this will be sufficient to provide a test of the plan, for it will make available the services of eight or nine attaches of this sort. They will make a first-hand study of foreign markets, foreign demands and foreign conditions, and place the information thus gained at the service of American business men. American export trade is as yet only from 4 to 5 per cent. of the country's total trade, while it is 45 per cent. of the total trade of Germany and 50 per cent. of that of Great Britain. If Secretary Redfield's plan "works" effectively, a few years should show a marked increase in export business for America.

Fort Wayne has noted little recent manifestation of activity in the campaign against smoke, launched with much vigor and prosecuted with considerable diligence a year or more ago, but results at St. Louis should serve as a stimulus to the good work here. St. Louis is now proclaiming itself as the smokeless city, the inspector declaring that the smoke nuisance has been practically eliminated there. We may still have hope.

Encouraging results are already noted in several instances as a result of the milk depot for babes established but a few days ago at the First Presbyterian church. The work is a splendid one, and no Fort Wayne mother with a babe that is not perfectly healthy and well-nourished should neglect to avail herself of the skill and the expert advice that is thus placed freely at her command.

Two men under arrest at South Bend, charged with flirting with the new policewoman in that city, declare they will fight the case on the ground that she urged the flirtation. While neither bears the name of Adam, it is plainly evident that each of the accused is a lineal descendant of that historic gentleman of old.

Records made up from the news dispatches make it pretty clear that the motorcycle is rapidly crowding the automobile and all other classes of vehicles far to the rear as a producer of business for the surgeon, with the undertaker now and then sharing in the harvest of disaster.

The decree of Police Chief Lenz just issued to the effect that any police officer who drinks intoxicants while on duty will be summarily dismissed from the force very naturally raises the suspicion that some of them have been doing it—and who would have believed it possible?

PERPETUAL POLITICS.

We suppose that the people will have to be reconciled to the beginning this year of the presidential campaign of 1916. Not a move is now being made that is not prompted, at least in part, by motives connected with the great struggle to be staged two years hence. Ambitious statesmen are already laying their pipes or stringing their wires. Combinations and alliances are being suggested having for their object, not the welfare of the country, but the prosperity of this or that political party, and the fortunes of aspiring leaders. Is it not possible that business is suffering, not so much from proposed legislation, as from too much politics?

Certainly business activity is just now more to be desired than political activity. It is more important than men should be at work making a living than getting delegates or framing issues. We have had during the last few years a surfeit of politics. What is worse, many of us have come to believe that commercial and industrial salvation is to be worked out through legislation rather than through individual effort. There are those who would have the people devote practically their whole time to politics. It is from these that we have the demand for frequent—and direct—primaries, and initiative, referendum and recall elections whenever they shall be ordered by a few disgruntled folk. In his recent statement Mr. Roosevelt said that the country could enjoy the right sort of prosperity only under the "policies" of his party. The whole question, as he sees it, is political.

We think that the people may well ask themselves whether they are never to have a chance to tend to their own affairs with the minimum disturbance from statesmen and politicians. There is no reason whatever why we should this year be asked to fight the battle of 1916. We in this country must necessarily pay a good deal of attention to politics—it is one of the prices that we must pay for free government. But that is a very good reason why we should not permit issues or candidates to be forced on our consideration two years in advance of the time when we are to vote on them.

PRESS ON OPENING OF CANAL TO TRAFFIC.

"Barge Traffic."

Norfolk Virginia-Pilot: "The Panama canal has been opened to barge traffic and within the last two weeks thousands of tons of freight, delayed in transmission by interruptions of railway transportation in Mexico, have been forwarded to their destinations."

"Serving Mankind."

Hartford Courant: "The canal has already begun its work of serving mankind on commercial lines and a service of this kind is bound to go on as long as man is enterprising and industrious."

"The Cucaracha Slide."

Providence Journal: "If a tug and five loaded barges can make the trip from the Pacific to the Atlantic now it will not be long before the Cucaracha slide in the Culebra cut is sufficiently excavated to permit the passage of ships of any size."

"Next Year."

"More Dredging."

Pittsburg Dispatch: "Some months more dredging will be required, besides which the possibility of more slides must be recognized. But the canal is open to moderately sized and smaller vessels."

"The Culebra Cat."

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: "Delay in clearing the Culebra cut, which has been repeatedly filled by material from the sliding banks, has prevented the passage of the Panama railroad's steamer, but the depth of water is sufficient to allow shallow barges to pass."

"Canal is Open."

New York Times: "Nothing more significant can be said than the words which can truthfully be uttered now, that the Panama canal is open for traffic."

"A HUNDRED MILLIONS IN THE HOUSE TONIGHT"

By HENRY M. WILLIAMS.

The above, the remark of the president of one of our prominent national banks a few weeks ago at the end of a dinner party of twenty business men, as they were coming out of the dining room of the "Anthony hotel," and then added, "those two young men from New York you see going out are worth a hundred millions."

I had observed the large dinner party, a few tables beyond mine, among whom were J. Levering Jones, with many of his traction people, and my remark to the banker, as they filed out of the dining room was "that means a sale of the "traction company by the Philadelphia owners to the New Yorkers." "No," was the banker's reply, "not necessarily; they met here by chance, not by appointment."

What a lucky thing that "chance" would turn out to be if those "rushing," "pushing," "pulling" New Yorkers should become the owners of our "traction interests," in the place of the mild, easy going, very gentlemenly Philadelphians.

I make the prediction, if the New Yorkers do buy the control, that they will put in five millions additional money, that they will buy the "Decatur interurban," twenty-two miles, and extend it to Portland, twenty-seven miles south, and that they will also buy the lines from Fort Wayne north to Kendallville and Garrett, extending one branch of that still farther north and the other branch east toward Toledo.

But, and "best of all," I predict that they will extend the present splendidly paying line from Lima, Ohio, to Fort Wayne, on farther to Columbia City and Chicago, which will excel even the "Lima" line itself in profitableness. Great things are in store for Fort Wayne, if the New Yorkers take hold, and it is my prediction that they will "buy in," and very soon too, and that Fort Wayne will then take on a new "boom," the like of which we have not experienced yet.

By HENRY M. WILLIAMS.

Our prevailing southwest winds may appropriately be called "winds of prosperity." They blow, and they blow, from southwest to northeast, the revolution of the earth the cause of them, the cause of that usually prevailing wind direction. They blow, and blow, all the way across country, until they debouch from off the land and spread over the cold, cold waters of our extreme northeast coast, the cold waters of the Nova Scotia-Newfoundland coasts, which can receive, and can condense by chilling, an immense volume of our southwest warm winds.

But it is not unlimited, the amount of hot air those cold waters can receive by condensation, there is a limit to the condensing capacity of that deep, dark cold storage hole, its capacity is great indeed, but not unlimited. The life giving trade winds ("good business" winds) from the southwest blow, and blow, and blow, until at last that cold storage hole is filled up, and over filled up and then at last comes the inevitable "reaction," and the wind "giggs" back. Very greatly to our discomfort out here in the interior it returns as an "east wind."

An East Wind.

That "east wind," moisture laden, attacks us here, there and everywhere along the line, from the Atlantic coast west, and west, and still west, and but for the great obstructing barrier of the Rocky mountains might reach even to California, an illustration of the power of "a reaction."

And who can endure, who, the dreadful discomfort of an "east wind?" The warmest clothing of winter does not suffice to keep one comfortable in the face of that moisture laden, dreaded east wind.

In the Business World.

And so it is in the "Business World," too much business, too many starting new in business, overcrowded and overdone, (succeeding so much of the southwest winds of "prosperity") is inevitably followed by the "reaction," the reactionary, "backactionary" east wind in business, which in the present example of it in the U. S. A., has now about run its course, the "good business" winds are now coming, soon to blow upon us again.

DIES WITH PAROLE IN HAND.

Leavenworth, Kas., June 4.—"Davy" Truax, 82 years old, died of joy at the state prison here yesterday. "Davy" had been a prisoner 25 years but he was not a convict when he died. He had his parole papers clutched tightly in his hand. The old man, a member of the Ninety-first New York infantry in the civil war, was an inmate of the soldiers' home at Dodge City, when he killed one man and wounded another in a quarrel over liquor. He was sent to prison for life.

He never lost hope. He believed he would be released some day and that he might not be buried in a pauper's grave, he saved $150 from his pension. Tuesday the old man's faith was confirmed when he was notified that he had been granted a parole. Yesterday he was ready to go home. He sat joyously in the prison executive offices waiting for the car which would take him to freedom.

When the car drew up, friends turned to help the aged veteran away. He was cold and inert. The doctors said "Davy's" heart had not been able to bear the strain of his happiness.

CECILIA PHILBROOK, ENGLISH GIRL REFUGEE FROM MEXICO.

San Francisco, Cal., June 4.—Amongst 40 refugees who arrived here recently via steamer from Mazatan was an English girl, Cecelia Philbrook, who fled Guadalajara under the protection of the American flag.

This is unusual. Generally it is the Americans in Mexico who are constantly seeking the protection of the English flag, not the English who are now gathering under the stars and stripes. The American flag doesn't stand for much in Mexico, according to the refugees who flock out of there to the United States, and who claim that it is a common occurence to see Old Glory spat upon and trampled in the dirt.

The great risks that subjects of the British Isles run in the southern republic is being constantly mistaken for Americans," said Miss Philbrook. "You see our style of dress, mannerisms and general appearance is so similiar that it is almost impossible at times for an Englishman to make the Mexicans believe that he is not an American.

"It became absolutely necessary for me to leave Guadalajara on account of the great danger to all foreigners there and the quickest way out was under the protection of the stars and stripes so I took it."

Parents and their problems interest and take much of the time of Mrs. E. R. Weeks, vice president of the National Congress of Mothers.

She believes that the efficiency of the school and the government depends very largely on the wisdom displayed by the mother in home-making.

There's Nothing so Good as USOLINE To Keep Bowels Regular.

The process of digestion and assimilation is continuous, we might almost say timed, and automatic.

If every organ is able to do its work properly, everything goes all right and we are strong and healthy.

But if the even procession is blocked anywhere, then trouble commences.

Now, we nearly all eat at every meal time, generally we eat too much.

But suppose our bowels are irregular, constipated, and that the wastes are not being carried out promptly. What happens? The wastes accumulate, are packed in, becoming a poisoned mass filling up more of the bowels. The whole system is contaminated and we have all sorts of troubles.

This is "Auto-Intoxication," and one most serious result is an accumulation of uric acid, rheumatism, and preparing the way for Bright's Disease.

You don't need physic, purgatives and violent cathartics. Leave drugs alone and simply take USOLINE. It passes right into the bowels and softens the accumulations, lubricates the passages, and causes the movements of the bowels to resume in a normal, healthy, painless, regular way. Constipation disappears and with it the uric acid.

USOLINE is a pure, colorless, tasteless and odorless, mineral oil. Pleasant to take for children as well as adults. Use it to keep the bowels right, and, barring accidents, you are entitled to a long, healthy, useful life.

Try USOLINE, imported only by OIL PRODUCTS COMPANY, New York, and sold by druggists generally. Three sizes, 25c, and 50c, a large bottle, and $1 a three pint tin. Also in capsules, 2 doz. in a box, 50c. Ask or write for printed matter.

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days. Adv.

RICH MEN'S BRIDES HAVE FULL PURSES BUT OFTEN PLAIN FACES.

Louise Converse

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr.

New York, June 4.—The announcement that Junius Morgan, grandson of J. Pierpont Morgan is to marry Louise Converse, daughter of a Boston composer, offers a distinct novelty in millionaire matings and marks young Morgan as a man of originality.

For, whether it is a passionate wish to be loved "for himself alone" or from the less romantic reason, that money naturally attracts him, the typical young millionaire of today chooses for his wife a girl as nearly his equal in wealth as he can find her—and a girl remarkable for nothing else.

Young Vincent Astor married a girl whose mother is the heiress of a great fortune which she, of course will inherit. William K. Vanderbilt Jr., married Virginia Fair, California heiress who could pretty nearly match him in millions. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gave his heart and fortune to the daughter of Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, a wealthy banker whose financial rating is so good that even John D., Sr., would lend him money if he needed it.

A noteworthy fact about the wives of all these young men is that they are in no way unusual except for the amount of money they represent. You can go into any department store or any factory and see a half a dozen girls their superiors in beauty. Nor has any one of them given evidence of mental brilliancy. It's possible, indeed it's likely, that young millionaires don't want brilliant wives. And they don't seem to be beauty-seekers, either with exception of o young Morgan, who is marrying a relatively poor girl.

Generally speaking, I don't believe in the sort of optimism which tries to make men and women contented when being discontented would do them a lot more good. And since I read that the National Manufacturers' association used to pay the salaries of orators over the Chautauqua circuits doling out "cheer-up stuff" I believe in the platform optimism less than ever.

Still the poor young man can find comfort in the thought that the Astors and Rockefellers and Vanderbilts with the millions have not been able to win prettier girls than he may have for the offer of his heart and his faith and a fighting chance of being able to pay the butcher and the baker.

It was poor boy—Paris, tending his flocks on the hills of Troy—who wished for the "most beautiful woman in the world." He got her, though at the cost of a 10 years' war. And today it's the poor young man who wins beauty—and sometimes a 10 years' war along with it. The rich man, to be sure, takes the same chances as to "war," only he has not the compensation of charm and beauty.

GAVE ECXELLENT PROGRAM.

A number of the advanced pupils of the European School of Music gave a recital before a large audience in Elks hall last evening and the honor pupils, Miss Helene Spindler and Earl Thompson, of this city, and Charles Thornburg, of Auburn, received the gold medals offered by Messrs. A. S. Bond, Charles McCulloch and E. F. Yarnelle for excellence in work. O. F. Dodge, at the head of the voice department of the school, presented the medals at the close of a program highly interesting and finely rendered. The program was unusually interesting and not too long. Emmet Spindler, a lad of a dozen years, played a set of variations by Bellini with accuracy in pitch and altogether so marked an improvement in his year's work that his friends were rightfully enthusiastic about him. Miss Helen Rosebraugh played a Schubert impromptu with real beauty of tone in such admirable tempo and rhythm and with such clearness of runs that she, too, came in for a share of honors. Miss Helen Thomas, of Huntington, has a very beautiful soprano voice which is well placed and true to pitch. She sang very well indeed and responded to an encore. Miss Dorothy Cox, a young violinist with considerable natural feeling for expression and intelligent comprehension of her work, played a Vieuxtemps fantasie in admirable manner, but with some passages not absolutely true in intonation. Miss Leah Gardner, pianist, of Wabash, played in excellent style and with a vigor and a technique that bespeaks the talented as well as the earnest student a Liszt polonaise. Miss Gardner's performance was received with a flattering amount of applause and she played again beautifully. Miss Ethel Dond sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," displaying her sweet and rich toned voice to good advantage and winning approbation for improvement in many ways. Charles Thornburg, another young student, played a de Beriot concerto with every evidence of progress in technical accomplishment and displaying again his innate feeling for musical expression and understanding so noticeable at his performance a year ago when he had had but a few months' study. He is a very promising student. Earl Thompson, the well known baritone, never sang better than at this recital. His voice displayed aside from its naturally melodious quality a highly appreciable development in evenness, breath control and modulation. After a beautiful rendition of "Evening Star" from "Thanhauser" Mr Thompson sang again. Miss Helene Spindler, who had played all accompaniments for the entire program, played a St. Saens etude that for difficulties in technical work is not often attempted by amateurs. However, Miss Spindler's work was anything but amateurish at this recital. Her playing of the etude was superior for its clarity, its rhythm and its style. It was a splendid performance. The program closed with Miss Spindler playing the first movement of the Beethoven concerto with her teacher, George Baillie, at the second piano. Miss Spindler displayed in the Beethoven number a feeling for appreciation of the work itself that was probably the most marked characteristic of her year's work. She had played the Beethoven before with the same high degree of technical finish but not with so beautiful an interpretation as at this time.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"A MILLION BID."

Big Vitagraph Masterpiece at the Majestic Tonight.

"A Million Bid," the five-reel Vitagraph masterpiece, stands absolutely alone in the annals of motion photography. The scene wherein a ship is wrecked is but one of its many thrills. Another is when the young wife is confronted by her first husband, whom she believes was drowned. He comes to her second husband, a world-famous brain specialist, to have his lost memory restored, having completely forgotten the existence of his wife. This wonderful picture had 250 consecutive performances at the Vitagraph theater in New York city. Anita Stuart plays the leading role, and is ably assisted by other famous Vitagraph players. This drama, absolutely unchanged, comes to the Majestic theater today for an engagement of three days. The Gaiety theater, under whose management the picture is presented, has installed a complete moving picture plant in the Majestic theater.

LES MISERABLES,

Paris, if not all of France, was thoroughly ransacked to find actors and actresses who not only had great names in the dramatic world, but also possessed the required fitness, in size, face and form to portray the characters in the most famous photoplay of the age, taken from Victor Hugo's sublime "Epic" masterpiece, "Les Miserables," which is to be presented in this city at the Majestic theater all next week.

AT THE TEMPLE

The Temple Theater Stock company, playing at the Temple theater, opens this evening with an entirely new production, entitled, "The Man and the Girl," and it is pleasing to note that this bill is directly alternating from the early week play that served to introduce the Temple players to Fort Wayne audiences.

Two rehearsals each day is a portion of the program participated in by members of the Temple Stock company, and this week rehearsals are in progress for next week's plays, "The Wages of Sin," for the first of the week, and "Why Girls Leave Home," for Thursday, Friday, Saturday matinee and night.

The closing performance of "Tom, Dick and Harry," Wednesday evening, drew a well filled house and the advance sale for the new show indicates a good attendance for the opening performance.

AT THE EMPRESS

"Variety is the spice of life"—and that is what the Empress is trying to give the public in respect to the feature films now being run at the theater. Step by step the films are going from a tender love and thrilling story of the strife in a family—then from the western rough life of the plains to—what will it be—or what is it?—"The Ghost."

But what is "The Ghost." Those in the audience at the matinee yesterday had several guesses coming before the film was finished. It was a game of guess as you go.

(By Nixola Greeley-Smith.)

New York, June 4.—When I called on Fay Kellogg, architect, the other day, she—yes, she, and that's the point of the story—wanted to talk to me about eleven little pigs that had just made their bow to society on her farm at Green Lawn, Long Island. And when the pioneer architect of America got through telling me about the little pigs she added:

"And since I saw you last, my Guernsey cow has presented me with a heifer calf. You know for years she has insisted on having only masculine calves."

"I'm glad the Guernsey has become a feminist," I replied. "But I came here because I want you—a feminist who has made good—to tell other women who may be interested just how you blazed your feminine way into the closed profession of architecture. How did you become the pioneer woman architect in the United States?"

"I believe I am that," Miss Kellogg answered, and I couldn't help smiling at the picture of this blue-eyed, alert young woman in the thirties as a pioneer. "After I studied architecture at Pratt institute in Brooklyn, where I was born, I tramped the streets for a year looking vainly for someone who would give me employment. Nobody would take a woman. Why, the idea of a woman architect was revolutionary. Finally a Frenchman showed himself daring enough to give me a chance after I had been refused everywhere else. I worked for him a year for $5 a week. Then through a friend I got a chance to work in the office of a big New York firm. I later studied in Paris."

Incidentally one of the fine things about Fay Kellogg, architect—she is also Fay Kellogg, contractor, carpenter and steamfitter—is her sturdy championship of her own sex.

"Have you ever had any trouble with workmen who didn't care to take orders from a woman?" I asked.

"I'd just like to see a man refused to obey an order I gave him." For a moment the woman architect's sweet face had set in a look of contemptuous mastery; and stripped of the secondary characteristics of sex I saw the soul of steel that had overridden laws and the prejudices which are stronger than laws.

Gen. Funston's Great Story, "Memories of Two Wars"

Named to Command Gomezs' Artillery

(In this chapter Gen. Funston continues the story of the terific Siege of Guaimaro. The Cuban rebels had gained one blockhouse inside the town and the Spanish were sweeping the position with a storm of bullets.—Editor.)

CHAPTER VII.

By GEN. FREDERICK FUNSTON.

After Janney's rescue of Devine the garrison tired of sweeping the hill with their fire, and gave us a respite, simply sending in an occesional volley.

In the meantime General Garcia, accompanied by several officers of his staff had reached the hill for the purpose of examining the captured position, one of his orderlies being killed at his side shortly after his arrival on the summit. Owing to the inevitable loss of life involved in the undertaking, the general determined to wait until nightfall before attempting to install a gun in the blockhouse.

We artillerymen recognized the wisdom of this decision, though, maddened by the action of the Spaniards in trying to kill Janney while he was rescuing a wounded man, we could scarcely possess our souls in patience until we could have a chance to blow them out of their blockhouses.

After supper we brought up the old twelve-pounder. A port hole was made on the side bearing on the town and before daylight we were ready for business.

Just as the sun came over the horizon Osgood landed a shell squarely on the Isabella fortin, and for a couple of hours deliberately shelled that work and others in the vicinity. As always when these fragile blockhouses were under artillery fire, the enemy left the structures and fought in the trenches around them, where only by chance were they liable to suffer casualties from our shells. Here, however, our slight elevation above town gave us some advantage in this respect.

Our infantry supports were well covered in standing trenches on the flanks of the blockhouse, these having been constructed during the night, so that there were no groups to draw the Spanish fire. The result was that the enemy paid little attention to us.

It was finally noticed, however, that once a minute a bullet would come through our port hole, or strike very near it. Some exceptionally fine sharpshooter was giving us his attention.

On one of my runs to the blockhouse to announce the result of a shot, one of these bullets came in the port hole just as I entered, missing me only an inch or two. Several of those serving at the gun had had narrow escapes, and everybody was keeping as much as possible out of the danger zone.

After several unfortunate shots had been made, Osgood stooped over the gun to make on the sight a correction for wind. He had adjusted it satisfactorily, and made the remark, "I think that will do," when all of those near by heard a bullet strike him with the sound like a baseball being thrown against a building. He sank across the trail of the gun, unconscious, and was lifted from it by his horror stricken comrades and hurried down the hill to one of the dressing stations. He did not recover consciousness, and in four hours was dead. The bullet had gone through his brain.

The little group of aliens, fighting in a strange land for a cause not their own, were sore stricken. For a while we did nothing but sit in the blockhouse, well back from the fatal port-hole, and gaze in awe at the spatter of blood on the gun trail and note the devilish regularity with which the missles from the sharp-shooter's rifle whistled past us.

A staff-officer who was in the blockhouse with us had hastened to headquarters with the news of Osgood's certainly fatal wound. It was General Garcia's desire that Cox having served directly under him should succeed Osgood, but Gomez overruled him, and I was from that time in command of the artillery of the Departmento del Oriente.

It was rightly guessed that the sharpshooter was stationed in the church tower, a distant of eleven hundred yards, and I determined to make it my special duty to kill him if I could.

It was subsequently learned that he was an officer using a rifle with a telescope sight. As the gun had not been touched since Osgood sighted it, I ordered the lanyard pulled, and a shell smashed its way through one of the blockhouses. The poor fellow's last work had been well done.

But hit the church tower I could not, owing to the defective ammunition and strong gusts of wind, though I struck the roof of the building within a few feet of it several times.

During the night of this day we brought up one of the two-pounders, cut a port-hole for it to the left of the larger gun, and placed it in position. The projectiles fired by this piece were too small to do much damage, but its accuracy was wonderful, and it had ammunition that had not been damaged. The next morning our friend in the church tower resumed operations, and we promptly went for him. Every shot fired at the tower from the little gun struck it, one shell, as we subsequently ascertained, striking within a foot of the small window from which the officer was firing. They had the desired moral effect, and we had no more trouble with the tower sharp-shooter.

All this while the Cuban infantry had the town closely invested, and from time to time there would be lively fire fights between them and the defenders of the trenches.

Time hung heavily on our hands, but we had some diversions. One night Huntington made a one-hand raid on the town. He crawled through the Spanish lines, roamed unchallenged through the streets, and came back with a fine turkey.

Inspired by this feat, Charles Carlos, Garcia's negro servant, who had known the town well in times of peace, begged his chief for permission to enter and endeavor to obtain a supply of Spanish delicacies from some of the abandoned stores. He wormed his way through the grass, crawled under the barb-wire entanglements, reached the centre of the town, and returning after five hours the exultant negro deposited his cargo at the feet of his waiting and appreciative master, whose friends promptly gathered about to see the result of the raid. By the light of the camp-fire the sack was emptied of its contents, eighteen cans of house paint! (Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons.)

CLAUSE MAY NOT BE LAWBOOK LAW

But It Never Has Worked Appreciable Injury to Ball Players.

JUDGE MAKES POINT

Judges influenced more by technicalities than horse sense in the interpretation of contracts are inclined to the belief that the ten-day release and the reserve clauses in baseball contracts are not good because they lack mutuality and it remained for Judge Foell in his decision against George "Chief" Johnson, who jumped the Cincinnati club to go to the Kansas City Federals to recognize that the provisions have been incorporated in these playing agreements year after year and have worked no appreciable damage to the players.

The reserve clause is an absolute necessity to baseball and it is contained in the Federal league agreements just as it is in those the magnates of older organizations seek to enforce. It is simply attacked by men who desire to get into baseball to make money as a means to and end to lend the color of justification for repudiating agreements that are at least backed up by moral law and ought to be binding.

Judge Foell's decision was an awful blow to the Federal league as it will make thinking players who are under contract to other leagues hesitate a long time before they burdle their obligations for a little money consideration that is not worth breaking faith for—even admitting that any amount of money justifies the breach of a solemn agreement.

Imagine the chaotic conditions that would follow the elimination of the reserve clause. Suppose that every player under contract should become a free agent at the expiration of each season. Why, it would wreck the game in a year and the players who are now getting fat salaries would be without employment other than that which afforded most of them less than a tenth of what they are getting under present conditions.

Cobb, Speaker, Milan, McInnis, Collins, Baker, Harry, Mathewson, Marquard and five more of the best pitchers in the game would be on the team of the owners who could put up the most money and the race would be settled in each league before it had started. Gate receipts would not pay salaries and baseball would die.

Ordinarily the people who oppose the reserve clause and other conditions in baseball do not understand them. For instance a youngster breaks into the game in class D. He will likely get $50 to $100 a month for five months in addition to his schooling. Suppose he shows good form and is bought or drafted by one of the major leagues and found in need of experience. He will be sent to class B, where he will get all the way from $150 a month to $200 and if he develops he can go higher where salaries range no lower than $2,500 a year.

In his progress upward he is bound by the reserve clause and if he were not he couldn't possibly advance because no club would take a chance on him unless it was reasonably certain that he would be available when wanted. Once in the majors he can get a salary commensurate with his ability provided that the club to which he is attached can keep him, teach him the art of playing ball and finish him to an extent that he will yield a return on the investment.

Summed up a baseball contract may be technically illegal and hard to enforce under the statutes but the game occupies a peculiar position in its business relations. The game has maintained a plane higher than that of any professional sport ever known to the world. It affords millions of people amusement every year, it affords thousands employment and the man or men behind the clubs are the ones taking the chances.

Players take none. Organized ball forces the payment of obligations of all kinds reaching down to the players in their private debts and when Judge Foell said that the men had been signing year after year with their eyes wide open and that none had suffered injury he recognized the foundation stone of the game and the necessity for its existence.

All owners do not profit in baseball. More than half of them lose and that quota would gladly step out from under if it were not in so deep that it is forced to take a chance on having a couple of good years to break even.

PFEFFER CALLED FIND OF SEASON

HE STARTED HERE

Leslie's Illustrated Weekly in a recent issue paid a handsome compliment to Edward "Big Jeff" Pfeffer and cited instances where his cool nerve and masterly hurling carried him through some very trying situations.

Some well-meant advice that went wrong prevented Fort Wayne from buying this big hurler back from the Denver club where he had been sent by St. Louis.

Pfeffer was recommended to Jack Hendricks by George Huff, then physical director at the University of Illinois, and reported to Fort Wayne in the spring of 1909 and was farmed after a once-over to LaCrosse, Wis., and recalled the next year. While he worked in Fort Wayne and his showing was not impressive because apparently lacked interest.

The next season he was third in the list of winning pitchers in the league and was drafted by the St. Louis Browns and sold to Jack Hendricks at Denver. When he was placed on the market by the Grizzlies Claude H. Varnell was advised by Hendricks not to buy him on account of his physical condition and Grand Rapids took him over. His record there his first season seemed to justify the advice given by Hendricks as he barely won half of his games. This advice was given with the best intentions and was an honest opinion.

Last season with a championship team behind him he came into his own and with his health improved he was the big factor in winning the flag for the Blacksox. Before the close of the season he was sold to the Brooklyn team where he is making great headway. Pfeffer was a popular player here and his rise in the profession will no doubt be well received. The Leslie story is as follows:

"Each season some young pitcher, hitherto unknown to the fans and whose ability was not much more than suspected even by his team mates, has come to the front with a rush and proved the sensation of the season. Smoky Joe Wood was a splendid example of this kind of twirler, and dozens of others whose names are familiar to every rooter could be mentioned in the same category.

"Today the eyes of all the regulars in the baseball world are turned toward Jeff Pfeffer, the sensational young twirler of the Brooklyn Nationals, and prophecies are heard on all sides that he will turn out to be the pitching find of 1914. One of the first stunts he was called upon to perform this year was to tame the Giants, several times champions of the parent league, and he accomplished his task with complete satisfaction to every one except the players who tried to pound his slants and the Manhattan fans.

"When he faced the McGrawites he did not have to face any particularly critical situations, as his superb pitching kept his opponents from being very dangerous. But a few days later, when the Superbas were playing the Yankees, he was rushed in to pull a contest out of the fire, and he encountered and overcame such odds that the fans were satisfied that he was amply supplied with the right kind of nerve and coolness to qualify him for a place among the twirling elite.

"When Jeff was called on to relieve Aitchison in the eighth inning the Phillies were in a position to win a game which had seemed safe for the Brooklyns. There were two men on bases, only one out, two runs needed to tie the score and the heavy end of the Quakers' batting order due at the plate. A scratch hit by Byrne, the first man to face Pfeffer, increased the hinger's difficulties.

"Lobert, Magee and Cravath were due to bat in the order named, but Jeff never turned a hair, and if Kid Elberfeld, who had relieved Egan at short, had not dropped an easy chance for a double play Pfeffer would have pulled through without a run being scored. As it was, Mayer tallied on Elberfeld's bobble. The bases were still crowded, with only one needed and Magee at bat.

"Jeff promptly fanned the slugging outfielder and made Cravath pop up an easy one for the third out. In the ninth, after a single had been made, he retired three pinch hitters. Watch young Jeff. It will probably be worth while."

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Can the Federal league last?

The question has been asked so frequently since the slump in attendance that as thorough an investigation as is possible has been made.

The Federal league can last—practically league will do well to break even, with perhaps five clubs on the circuit losing money in spite of the interesting race.

There is no sign of the Federal league weakening. It is losing money steadily now in six of the eight cities. Pittsburgh at home is not drawing enough to pay hotel and traveling expenses. Brooklyn is doing wretchedly. Buffalo, after a brief spasm of enthusiasm, has dropped back to even attendance with the Internationals. Kansas City is not drawing well enough to pay expenses. Baltimore is doing very well, and perhaps might break even, not counting the initial investment. St. Louis has been a disappointment after the first spasm. Chicago may break even.

The American league is holding its own during the off year in spite of the Federals. But the National league has been hit terribly hard. In Cincinnati the only bright spot exists. The Reds are drawing better than they have in years, and is within 30 per cent in attendance of last season.

Beyond doubt the Federal league owners would welcome an escape from the position into which they have forced themselves and organized baseball.

The American league appears to be striving to force a settlement of the war—a settlement involving only the other clubs.

President Gilmore, of the Feds, announces that, within sixty days, baseball will have the greatest sensation it has ever known. Gilmore has sent out word to the club owners of the Feds to keep their hands off players of the American association, Western league, Pacific Coast league, Northwestern league and International league.

LOUDERMILK HAD ONE BAD CROUCH

Had Expected to Be Called on to Humble His Former Pards.

HE GOT IN AND LOST

"Wha' d'ye know about that, Harry? I ain't going to pitch. Everytime I get a chance to win somebody else is worked in my place. I'll be a son of a gun if that ain't tough luck."

"Lefty Louie" Loudermilk ridded his system of this little growl just before the final encounter with Grand Rapids at the Varnell campus yesterday because he had been informed that Stevenson, a new man obtained from Omaha, had been slated for mound duty. Harry Lake was his audience.

Truth of the matter is that Loudermilk wanted to humble his former pards and realized that his best chance to do it was with the club crippled badly but when he took up the running in the second with the score knotted he finally was beaten by a great rally in the eighth and wound up the matinee performance by trying to toss a perfectly good dollar-and-a-half ball over the grandstand.

He was really and truly peeved. A young woman in the grandstand who insisted that she was Loudermilk's "lady friend" and that she had gone to the game just to see him perform, was also peeved as she seemed positive that he would hold his cherished old chums in check until the dilapidated champs could trample them.

Reliable Bill Cramer, who is growing fat on two raw eggs before each game and who is holding his own by a course of expert massaging of his arm in which both he and his wife take part in their home on Edgewater avenue, was called into the going and with that old early hoodoo working hard against him he pitched a style of ball that baffled the Blacksox and held them helpless until that little rally in the eighth was staged at the psychological moment and gave the abreviated game to the home talent.

Grover Cleveland Young was the hurling selection for the afternoon and he lasted one round and part of another because he had nothing in his repertoire to deceive anybody.

Neither did Stevenson for that matter and he was also hooked after the opening chapter. Martin opened the session with a double against the right field bank, taking third on a wild pitch after McLafferty had been caught out by the catcher on an attempt to bunt.

Hollderman kicked in with a single that sent the pilot home and Bratchi came back with a cap to center after which Freddie Brant routed one down the left foul line for a pair of bases and cleaned up the bags. With Beyers out Smykal was passed and Diem hit, netting the fourth run of the inning.

With this margin to work on Young was driven out in the second. Tydeman annexed a single for a starter and Hughes hit a double to right on which Tydeman was held at third but he scored later on Castle's cap and after Steil had hit the grapplers were applied to Young.

Cramer celebrated his entry into the game by slamming the ball to the overflow bleachers in an attempt to get a runner at third on Killilea's bunt and a couple of runs went over and before he quit the inning the score was tied.

With a pair scrapped in the third Smykal, who had forced Beyers for the second out, was given a life on Eddie Justice's muff of a thrown ball that was intended to prevent a theft of second and scored on Diem's two-base hit.

Tydeman demonstrated his value to his club when he was passed in the sixth, stole second and third and counted the tieing run on Hughes' out at first. With a time limit set on the game which made it necessary to close at 5 o'clock, Fort Wayne went into the eighth and Harry Martin put on a piece of good base running that gave his club the one run needed to win the game.

He rolled an easy grounder to Eddie Justice who fielded it badly and lost it and with two gone the manager beat it for home on Bratchi's double. Bratchi stole third and Brant sent him home with a single and the game was called.

REAPERS ARE TO STAY THIS YEAR

Will Not Be Moved Out of Springfield and Will Be Stronger.

AFTER NEW PLAYERS

Springfield, O., June 4.—The Reapers will represent Springfield in the Central league during the remainder of the present season. That was the announcement made by Roy Clark, business manager, upon the return of the club.

Mr. Clark immediately began notifying the advertisers who have fence spaces and score card spaces that the team is to remain in Springfield. He gave them assurances that the contracts with them would be carried out to the letter.

It is also stated that several new players will join the club before the stay at home is completed. Manager Stanley is endeavoring to strengthen the club. One or two more infielders, and possibly an outfielder and a catcher, will appear.

If the men Stanley has in view can be secured The Reapers are sure to climb, provided the pitchers continue the article of ball which they have been doing. Every member of the staff has been giving a good account of himself and they are not to blame for the loss of the games on the last trip.

The team has just been throwing games away. The exhibitions witnessed here by local fans are simply an example of what happens on the road trip. After winning eight out of the last nine games at home the club lost eight out of nine games in a swing around the circuit.

TRACK ELEVATION EAST IS PURPOSE

THE MUNICIPAL NEWS

Track elevation east of Calhoun street is scheduled as the paramount subject for discussion at a meeting of the council committee on track elevation called for this evening by Chairman Peter A. Ofenloch, member from the Seventh ward. Mayor Bosey and Messrs. Singrey, Kelly and Hilgeman, of the board of works, will meet with the committee. The purpose of the meeting is to get to some sort of understanding as to what shall be the municipal government's track elevation program for this year if anything at all is to be done in that direction. People of the Seventh, Eighth and Tenth wards are anxious for some indications of grade separation east of Calhoun street and the joint meeting will try to map out a program and arrive at some conclusion as to possibilities. The completion of the Wabash railroad's unfinished grade separation at Harrison and Taylor streets and Thompson avenue are not likely to enter into the discussion. That is nothing is to be done respecting these improvements but wait until the vicissitudes of the Wabash permit a completion of its track elevation work west of Calhoun street.

NOLL JUDGMENT IS PAID.

Park Board Settles Award Growing Out of Thieme Drive.

The park board, at its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon, handed to William H. Noll a warrant on the city treasurer for $3,383.50 in settlement of the judgment awarded by the circuit court as damages to the Noll property by reason of the Thieme drive improvement. This is the conclusion of a vexing and prolonged incident of the establishment and improvement of the beautiful drive along the St. Mary's river opposite Swinney park. The board sought to have Mr. Noll make arrangements at once for construction by private contract of a sidewalk and combined curb and gutter in front of his property on Thieme drive in order to close up an ugly gap in the footway. When the board constructed the sidewalk, curb and gutter on the drive it did not touch the Noll frontage because the litigation that grew out of Mr. Noll's appeal from the damage assessment fixed by the board was yet pending. Mr. and Mrs. Noll left Thursday for Europe for an absence of several weeks and the board very greatly wished to have the sidewalk constructed at once. Mr. Noll thought the matter could wait a few additional weeks.

The park board will order the improvements desired in Foster park by the Southwest Civic Improvement association and they will be paid for by assessment of the property owners in that district. Messrs. Young, Fredericks, Bicknell and Fisher, the committee appointed by the association at a recent meeting, met with the board Wednesday, urged a shelter house, a comfort station, cement approaches, adequate water service and improved tennis courts for Foster park. The committee told the board the people of that part of the city would pay for the improvements if the board would order the betterments made.

SMALL GRIST FOR BOARD.

At a late hour little had been developed for the board of works to dispose of at its regular meeting tonight. The board will confirm assessment rolls for sidewalks in Anderson avenue, from Spy Run avenue east, and for sidewalks on south side of Leith street from Calhoun street to Lafayette street.

DIGGING INTO BIG SEWER.

Street and Sewer Superintendent Strodel and his men continued the excavations in the cave-in in Erie street between Hanover and Howard streets today to determine if the walls of the intercepting sewer have fallen. The men are down about ten feet and have almost thirty feet yet to go. There is little doubt that the sewer will be found badly breached at this point.

Owen Johnson.

New York, June 4.—"The advanced woman has advanced beyond the influence of the church," says Owen Johnson, author of many breezy college tales. "The American woman of today is not in awe of anything; she has turned her back on the church and men will have to step in and fill the pews. The next generation will see men closer to the church than they are now, and women just that much farther away. The women will try to make their revolt complete; it will be social, industrial and moral."

JUDGE FLEES A LOADED PISTOL

THOUGHT IT EMPTY

Detroit, Mich., June 4.—Seated in his court room yesterday afternoon, Municipal Judge Christopher Stein, jr., looked into the barrel of a loaded revolver, while an excited woman pressed her finger against the trigger. She thought the weapon was not loaded. The presence of mind of the justice and prompt action of court attaches probably saved Mr. Stein's life.

Fay Wells was on trial, charged with disturbing the peace. A policeman alleges she had pursued her husband around their house, waving a loaded revolver and threatening to shoot. The husband took the stand and produced the pistol.

"She pointed it right at my head, judge," said Wells, "and she was going to shoot."

Mrs. Wells, who was seated near her husband, grabbed the weapon and jumped to her feet, brandishing it.

Spectators in the court room gasped. The revolver was pointed straight at the judge and the hammer seemed to move. Like a flash Mr. Stein sought shelter behind the bar of justice.

"Grab that gun," was the judicial order, sounded from the recess of the judge's bench.

CIRCUS EMPLOYES HURT.

Ringling Train Meets With Accident on Pere Marquette Line.

Saginaw, Mich., June 4.—Eight employes of Ringling brothers' circus were injured severely when two sleepers and a flat car of the first section of the circus trains, en route from Flint to Port Huron, over the Pere Marquette railroad, were thrown from the track at Hoyt Junction, just east of Saginaw, shortly before midnight last night. It is said the accident was caused by a brakeman throwing a switch before all the cars had passed. The eight men were brought to a hospital here. A number of other employes were bruised but they continued with their circus. All of the injured are expected to recover.

MAN OVERBOARD PUTS RACER OUT

IN DRENCHING RAIN

Associated Press Boat off Glen Cove, L. I., June 4. Vanitie, Alexander Cochran's cup defense candidate retired from today's race with Resolute less than thirty minutes after the boats had crossed the starting line because of a man overboard and difficulty in recovering him.

With her rival out of it, Resolute rounded the first windward mark and then swept back to leeward a distance of nine miles in all, winning the race and placing two victories out of three starts to her credit.

Driving rain and flying spray drenched the crews this afternoon as the cup defender candidates started their third trial race in Long Island Sound. With their lee rails awash the yachts got away at 1 o'clock in a thirty mile breeze. The sound was covered with foam and the race promised to be a test of heavy weather qualities.

As in yesterday's race the course today was to windward and leeward, 4 1-2 miles across the sound and back with a repeat, eighteen miles in all. The Vanitie crossed the starting line more than a minute ahead of her rival but the Resolute pointed higher in the thrash to windward and began to eat down the lead.

WANTED TO KILL ALL HIS FAMILY

VICTIM OF INSOMNIA

Suffering from insomnia for several days, Walter Romalski, a Roumanian, became demented Thursday morning, and after first threatening to kill all members of his family living at 1720 Hanna street, conceived a very bold plan for murdering all the people living in four brick houses along South Hanna street.

He started out with a well loaded 32 calibre revolver to carry out his threats, when a short time later Dr. George W. McCaskey called the police station and reported that an insane man had visited his office. Later another report came from the Dreier drug store, corner of Calhoun and Brackenridge streets, that a man with a revolver was in there, and a clerk, luckily detained him until Plainclothesman Spillner arrived and placed him under arrest.

He is now quieting down behind the bars at the city bastile. When searched a roll of $100 was found in his clothing. The man had been wandering about the city in a semi-demented condition for several days.

CITED TO APPEAR IN CONTEMPT CASE

NEWS OF THE COURTS

A writ issued by Judge Powers, of the DeKalb circuit court, cites William F. Peters, of Fort Wayne, to appear and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt for failure to be present this week in that tribunal at the hearing of the suit of Mary L. Banet against him for $25,000 damages for breach of promise to marry. The trial of the cause was set down for this week in the DeKalb circuit court, to which tribunal it was sent on change of venue from Allen county. The defendant failed to appear and the plaintiff's attorneys, Hans C. Meland and Emrick & Emrick, procured from Judge Powers an order citing the defendant for contempt. The suit, which was filed a year ago last winter, charges that the defendant promised to wed the plaintiff, who formerly was employed by him.

Boy Wants $5,000 Damages.

Harold Kallenbach, a minor, has commenced suit in the superior court against Allan Martin and the Rolf-Martin company for $5,000, alleging damage by personal injuries received June 1, 1912, while he was in the employ of the defendants. He says he was ordered to remove some shavings in the defendants' factory and that in the performance of his duty he fell upon a machine and received injuries that cost him three fingers. Negligence is charged in that the defendants had failed to have the machine properly guarded to prevent just such accidents as the one that occurred.

Notes of the Courts.

In the superior court Agnes B. Crawford has begun suit against Helen B. Crawford and several others for the partition of real estate.

Hattie Baughman was given judgment in the circuit court against Jacob Swandner for $400. The suit involved a claim for wages for service and was against the estate of the late Mary Swandner.

Frank Wells, the former regular army man who attempted to hold up the saloon of John Durnell, west of the city, one Saturday night a few weeks ago and failed when a patron of the place seized and disarmed him, entered a plea of guilty in the circuit court and Judge Eggeman sentenced him to two to fourteen years in the Jeffersonville reformatory.

Earl Reed was given a divorce from Clara Reed by Judge Yaple in the superior court and Mrs. Reed was awarded custody of a child and allowance of $6 a month for its support.

Henry Williams has been cited to appear to answer contempt charges in the superior court for failure to obey an order to pay his former wife, Alice Williams, a periodical allowance for the support of children given into her custody when a divorce was granted.

NEW GEYSER IS FORMING.

Disturbance on Mount Lassen is Not of Volcanic Nature.

Red Bluff, Cal., June 4. Forest Supervisor W. J. Rushing, after an inspection made on Mount Lassen, which last week was in eruption said today that he had found a cavity 100 feet in diameter covered with ashes about a foot thick. He says the hole is 100 feet from a frozen lake in which the ice is melting and the water running into one of the heated fissures forcing up ashes and mud. It is thought another geyser is being formed similar to that Bumpass Hill, nearly four miles distant where steam and water are being thrown out nearly all the time. The phenomenon is a geyser action and not volcanic.

"Yes, both roads are represented on the New Haven board. The Pennsylvania is a very large stockholder."

"Do you think that interlocking directorate works in the public interest?"

"I think so, yes. We get a tremendous traffic from the Pennsylvania. I believe the public gets a better service by our working together."

"In other words, by cerating a transportation monopoly," suggested Mr. Folk.

"By no means. Such an arrangement creates no monopoly. It works for the betterment of both the roads and the public."

Mr. Skinner was questioned by William Nelson Cromwell, appearing for several of the directors.

"About twenty, I think."

"Were not these various financial transactions brought before the board in a general way after details had been worked out by officials of the various departments?"

"These matters were presented in summary form by Mr. Mellen. He would make suggestions and give his views."

"Were these matters presented in writing and passed around at the meetings?"

"Some of them were."

"Were the decisions of the board in these matters generally unanimous?"

"Usually they were. If any serious objections were raised to any transaction, action was postponed."

What Caused Trouble.

"What brought about the troubled conditions of the New Haven? Was it not the necessity of disintegrating some of the properties acquired, which under various laws the New Haven had to dispose of after it had bought them?"

"That had a good deal to do with it."

"You were not able to finance the New Haven as other large railroad systems are usually financed?"

"No, we were not. We were obliged to finance the system from year to year. Difficulties grew out of state laws and inquiries and public criticism."

"The purchases of trolleys and other properties, as I understand it," said Mr. Cromwell, "were made with some other view than the material value at the time the properties were acquired. Wasn't the object to make permanent the New Haven system."

"That is correct."

"Did Mr. Morgan at the directors' meetings show any desire to dominate or dictate?" Mr. Skinner was asked.

"Not that I recall. He was away in Europe much of the time and couldn't attend meetings regularly.

Following Mr. Skinner's testimony, Mr. Ledyard was called, but was not sworn. He said he desired to contradict certain statements made by Mr. Mellen in his testimony. On the Boston and Maine board, he said, he represented the largest holders of stock in the American Express company.

the confederate monument in Arlington National cemetery today resulted in a semi-filibuster which delayed consideration of the railroad securities bill, the last measure on the administration anti-trust program.

Efforts to settle the difficulty without parliamentary obstructive tactics failed and a roll call was ordered. Representatives favoring adjournment declared their intention to force the house to quit.

According to a statement made by Mayor J. Leb Watkins the stains and blotches on the red undershirt which was found in the basement of the cellar of Dr. W. A. Winters last Friday night are human blood stains. Watkins said he was given this information by Prosecutor Walter R. Myers, but Myers refuses to confirm the statement. He insisted that the state chemist has not even had the undergarment. The shirt was found in a cement block in the basement of the Winters home and was the direct cause of affidavits against the three for alleged conspiracy.

Statement Contradictory.

Members of the Winters family have explained that a bed was made for a cat and her kittens in the basement, and it is asserted that the garments were found in a basket and not in the cement wall, as contended by Detective Robert H. Abel. The detective, two policemen and a newspaper man found the articles, and all assert they were not found in a basket. Abel is said to have told members of the Winters family that they were found in a basket, but it is said this was done for a reason.

Former Chief of Police Alec Gorman of Richmond, visited Newcastle yesterday and spent a few hours investigating the case. Gorman held a long conference with Mayor Watkins, who said he was as much at sea as any one. Detective Abel, it is said, has resumed his investigation, which led him to another state. He is expected to return before the charges of conspiracy against Winters, his wife and Cooper are tried.

Mayor Watkins who went to Albany, Delaware county, yesterday to see a man who said he could find the body of Catherine Winters, refused to make public any of his conversation with the man.

munication of the Niagara mediators and a report of a conference last night between John Lind, Juan Urquidi and other constitutionalist counsellors here but that no reply was expected for a day or two.

All Eyes on Carranza.

Carranza loomed today as the crux in the mediation situation. Upon his message to the South American envoys hung the immediate scope of diplomatic endeavor to bring order out of war's chaos in the southern republic. The note was expected definitely to determine whether mediation was to be confined to the dispute between Huerta and the United States or to include the entire problem of Mexico pacification, with the constitutionalists represented at the Niagara conference.

Carranza at Durango was in telegraphic communication with his agents here until late in the night. They transmitted to him the note of the mediators which had been written in reply to his message expressing "astonishment" that the Niagara proceedings had been started without constitutionalist participation. It was believed Carranza's answer would not be delayed. It is expected to reach here today but there were indications that it would not be made public until after it had reached the mediators through Rafael Zubaran, constitutionalist minister of the interior in charge of the Washington agency.

The outcome of the negotiations anxiously was awaited by administration chiefs. They were hopeful that the way might be declared for the constitutionalist leader to enter the conference so that all of the elements now figuring in the southern republic's plight might be brought together to discuss terms of restoring peace.

MUCH DEPENDS ON IT.

Carranza Reply Likely to Shape Entire Course of Mediation.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 4.—While waiting to hear from Gen. Carranza whether he would send delegates to the conference here the mediators planned today to continue such work as would not be affected by the constitutionalist answer. The feeling is general that the attitude taken by Gen. Carranza in his reply probably will shape the entire course of the mediation hereafter and perhaps have a direct effect on the Washington government's reply toward the two factions in Mexico.

Those who have seen the mediators' note to the constitutionalists say that it is so phrased that they can find therein a dignified way of enering the negotiations, notwithstanding their previous objections.

WANTS ACTS LEGALIZED.

This the Price Huerta Demands for Retirement, is Report.

Vera Cruz, June 4.—The price Provisional President Huerta demands for his retirement is the legalization of his official acts since his appointment to the provisional presidency, according to advices from the capital today.

This is said to be the proposal Gen. Huerta authorized his delegates to offer at the mediation conference at Niagara Falls. Gen. Huerta is said to realize that he has only a slim chance of winning out, but he is understood to be determined not to abandon power without adequate provision being made for the protection of his own future and for that of the men with whom he has surrounded himself.

Opera Singer Will Marry "The Tinman."

Anna Fitzhugh

New York, June 3.—Anna Fitzhugh, grand opera star, was a chorus girl in "The Wizard of Oz" when David Montgomery made his starring debut as the droll "tin man" in the same play. Miss Fitzhugh is now a grand opera singer with a European reputation and she'll return from Paris soon to become the "tin man's" bride. This is her second matrimonial venture, but Montgomery has been looked upon by the theatrical profession as a confirmed bachelor.

INSPECTING THE WABASH

BRAKEMAN ADMITS CAUSING WRECK

S. E. Cotter, general superintendent of the Wabash, is out on an inspection trip over the system and spent two or three hours in Fort Wayne this morning, looking over the freight yards and shops. He left at noon for Toledo. "Business is light," Mr. Cotter said, "with but little prospect of immediate improvement." He is being accompanied over the division by Supt. J. C. Sullivan, Division Engineer W. S. Danes and Master Mechanic G. W. Smith.

FLAGMAN TELLS THE STORY.

Ray Hammond, the Wabash flagman, who disappeared after the fatal wreck at the Deer Creek bridge near Delphi Thursday, returned to Delphi yesterday and in his testimony before Coroner Buck told his version of the affair. He had been sent to flag trains approaching the bridge and had placed torpedoes on the track for two trains. Before No. 82 arrived, however, he had a dizzy spell and sat down beside the roadbed. He did not place the torpedoes on the track for the eastbound freight No. 82, as he thought he would have no trouble stopping the train. His illness continued, however, and the freight reached the crossing where he was sitting before he knew it. He jumped to his feet and waved his flag to the engineer and fireman as the engine passed. It was too late to stop, however. After the crash he went to the wreck and then was advised by another railway employe to run away. He went to Lafayette and took a train to his home in Decatur that night. He then returned for the coroner's inquest.

As foretold by The Sentinel yesterday H. A. Philley has accepted the office of general secretary of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. He assumed the duties of the office this morning. Speaking of the situation, Mr. Philley said: "All is new to me and I am looking into matters today with a view of learning something about the management of the building. I expect to put in a great deal of time in increasing the membership, as I find that an important part of the work at present." Joseph C. Brake, assistant chief clerk at the road foreman of engines' office, has taken up the duties formerly performed by Mr. Philley and there will be no immediate other changes out there. Mr. Brake has been employed in a clerical capacity in the road foreman's office for a number of years and is familiar with every detail.

"A DEVICE OF SATAN."

Was Opinion of School Board in 1828 Concerning Railroads.

A Wellsville, Ohio, man has a letter issued by the school board of Lancaster, Ohio, in 1828 in reply to a request from some young men for the use of the school house to hold a debate on the "Advantages of Steam Railroads," which were then in the incipient stage and practically unknown to the people of Lancaster. The letter reads as follows:

"You are welcome to the use of the schoolhouse to debate all proper questions in, but such things as railroads and telegraphs are impossibilities and rank infidelity. There is no word of God nobut them. If God had designed that His intelligent creatures should travel at the frightful speed of fifteen miles an hour, by steam, He would clearly have foretold it through His holy prophets. It is a device of Satan to lead immortal souls down to hell."

AFTER CULVER STUDENT BUSINESS.

Culver Military academy closes the 1913-1914 term of school today and the several hundred students will leave for their respective homes tonight and tomorrow. This makes business for the Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate. The Pennsylvania will furnish a special train of seven coaches which will leave Plymouth at 11:45 o'clock tomorrow morning for Chicago. District Passenger Agent F. P. Parmin and Local Agent C. A. Pritchard are at Culver today looking after the interests of the Nickel Plate, which gets a big share of the eastbound travel from the academy. That road does not run a special train, however, the time of the regular trains being just right to handle the business.

ADDED TO HONOR ROLL.

Sixty-four names were added to the pension list of the Pennsylvania east and west of Pittsburg. Fifty-three were on the lines east of Pittsburg and eleven on the lines west. Among the latter were Theodore Bley, the yard conductor, and Emil F. Huberkorn, the machinist, of Fort Wayne. On the first of May there were 4,123 pensioners on the Pennsylvania list east of Pittsburg and 1,023 on the lines west of Pittsburg. For the First Time Since It Was Built the New Steel Pay Car of the Pennsylvania Company is in Fort Wayne

Sentinel Staff Photos.

Pennsylvania pay days are always big days in Fort Wayne, but the June pay day was made notable by the appearance of a new steel pay car just out of the shops. It is handsomely finished in mahogany, provided with luxurious sleeping quarters and office appointment, but no photographs of the interior are permitted under company rules. Paymaster P. G. Cramp, shown above, and G. R. Flagler, below, were in charge during the stay here.

The first Fort Wayne resident to appear before Paymaster Cramp in the new car yesterday and receive his wages was Capt. H. C. Stoll, of the Pennsylvania police department. Lieutenant E. S. Alexander, who is represented as standing in the door of the car, joins the paymaster as soon as he reaches the division and remains with the car constantly until it is turned over to another division.

A Suggestion for Better Service

Our equipment in turbines, generators, feed and distribution lines is absolutely up-to-date. We keep our facilities for serving you as a customer in perfect working order. We are sure that our service, up to the sockets in your building is beyond criticism.

But we cannot go beyond your sockets or outlets unless you will help us. Your responsibility for the kind of service you get begins there. Of course, you use Mazda lamps, because they are three times as efficient as Carbon lamps. But do you use the light they make in the most efficient way? You cannot do this without proper reflectors, because you must re-direct and concentrate the rays of light.

Holoplane reflectors are designed to give you the maximum amount of light where you can use it best, and will increase your useful light 100% at no additional expense. Do not continue using bare lamps or an incorrect type of shade because by so doing you are losing a large part of what you are paying for.

Our representative will be glad to give you full information and advice in your particular case; whether it be in office, storeroom, factory, home or outdoor lighting.

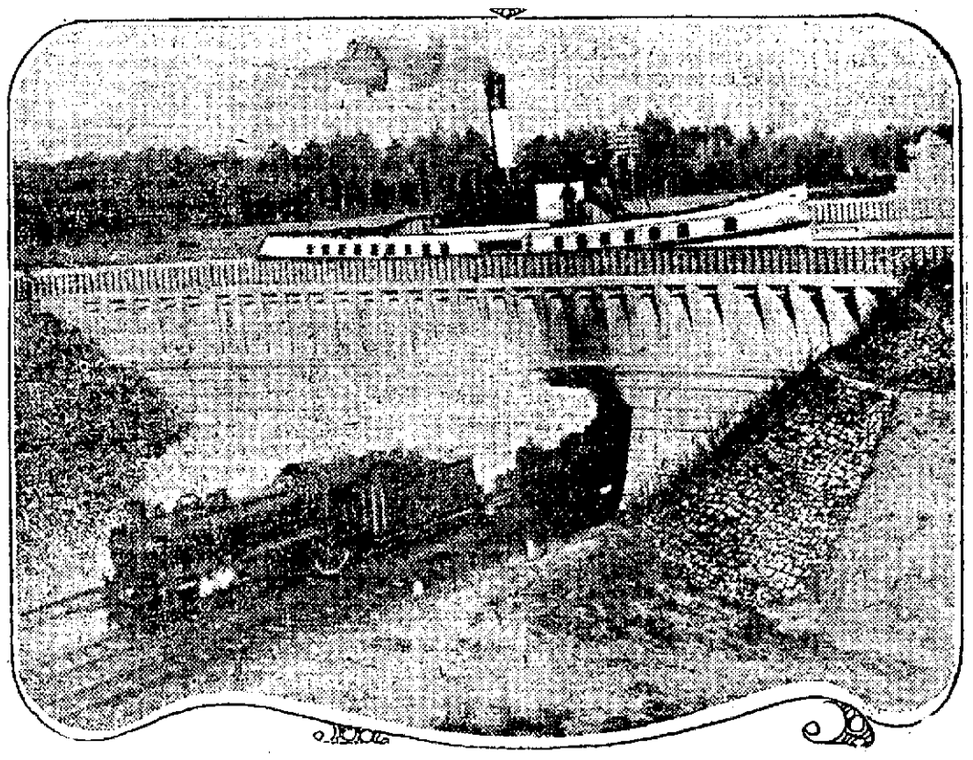
FREAK GERMAN CANAL TRAVELS OVER HIGH RAILWAY TRACKS ON A BRIDGE.



Here's a freak feat of engineering on the new $10,000,000 German canal, between the Rivers Havel and Odel. Reversing the usual position, passengers on boats sail calmly across a bridge over the railway tracks, instead of being forced to travel under a railway bridge and perhaps wait ignominiously for the draw to open.

HIM? WHY, HE'S GENERAL MANAGER

WHEN WALLACE COMES

The brisk and hustling person who predominates in the stir and activity, hurry and excitement, at the main entrance of the circus is the general manager.

He answers questions innumerable and all embracing, settles all disputes as to admission, conveys advice, makes suggestions, gives orders, sends lieutenants all over the show grounds with instructions, sees to it that the crowd gets in safely, and is in general in active charge of the "front door."

His is a very important department of circus life, requiring peculiar natural talents, wide experience, correct knowledge of civic affairs and laws in general. The grave responsibilities of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus rest upon the shoulders of Col. B. E. Wallace, the owner and manager.

Col. Wallace is the first man off the cars in the morning and his day's work generally ends when all of his comrades are sleeping with the peace and vigor perfect health and a clear conscience affords. No task is too small or menial for Col. Wallace to perform. For half a century he has been a showman and through his long years of perseverance and honesty he has amassed a fortune of ten million dollars. Yet on a bad, rainy night it is not an uncommon sight to see him working and wrestling in the mud up to his knees, lighting and struggling with the "razorbacks" who draw a dollar each day. This wizard circusman knows most of the employes by the first name and there are none of them who would hesitate to do him some favor.

Col. Wallace generally eats in the tent which houses the executive staff, but it is no uncommon sight to see him eating next to a humble workingman when in a hurry. In all the world of tented life the world has yet to see the equal of "Uncle Ben Wallace, the Hoosier Circusman," says the New York World, and the statement is correct. The big show will come to Fort Wayne Tuesday, June 16, for performances at 2 and 8 p. m. and a parade at 10 o'clock.

WORLD-FAMOUS ARTIST ESCAPES MEXICO.

SENORA E. de MORELOS, WORLD-FAMOUS ARTIST.

San Francisco, Cal., June 4.—Senora E. de Morelos, who arrived here recently with her husband from Vera Cruz where they underwent the three days' fighting when Admiral Fletcher took possession of the Mexican seaport, places the entire responsibility for the battle upon the shoulders of Gen. Gustave Maas, commandant of the port.

"Despie the fact," said the senora, "that President Huerta had ordered Maas not to resist the landing of the Americans, the general declared he would fight. Then, coward that he was, when the first squad of American bluejackets came ashore, he fled o the hills after releasing 700 imprisoned rurales. It was these rurales who did the 'sniping' from housetops."

Senora de Morelos is a world-famed portrait painter, and is known in the world of art under her maiden name of Mlle. Laure Prevot. She is a graduate of the famous Ecole des Beaux Arts of Paris.

19. Insurance.—The contractor shall procure and deliver to the city and maintain during the continuance of the work, fire and liability insurance policies in an amount providing an indemnity and issued by an insurance company or companies approved in writing by the city, and insuring both the contractor and the city.

20. Patent Rights.—All royalties for any patented invention, article or arrangements that may be furnished by the contractor and used or embraced in the work hereunder shall be paid solely by the contractor, and the contractor shall protect and save harmless the said city against any and all claims, demands, proceedings, judgments and costs, including attorney's fees, on account of any such royalties; and the contractor shall pay all judgments against the city on account of any thereof before they become enforceable liens against the city's property. Should any suits for infringement of patents be brought against the city before the payments herein provided for, or any of them, are made, the contractor shall give a bond in amount and with sureties satisfactory to the city, to indemnify the city against judgments, costs and attorney's fees before demanding any balance hereunder. Should any injunction be threatened or issued which would or might stop, hinder or delay the work, the contractor shall promptly secure dissolution thereof by giving bond or otherwise, or at the option of the city, shall promptly cease the use of the patented article or arrangement complained of.

21. Time for Work. The contractor shall begin the work on or before the 16th day of May, 1914; the rate of progress shall be such as, in the opinion of the engineer and said city board, is necessary for completing it on or before the 1st day of August, 1914, and the contractor shall finish and complete all the work to be done hereunder on or before the last-named date.

23. For each and every day, Sundays and holidays excluded, that the work shall remain unfinished after said date, the sum of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per day shall be paid by the contractor to the city and may be deducted by the city from any moneys due the contractor, which sum is hereby agreed upon as liquidated damages for loss to the city on account of expense to the city due to the employment of engineers, inspectors and other employes after the expiration of the time for the completion and on account of the value of the operation of the work to be completed hereunder, and other work dependent thereon.

24. Delays; Extension of Time.—Should the whole or any part of the work be hindered, delayed or suspended by the company or by acts of God or casualties, or by the abandonment of the work by the employes through no fault of the contractor, or other thing, which the engineer and said board shall deem sufficient cause, the contractor shall have a corresponding extension of time, to be determined by the engineer and said board; provided, the contractor shall give the city notice in writing of claim for such extension of time within seven days after any such reason therefor shall arise.

25. Payments.—For the work, labor, materials and other things done and furnished by the contractor in place hereunder the city shall pay to the contractor:

$14,400.00 for the building, complete, excluding the crane.

For extra excavation, per cubic yard, 75 cents.

For extra concrete in footings, foundations, per cu. yd., $7.00.

For extra concrete in floors and roof, per cu. yd., 15 cents.

For extra reinforcing steel in place, per pound, 4 cents.

For extra brick work in place, per thousand, $14.00.

For extra fabricated steel in place, per pound, 4 cents.

I beams, channel irons, angle irons, etc.

26. Payments thereof shall be made as follows: On or before the fifth day of each month the engineer shall make an estimate of the amount and cost at the price herein specified of the work done during the month preceding, a copy of which, bearing the approval of the engineer and said board, shall be forwarded to the contractor; and on or before the tenth day of each month the city shall make a payment to the contractor of 85 per cent. of such estimate.

27. The final estimate shall be made by the engineer within fifteen days after the completion of all work, labor, materials and other things to be done or furnished by the contractor hereunder, and shall not be due and payable to the contractor until he has complied with all the provisions hereof and discharged all debts, liens, obligations, claims and charges against said work or him arising out of said work, and made proof thereof satisfactory to the engineer and board, if required, that there are no debts, liens, obligations, claims or charges unpaid arising out of said work or for which the city may become liable.

28. The acceptance by the contractor of final payment on final estimate shall be conclusive evidence of his acceptance and approval of estimates, accounting, deductions and full payment by the city for all work, labor, materials and services done or furnished hereunder, and of full satisfaction, discharge, release and waiver of all claims and demands of or on behalf of the contractor against the city arising out of this contract and the execution thereof.

29. Extra work, when ordered by the engineer or board in writing to be done as extra work, shall be done by the contractor and paid for at such rates as shall be agreed upon by the city and the contractor, and failing such agreement, at the actual cost of labor and materials, plus 10 per cent., which shall cover supervision, use of tools, appliances and machinery overhead, office and general expenses and profit; and no claims for extra work shall be allowed unless so ordered prior to its commencement, and presented in writing on or before the tenth day of the month following that in which such work was done. Payments therefore shall be made by the city on the regular pay day following receipt by the city's or engineer's certificate therefor.

30. Contractor's Books. The engineer shall have access to the contractor's books and accounts, if he shall deem it necessary to determine the city's rights or the contractor's obligations hereunder, or to ascertain any facts relative to any claim against the contractor which may become a charge against the city or the work.

31. At Contractor's Risk.—The city does not guarantee the accuracy of plats or borings, nor the position of pipes or other underground objects. The contractor shall take all risks and responsibilities of the fitness or sufficiency of any methods, ways, works, appliances which the city may have adopted prior to the execution hereof preliminary to or in aid of the work covered by this contract, and shall inform himself by examination of the conditions at the site of the work.

32. The contractor shall take all risks and responsibilities on account of quicksands, springs, character and position of bedrock and the like, and floods, frosts, freezing, fires, all action of the elements, casualties and other difficulties encountered.

33. Time of Delivery by City.—The city does not guarantee the time of delivery of tools, machinery, materials or other things, nor the continuity of electric service, but will use its best efforts to meet the needs of the contractor in deliveries undertaken by it.

34. Changes in Plans, Etc., by City.—The city may make alterations in the line, grade and minor details of plan, form, dimensions or materials for the work, either before or after the beginning of construction, providing such alterations shall not change the general character of the work as a whole. If such alterations increase the amount of work or materials, such increase shall be paid for according to the quantity of work or materials actually done or furnished, and at the prices and rates fixed herein for such work or materials, if so fixed; otherwise as extra work.

35. Termination of work by City.—The city shall have the right at any time to terminate or suspend all or any part of the work under this contract or to decrease the amount thereof, and in such case the contractor shall be paid for the work done and materials furnished at the rates of payment fixed hereunder, to be determined by the engineer and said board, or, in case of dispute, by arbitrators as hereinafter provided.

36. City May Take Over Work.—If the work to be done shall be abandoned by the contractor, or if this contract be assigned or sublet by him, or if he loses control of the work from any cause, excepting the acts of God and the public enemy, or if at any time the engineer shall certify in writing to the city that the contractor refuses or neglects to provide sufficient and properly skilled or other labor, sufficient materials of proper quality, or fails in any respect to prosecute the work with diligence, or that the rate of progress from whatever cause is not such as to insure its completion within the time specified, or that the work or any part thereof is unnecessarily delayed, or that the contractor is violating any of the conditions or covenants of this contract, or is not executing this contract in good faith, the city, on not less than three days' written notice to the contractor, and the surety on his bond, may require the contractor to discontinue all work, or any part thereof, as may be assigned by the city, and thereupon the city may take and the contractor shall deliver possession of the work and all tools, machinery, teams, implements and machinery on the site thereof, or the part thereof as the city may require, and the city may thereupon complete said work, or any part thereof, by contract, or may take over the work or any part thereof and employ such labor and obtain such machinery, implements, teams and tools, and purchase such materials as the engineer may deem necessary to complete the work, or any part therof, and in so doing the city may use such tools, machinery, implements, teams and materials as may be found on the site of the work. The cost of doing such work shall be charged to the contractor, any any moneys that may then be due, or may at any time thereafter become due, to said contractor hereunder, or any part thereof, shall be applied by the city to the payment of such cost, so far as same shall be paid by said contractor to the city on demand.

37. The city shall not be held to obtain the lowest prices for the work of completing the contract, or any part thereof, nor for insuring its proper completion, but all sums actually paid therefor shall be chargeable to the contractor.

38. Damages to Contractor. No damages, direct or consequential, nor anticipated profits on the work not actually completed, shall be claimed by or allowed to the contractor on account of any changes, alterations or delays in, or suspension, discontinuance or termination of or taking over and performing any of the work hereunder by the city.

39. Performance by City of Contractor's Obligations. On failure or refusal by the contractor to pay any claim against him or the work, or arising therefrom, and which may become a charge against the city or its property, whether it shall arise or be presented or discovered before or after final payments to the contractor hereunder, the city, on notice or knowledge thereof, shall withhold the amount thereof from any payments due or to become due to the contractor hereunder, and on not less than three days' notice in writing to the contractor, may pay or settle or compromise any such claim or do and perform such obligations, and the contractor shall pay to the city the actual cost thereof on demand, or the same may be deducted from any sums at any time due or to become due by the city to the contractor.

40. Other Contractors. In case other contractors or the city are engaged upon or in connection with said work or any part thereof, the contractor shall allow them full access to their work and all proper means for performing the same in connection with his, and shall comply with all the directions of the engineer with reference to their proper accommodations.

41. Acceptance on release.—Any imperfect or unfaithful work which may be discovered before final acceptance of the work shall be corrected immediately by the contractor, and any unsatisfactory materials shall be rejected, on the requirement of the engineer or said board, notwithstanding that they may have been overlooked by the proper inspector. The inspection of the work shall not relieve the contractor of any of his obligations to perform sound work as herein prescribed.

42. Failure or neglect on the part of the engineer or any of his authorized agents to condemn or reject bad or inferior work or materials shall not be construed to imply an acceptance of such work or materials if it becomes evident at any time prior to final acceptance of the work; neither shall it be construed as barring the city at any subsequent time from the recovery of damages or of such a sum of money as may be needed to build anew all portions of the work in which fraud was practiced or improper materials used whenever found.

43. No Waiver of Rights.—Neither the inspection of the city, its engineer or any of its employes, nor any order, measurement or certificate by the engineer, nor any order by the city for the payment of money, nor any payment for, nor acceptance of the whole or any part of the work by the engineer or the city, nor any extension of time, nor any position taken by the city or its employes, shall operate as a waiver of any provision of this contract, or any power herein reserved to the city, or any right to damages herein provided; nor shall any waiver of any breach of this contract be held to be a waiver of any other or subsequent breach. All remedies provided in this contract shall be taken and construed as cumulative; that is, in addition to each and every other remedy herein provided; and the city shall have any and all equitable and legal remedies which it would in any case have.

44. Interpretation: Decision by Engineer.—The plans and specifications are intended to be explanatory of each other. Should any discrepancy, errors or omissions in either appear, or further plans or specifications be required, or any misunderstanding arise or explanation of plans or specifications or of any portion of the contract be required, the same shall be corrected, furnished or explained by the engineer, and the effect thereof shall date from the written notice by the engineer to the contractor.

45. The engineer and said board shall decide every question which may arise between the parties or with other contractors concerning the work, or in and about the execution of this contract or any of its terms, and their decision shall be final and binding upon both parties except as to such matters as it is agreed herein shall be submitted to arbitration.

46. Definition; Engineer.—The word "engineer" used herein shall mean the consulting engineer of the city. He may be represented on the work by assistants or inspectors appointed by him who, during any absence of his, shall have and exercise only such powers and authority as he shall delegate in writing. The word "board" used herein means the board of public works of the city of Fort Wayne.

47. Contractor's Bond.—The contractor shall deliver to the city within ten days after the execution hereof, a bond with surety or sureties acceptable to the city in the sum of seven thousand dollars, conditioned upon the faithful performance by the contractor of all the terms and conditions of this contract, including the payment to the city of all sums for which the contractor may become liable to the city hereunder. No payment to the contractor shall become due or payable hereunder until such bond has been executed and delivered, and accepted by the city.

48. Notice to Contractor's Bondsmen.—No notice need be given by the city to the surety on the contractor's bond of any act or thing hereunder except as herein specifically provided, and lack of such notice to such bondsmen shall be no defense to any action on the contractor's bond.

49. This contract expresses all the agreements and understandings between the parties hereto concerning the subject matter, and supersedes all previous contracts, understandings or agreements, whether oral or written, relating hereto.

50. This contract shall bind and inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of the parties hereto, but this provision shall not be taken to modify the restriction against assignment by the contractor hereinbefore contained.

In witness whereof the parties hereto have caused their names to be hereunto affixed by their proper officers and the individual parties have affixed their signatures hereto, the day and year first written above.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, June 4.—Favorable weather over the entire domestic winter and spring crop regions put the wheat market today under considerable selling pressure. Besides, Oklahoma dispatches said that although rust spores were manifest no damage had yet become apparent. After opening ¼@⅜c to ½@⅝c lower, the market suffered a material additional setback.

The close although steady was at a net decline of ¾@⅞c to 1@1⅛c.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, June 4.—Execution of the small amount of orders on hand at the opening of the stock market today had little effect on the level of prices. In most cases quotations were raised by small fractions but there were a few weak spots. Lehigh Valley fell back 1⅛ to 134, a new low figure for the movement. New Haven lost a point. The decline in these shares affected the rest of the list. Can made the best showing, gaining a point.

After a series of uncertain fluctuations the market moved upward generally shortly before noon. Indications of an over-extended short interest were seen in the ready absorption of highly speculative stocks but general buying was of small proportions, with the demand coming almost entirely from the floor traders. Bonds were steady.

The market closed firm. Increasing strength characterized the dealing today, after the hesitation caused by concerted attacks on special issues had worn off. Steel made a more definite response to the improved character of trade news, rising to 61¾. General buying slackened toward the end.

DAILY MARKET LETTER.

Chicago, June 4.—Wheat is now under the shadow of the next Monday report. Rather think foreigners will go slow until they see the figures. It will evidently be a week or two before the northwest runs into damage as their rain supply is fairly good. Under these circumstances wheat bulges will hardly hold against the report. Corn has run into a period of fluctuation and stocks may increase a little. Other than the position of the old corn crop months is sound. We believe September oats will rally quickly from the dips. The forecast for rains over a wide section. Our oats reports of today indicate a June condition of about 85. The Argentine has recommenced liberal sales of cash to the east. The wheat bulge of yesterday was entirely a cash wheat affair. The government weekly weather report arrived today and others examined carefully indicated from 16 to 20 states dry. Softness in the grains today was mainly the result of recent advances. Wheat news from Kansas and Nebraska continues to be the best.

IT SOUNDED SO.

(By John Perry)

Maud Myrtle Johnson, famed throughout the world of crooks as "The Faker Queen," is back again in Walla Walla, Wash., penitentiary!

Once she escaped conviction to it by playing upon the jury with her wonderful dramatic power. Once she was paroled from it, simulating serious physical breakdown.

But each time her spirit lured her to "play the game once more." And the game that had won $20,000, and had defrauded scores of corporations, finally "got" Maud Myrtle Johnson herself.

The game consisted in receiving serious "injuries" in a railway accident—and then suing for damages. "The Queen of Accident Fakers" was fit for the game. She could dislocate ankles, knees, and even a rib, at will! Her chest was malformed. By biting her gums gently she could produce a copious flow of blood.

For the past two years she has spent most of her time stumbling over suit cases, falling from street cars, being thrown out of Pullman berths, or collecting damages from municipalities for injuries received on defective sidewalks.

The faker queen has borne more than twelve different names in those two years. She has victimized 30 public service corporations.

Finally one day she appeared in Seattle. She collected $600 from the Seattle Electric company in March, 1909. Her chest had been injured by falling on a suit case. She spat blood; her eyes became dilated. Her voice became husky. There was a quick settlement and a quick get-away.

I was the attorney for the state in that trial in Seattle, and I learned there to share somewhat in the feeling of the spell which this woman was able to cast over all those with whom she came in contact.

We had tried to proved that she was a crook. But we were unable to prove that she had not been injured. She had witnesses who swore she had been.

So she won. She had her $600—and the vindication of the court in which she had been tried. She was free to go and she went. But the lure of the game went along with her.

The very train that was carrying her away gave a sudden lurch. The familiar suitcase was in the aisle. Perhaps by error, perhaps by force of habit, she tripped over it when the train stopped at the little town of Yacolt, Wash.

The claim agent was properly impressed. He was more than glad to settle. He paid $1,250 in cash! And was a much hurt young man when he reported to the main office in Portland and was told that he had been swindled.

This time we captured her. For the first time she found a case too strong for her. She was sentenced to the penitentiary.

She had not been in the prison at Walla Walla twenty-four hours before she was busy at the game again!

There were no hard tasks in the laundry for her. She still had handkerchiefs in her pocket, blood in her gums and a misshapen chest.

She was not allowed to take her baby with her to the penitentiary but she could write about it and talk about it and "long" for it, and this she did with all the ardor of her artistic soul. There was a campaign of sympathy which has seldom been equalled, aroused in press and women's clubs.

The result was that Mrs. Johnson was paroled in the custody of Mrs. R. C. McCredie, president of the Washington Federation of Women's Clubs. She was taken to Mrs. McCredie's handsome home at Sunnyside, Wash., to rest from her prison experience and recuperate her shattered health.

About two weeks later, a woman was picked up beside a station platform in Blaine, Wash., near the Canadian border. She said she had been injured on a train. She complained of pains in her chest. She spat blood. Her voice was husky. A few hours later, her right eye was dilated. She gave another name but she was speedily identified.

Today she peels "spuds" again in Walla Walla, and counts the days until her five years shall have expired.

ALL WAS QUIET ON THE POTOMAC

THEY HAD A SCRAP

Washington, June 4. All is a flurry of preparation among the fishermen along the lower Potomac these days, for the spring shad and herring season has begun. If any one thing has made the Potomac river famous it is the delicate flavor of Potomac shad.

This year marks the real opening of a war between the fishermen at the mouth of the Potomac and those who seine the stream miles further up, toward Washington. The army engineers, having authority over the navigable waters of the United States, have been drawn into the fight, and, recognizing the fairness of the claims made by up-river fishermen, the army engineers have been enforcing their orders against stake nets places across the river channel at the mouth of the Potomac.

Early in the springtime the herring and the shad leave the bay and ocean and start up the Potomac for the spring spawning season.

Norfolk is the market for the lower-river men and in the general greed to make most of the short season these men placed stake nets far into the river channel, practically monopolizing the spring catch, as the shad and herring are unable to make their way upstream.

Upstream Fishermen Protest.

The first intimation of the war came last spring. The Norfolk fishermen, unmolested by the army engineers, spread their stake nets almost all the way across the lower river. After the close of the spring the Washington fishermen took the matter to the war department, asking for help.

A short time ago the engineer service vessel Castle left Washington for the lower river. The army engineers promised to give the up-river men all the help possible. The Castle steamed into the lower river fishing grounds and found that the stake nets had been arranged to prevent all but a small portion of the spring "run" of shad and herring from making their way upstream.

Not only are the army engineers determined to break up the practices of the lower river fishermen, but stake nets have been torn up all along Chesapeake bay and some points along the Atlantic coast.

How Shad Are Netted.

Camps are located at intervals along the river, the fishing privileges at the best-known places bringing fancy prices from fishermen. A "full" river and a good, high tide are requisites of shad and herring fishing along the Potomac.

At the first streak of dawn the seine, often from a half mile to a mile long, is loaded into a boat. Two or three hundred yards from the shore the seine is first put into the water. Weights drag the lower edge into the water, and corks keep the upper edge at the surface.

The fishermen row a course parallel to the shore. The seine is slowly fed overboard, and to the watchers on shore it seems like the placing of little corks at intervals along the surface.

The slow current displaces the corks but a trifle and long ropes are attached to each end of the seine and brought ashore, where they are made fast to a windlass. A horse is hitched to the windlass and the ends of the net begin to draw shoreward. The seine slowly takes the form of a great crescent, sweeping inshore in a mile-long semi-circle.

Slowly it comes without a pause, and the netted terror silently and relentlessly draws in upon the spawning schools of shad and herring that are lying not far off shore. As the net draws upon them they swim shoreward.

Fairly Alive With Fish.

Closer and closer creeps the seine and more and more agitated becomes the surface of the water. The fishermen begin to peer anxiously into the water. As one looks, the fact dawns upon one that the water is fairly alive with fish.

The windlass never pauses and the strings of corks are creeping closer—fifteen yards, now ten, now five yards, and —then! There is a final heave and the great belly of the seine flops its weight of fishes on the sand.

Before the day is over a little fishing schooner will sweep close inshore and tie up at a little temporary dock. There will be ten, maybe fifteen, perhaps twenty barrels of fish to load for the Norfolk and Washington markets.

OVERTURNS COURT MARTIAL.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4.—By direction of Governor Ralston, Adjutant General F. L. Bridges, of the Indiana National Guard, has disapproved of the special court martial, which in February found four Indianapolis members of the guard guilty of disobeying orders, when the state militia was called out during the street car strike in this city.

The order was issued after the governor and his law advisers had investigated the legal questions and decided that the special court martial was illegal. Gideon W. Blain, judge advocate of the Indiana National guard, held that the men should have been tried before a general instead of a special court martial. It is probable that in order to maintain discipline the men will be tried before a general court martial.

By the order John K. McGreary is saved from serving six months in jail and paying a fine of $100 and James Lawson and Ernest Roberts are saved from paying small fines. Fred B. Wease, the fourth guardsman convicted by the special court martial, accepted the decision and served ten days in jail.

At a special session of the members of the Turnverein Vorwaerts held Wednesday evening it was definitely decided that a nextension be built to the present building and that work be started immediately. Plans and specifications were presented at the meeting and it was found that a rough estimate of the cost of the enlargement would be $7,000.

A building committee was appointed by the president, Otomar Stiegler, to submit a report on the proposed improvement at the next meeting in July. The committee is composed of Max Irmscher, G. Roggen, Prof. H. Meyer, A. Hickman, H. Korte, V. Kalleyer and E. Junghans.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah DeFrain were held this afternoon from Trinity Episcopal church. In the list of surviving children previously printed the name of a son, Edward DeFrain, was inadvertently omitted.
